JAPAN MAKES QUICK DRIVE; BATTLE RAGES

TANKS PUT INTO ACTION

Tokyo Denies Plan to Extend Offensive Beyond Wall.

Tokyo (Wednesday), Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The war office declared today that at present there is no intention of extending operations at the Great Wall pass of Chiomenkuo farther southward than the Great Wall, and emphatically denied that an invasion of North China on a big scale is planned.

Japan is still hopeful that the situation at Shanhaikwan, the Chinese city at the east end of the Great Wall, can be localized, the war office asserted. Officials characterized as ridiculous the suggestion that a formal declaration of war was possible.

Surprise Attack Made.

Peiping, China, Jan. 10 (U.P.).—The Japanese today threw picked troops into a surprise attack on Chiomenkuo, a strategic gate in the Great Wall, launching a new major offensive in their campaign to effect the complete subjugation of the Province of Jehol.

The battle raged through the day, with the Chinese regulars fighting fiercely to repulse the invaders and prevent them from piercing again the historic wall.

The Japanese opened up with a heavy artillery bombardment, following with infantry and cavalry charges and an intermittent aerial bombardment.

Occurs Near Shanhaikwan.

The battle occurred about 10 miles northwest of Shanhaikwan, seized by the Japanese a week ago. The Shanhaikwan sector remained quiet, aside from troop movements.

The Japanese moved cavalry from Chinchow and infantry brigades from Shanhaikwan toward Chiomenkuo, on the inside of the Great Wall, while their major force attacked that strategic point from the outside.

The Chinese issued a communique declaring they still held Chiomenkuo late in the day as the battle proceeded. The reports to Peiping authorities came from the front by radio.

Chinese Well Entrenched.

The Chinese troops were well entrenched, their generals reported to Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, young commander in the North China area. They intended to resist until overpowered, they said.

Japanese airplanes continued to bombard Chinese troops along the Jehol frontier northwest of the major fighting. Armored trains from Nanling and Chaoyaung fired on Japanese infantry.

The Japanese field armies brought up tanks. A three-column advance of infantry, supported by planes, tanks and artillery, through Kailu, Chaoyang and Chiomenkou was anticipated as the Chinese continued to dig in for a siege.

Marshal Chang's own cavalry, the Third Regiment, was ordered to make a counter-advance from Chiomenkou, and fell into the thick of the battle on that sector.

Man Bares Threats on Life of Smith Reynolds' Son by His First Wife.

Atlanta, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—E. E. Conroy, of the United States Bureau of Investigation, tonight said he had in custody a man who admitted writing letters to Joe Cannon, wealthy textile manufacturer of Concord, N. C., threatening to "kidnap or kill" Cannon's infant granddaughter, a child of the late Smith Reynolds by his first wife, Joe Cannon, jr., a student in a Rome, Ga., school.

The investigator said the man gave the name of O'Dell C. Boyles, and that a woman taken into custody with him said she was Boyle's wife. The letters demanded ransom ranging from $10,000 to $20,000.

Officers said they caught the woman as she picked up a package planted in an unoccupied house in Hapeville, an Atlanta suburb. Conroy said the package had been wired so as to ring a bell when it was lifted, warning the waiting officers.

Boyles was arrested a short distance from the house and the two were taken to the office of Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole, who worked with the Federal officers on the case for the last several weeks.

Conroy said some of the letters to Cannon referred to the kidnaping and killing of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., the reference being "See what happened to the Lindbergh baby."

7½-POUND BOY BORN TO LIBBY HOLMAN

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (U.P.).—A son, potential heir to the $18,000,000 tobacco fortune left by his late father, Smith Reynolds, was born to Libby Holman Reynolds, one-time "torch singer" of Broadway, at the Pennsylvania Hospital tonight.

Both the baby and Mrs. Reynolds, who went through the ordeal of indictment following her husband's death by shooting early last July, were reported to be in satisfactory condition.

The baby weighed seven and a half pounds and the birth was expected, it was said.

Announcement of the arrival of the Reynolds heir was made by Dr. Norris W. Vaux, Mrs. Reynolds' personal physician, who said only that "Mrs. Reynolds had a baby boy born at 6:48 p. m., and her condition and that of the baby are satisfactory."

Mrs. Reynolds, who had been staying for some months with friends in Wilmington, Del., arrived at the hos-

Alwar, Rajputana, Northern India, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—One thousand British troops arrived here today to reinforce state soldiers harassed by antigovernment activities of Moslems.

An airplane was used today to survey the district occupied by the rebels. Four armored cars were held in readiness for immediate action. Reports reaching here from Ramgarh and Godingarh today led to considerable uneasiness.

Factional disorders between Moslems and Hindus broke out in the small native state of Alwar recently when Hindus refused to join antigovernment demonstrations. Numerous dwellings and shops were looted in various parts of the country.

ARMS EMBARGO RATIFICATION IS PLEA OF HOOVER

BORAH COMMITTEE DUE TO MEET TODAY

Appeal Urges More Power for President; Spurred by Stimson Letter.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Hoover dispatched a special message to Congress yesterday designed to curb the international traffic in arms and munitions. The Senate has had before it for the last seven years an international convention for the control of the arms traffic. The presidential message urged prompt ratification of this convention.

However, in the event that the present Senate persists in withholding approval of the international convention, the President pointed out the necessity of conferring on the Chief Executive broad powers for the restriction of arms shipments in cooperation with other nations to countries either actually in or on the verge of war. Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson wrote a letter to the President last Friday which emphasized the juridical necessity of such additional powers.

Committee Is Called.

Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, convoked a meeting of his committee for today to discuss the President's message and the arms convention.

The inception for this arms control measure originated with Secretary Stimson, who has been anxious for some time to implement the Kellogg Pact with some additional guarantees of international cooperation. He has endeavored to work out some method which would discourage the efforts of arms filibusters and at the same time recognize the legitimate commercial interests of American manufacturers of arms, airplanes and ammunition.

Entire Effort Thwarted.

This emphasized in his mind the necessity of making any arms control measure contingent upon its acceptance by other manufacturing nations as well. In cases where the President has been forced to declare an arms embargo on shipments of war materials in the past, the action of the United States has made it that much easier for other manufacturing nations to obtain the munitions business and the entire effect of the President's gesture has been thwarted.

Therefore, Col. Stimson, whose experience with the activities of the Capture Without Battle Includes Ammunition and Foodstuffs.

Asuncion, Paraguay, Jan. 10 (A.P.). The minister of war announced today that the Paraguayan Fort Mariscal Lopez, 100 miles southeast of Fort Munoz, had been abandoned by Paraguayan troops and was occupied by Bolivians without a fight.

Capture of the fort left the Bolivian army entrenched more deeply in the lower Chaco than at any time since the boundary controversy became an international issue in 1880. In a battle, December 27, in the Fort Saavedra section, the minister of war added, the Bolivians lost twelve officers and 450 rifles, and other war materials were recovered by the Paraguayans.

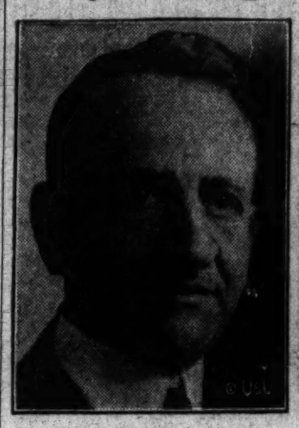
The Bolivian army now has penetrated to within 150 miles of Concepcion and 175 miles of Asuncion. Ammunition, foodstuffs, cattle, horses and mules were captured at Fort Mariscal Lopez, and the Bolivian troops reached headwaters of the Aguaray Guazu River.

20 Wounded as Police Battle Berlin Fascists

Berlin, Jan. 10 (U.P.).—A score of persons were wounded tonight when Fascists and police fought a running pistol fight at midnight in a public park in the northeast labor quarter. Three Fascists were arrested.

The trouble started when 400 Fascists forced an entrance to a Communist mass meeting. Police reserves cleared the hall by using batons, but some of the Fascists sought shelter behind trees in the park and fired on the police. They were finally dispersed.

Banking Bill Delayed By Long's Filibuster



Senator Glass (left) whose banking reform bill is being held up in the Senate by a filibuster conducted chiefly by Senator Long (right), who objects to provisions for extension of branch banking.

Fate of Glass Measure Is in Doubt as Result of Attack.

(Associated Press.)

The Glass banking bill was wavering at the verge of an uncertain fate last night after an organized filibuster led by Huey Long, of Louisiana, prevented a vote on its most controversial feature—that permitting State-wide branch banking.

Assisted by several other Democratic liberals, all of whom have favorite projects of their own to press, Senator Long held the floor in opposition to the branch banking provision for four hours and a half, then yielded to let the Senate consider the $31,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill.

This only temporarily laid aside the sweeping bank law revision proposal of Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, but Long was prepared to continue his fight to kill the branch bank clause or recommit the bill, which will mean no banking legislation this session.

BALLISTICS EXPERT TO SCAN BOMB CASE

Police Hope Study May Give Clew; Will, Filed, Fails to Clarify Mystery.

A ballistics expert of Baltimore will reach Leonardtown, Md., today to make a detailed examination of the bomb-shattered automobile in which Miss Ida Kirk was murdered.

State's Attorney John Briscoe decided to call an expert after a conference with Capt. Edward McK. Johnson, of the Maryland State police.

Detective Sergt. William Peehley and Walter Martin, aiding the investigation, late yesterday went to Baltimore to follow a clew that Miss Kirk's murder might have been plotted there.

Mr. Briscoe and the detectives hoped the examination this morning will show conclusively what type of explosive was used to blow up the aged spinster's car and perhaps reveal some proportion of the material used to attach the bomb which they might trace.

No information toward solution of the case was learned through the questioning of Nigel H. Dixon, 35, authorities declared.

The dead woman's will was filed yesterday at the courthouse, but its contents were not made public, and will not be until relatives have been summoned and appear. Mr. Briscoe said. However, it was learned that study of the document threw no light on the murder of Miss Kirk.

Detectives were chary about details concerning to two sticks of dynamite which they have confiscated.

It was learned that these two sticks have not been traced to any relation with the bombing of the car.

In seeking a ballistics expert Mr. Briscoe telegraphed the U. S. Bureau of Standards. He said he was told there was no one available there for the task.

John Gross, colored, arrested the night of the murder, is still being held on investigation charges at the county jail. However, authorities reiterated their statements they believed he had no connection in the case.

COL. HOUSE IS LUNCH GUEST OF ROOSEVELT

Gerard Also Is Caller, With New York Talks Still Heavily Veiled.

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Democratic diplomats of veteran experience were in lengthy consultation today with President-elect Roosevelt.

The same strict secrecy that enveloped yesterday's six-hour conference between Mr. Roosevelt and Secretary Stimson on foreign affairs was maintained today in the renewal of international discussions.

Col. E. M. House, intimate adviser of President Wilson in the trying wartime days, headed the list of callers at the East Sixty-fifth street Roosevelt home, indulging in a two-hour luncheon conference.

James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, and Sumner Welles, former Undersecretary of State, followed Col. House.

Smiling broadly, the President-elect described the calls as "just social" to newspapermen. Warding off persistent questioning with the same disarming smile, he again warned against speculation. As for any developments from the Stimson parley, he would only say "wait and see."

The diminutive Col. House, wrapped in a heavy overcoat with a fur collar, referred questioners to Mr. Roosevelt, but he did say he was not undertaking any special mission.

"You must remember that I am in my seventy-fifth year," he said. "I did not accept office under Woodrow Wilson when I was twenty years younger. My advice to this man is to rely on young men and not us old dodo birds."

Late in the day, Mr. Roosevelt received a detailed report of operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation on loans for self-liquidating projects and for railroads from Harvey Couch, of Arkansas, Democratic member of the Reconstruction Board.

Considerable interest was shown in these propositions, but no announcements were forthcoming. Of course, the corporation is still under the operation of the Hoover administration.

Eight Youths Are Arrested As 'Thrill Theft' Suspects

Boys Are Said to Admit Series of Housebreakings and Taking Autos and Gasoline; Several Are Members of Well-Known Families.

After months of searching for what was believed to be a shrewd and deftly working auto theft and housebreaking ring, police last night announced the arrest of eight youths who, it was said, admitted to participation in a series of crimes, committed "for the thrill of it."

The arrest of the alleged "gang," which includes the son of a Metropolitan police sergeant, the son of a retired lieutenant commander of the Navy and others of families of repute in their respective communities, was brought about after the discovery of a clever bit of auto tag "artistry" on a stolen car.

The youths readily led police to caches where they uncovered $2,000 worth of imported Italian lace, stolen from the automobile of an importer, and $1,000 worth of auto and household goods. They also admitted, police said, to the theft of more than 1,000 gallons of gasoline from autos, the breaking in of at least 100 automobiles and the stealing of four others.

Booked at the Eighth Precinct Station, they gave their names as Louis Carroll, 16, 3248 Second street northwest, son of Sergt. R. B. Carroll, of the Second Precinct; Thomas J. Haynes, 19, 2420 Observatory circle northwest, son of Lieut. Comdr. Gideon M. Haynes, retired, and now an engineer of the Treasury Department; Ralph B. JURY STUDIES TAX PAYMENTS OF D.C. LAWYER

REPORT BY PROBERS IS EXPECTED TODAY

Woman Held in Bond After Refusing to Testify; Attorneys Heard.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 10.—Culminating what is believed to have been a prolonged investigation of the income tax returns of a prominent Washington attorney, the United States grand jury met in special session today to hear testimony from a wide array of witnesses.

Simon E. Sobeloff, United States district attorney, who called the session, declined today to discuss it, but said he thought the grand jury would make a report tomorrow.

The investigation had been in progress for several months prior to its consideration by the grand jury.

Among the witnesses summoned from Washington was a Mrs. Leither Lowe, who was held in custody of the United States marshal after she said she refused to testify before the grand jury on the ground that it would incriminate her.

Woman Freed in Bond.

Mr. Sobeloff ordered her held after she left the jury room. She was locked up in the marshal's cage for several hours and then furnished $500 bail for her appearance as a witness when called.

Among the others who either testified or stood in the corridors of the Postoffice building waiting to testify was Edward B. Dean, sr., prominent retired real estate operator of Washington, who is said to be one of the chief Federal witnesses.

Robert H. McNeill, attorney, who represented Bishop James Cannon, jr., when the latter was charged with violating the corrupt practices act, testified, as did J. William Tomlinson, who, with T. Morris Wampler, represented Gaston B. Means when the latter was convicted of larceny of $104,000 in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping hoax.

Another Washington attorney to appear in the investigation was

Trotzky's Only Daughter Is Gas Suicide in Berlin

Berlin, Jan. 10 (U.P.).—Sanaide Volkoff, 32, only daughter of Leon Trotzky, former Soviet leader, committed suicide by gas last Thursday, it was revealed today. The suicide occurred in a rented room in Berlin.

Trotzky's daughter had been living inconspicuously in Berlin for the last 16 months, arriving from Prinkipo, the island off Istanbul, Turkey, where her father has been living in exile. She had been suffering from tuberculosis and was admitted to a Berlin sanitarium, where she was treated for several months.

LAVAL BACKS PARIS STAND ON WAR DEBT

CRASH VICTIM

JAMES E. CALLAN.

POLICEMAN'S WIFE KILLED WITH CALLAN

Companion of Auto Dealer in Fatal Ride Mother of 10-Year-Old Boy.

The attractive young woman killed with James E. Callan, Washington automobile dealer, as their car crashed head-on with an intercity bus early yesterday was identified in Baltimore morgue last night by a Sixth Precinct policeman as his wife, Mrs. Margaret Helen Mower, 30, of 5512 Fourth street northwest.

Private Eugene Mower, District policeman, made the identification after a brother of the dead woman, Oscar I. Liming, and an uncle, T. M. Decatur, had got in touch with him when newspapers carried a description of the woman which tallied with that of Mrs. Mower.

A 10-year-old son is the other member of the family group hit by the tragic New York-bound ride of Callan and Mrs. Mower. The boy is Eugene, jr., who is staying with relatives in Foxhall Village.

It was expected that a deputy coroner would perform an autopsy on the bodies to determine, if possible, what caused the accident.

Mrs. Mower had been employed as a waitress at the Grafton Hotel, but was to have taken a new job in a downtown eating place. Her husband, advices from Baltimore said, made the identification without any show of emotion.

After the identification, Mower told Coroner Joseph Pokorny, of Baltimore, he and his wife had been living together, but had not been getting along very well, and that of late he had not concerned himself to any great extent with her activities.

He said he last saw her alive when he left his home to report for duty Monday, and she was not home when he returned that night.

As the identity of Callan's companion in the wild ride that climaxed in the crash tragedy became known, the automobile dealer's widow, Mrs. Catherine Rittenhouse Callan, was prostrated with shock at the home of Mrs. Pou Slightly Hurt When Struck by Auto

Mrs. Edward W. Pou, wife of Representative Pou, of North Carolina, was struck by the car of Louis Dinowitz, 42, of 3100 Connecticut avenue, yesterday afternoon at Calvert street and Cliffbourne place northwest.

She refused hospital treatment, and was taken to her apartment in the Wardman Park Hotel. Her injuries are not believed to be serious.

Cubans Riot

Street Fighting in Three Cities Marks Date of Agitator's Death.

Havana, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Street disorders in three Cuban cities today marked the third anniversary of the killing of Julio Antonio Mella, student leader and Communist agitator.

In Havana, police and alleged Communists clashed on Corrales street and five of the latter were wounded, one apparently fatally.

In Matanzas, 60 miles to the east, army forces took possession last night, arrested approximately 100 persons accused of plotting disturbances, and broke up, without casualties, two or three incipient street demonstrations. In the easternmost capital of Santiago one man was wounded in the arm when police and soldiers dispersed demonstrators, seizing communistic banners and placards.

Says Reparations Must First Be Renewed.

U. S. PROMISE OF AID DENIED

(Copyright, 1933, by the United Press.)

Paris, Jan. 10.—Former Premier Pierre Laval said today he believed France should not pay the $20,000,000 war debt installment due the United States last month, or any other of these debt annuities until Germany resumes reparations payments to France.

In an exclusive interview, Laval, who went to Washington a year ago last fall to talk debts with President Hoover, indicated he would oppose meeting the overdue December 15 payment until something about reparations had been done.

He continued to refuse openly to get mixed up in the debts debate now under way in Washington, but strongly intimated that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills were right when they said debts revision or annulment never arose during Laval's visit in Washington.

Two Documents Cited.

Laval placed the origin of the Franco-American debt differences at the door of the Lausanne conference, which he insisted neither he nor President Hoover foresaw when they talked in Washington. Even so, he said, he saw no reason now why France should meet the December 15 installment or any other until Germany was made again to meet her reparations debts, practically cancelled at Lausanne.

He pointed to two documents to support his position, namely:

1—The Hoover moratorium on war debts.

2—The Hoover-Laval Washington communique, or joint statement, on debts after their historic parley.

Speaking on the moratorium, he pointed out that under its terms he insisted on and obtained Germany's payment of the "unconditional annuity" of reparations, which was then lent back to Germany through the Bank of International Settlements at Basel, Switzerland. This, he felt, established definitely the priority of reparations over war debts.

"Rather Definite Assurance."

On the second point, Laval insisted that there was no mention of debts revision in the joint statement, but rather definite assurance that France and the United States would reenter the framework of the Young plan at the conclusion of the one-year moratorium.

He emphasized also that there was also the possibility of prolonging the moratorium within the Young plan and the duration of the economic crisis.

Laval furthermore absolved President Hoover of the blame for the war debts tangle charged by Senator Will-

LITTLE BEER HOPE HELD THIS SESSION

Wails of Ale by Christmas and Later by Easter Now Plain Cries.

By J. BERNARD McDONNELL.

The futile "beer by Christmas" cry, which was so sonorous a few weeks ago but replaced by a "beer by Easter" slogan, has developed into a plain cry for beer with no definite indication when the manufacture and distribution of genuine beer will be legalized.

Assay of the situation in Congress has convinced political observers that the solemn pledge of the Democratic party to modify the Volstead act immediately isn't going to mean much in the present Congress, primarily because senators, sitting safe in six-year terms, do not believe they are bound by party declarations.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, party leader in the Senate, who is destined to be ousted from his preeminent position, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Democrat), of Montana, who has ambitions to be a member of the Roosevelt Cabinet or to be named to the United States Supreme Court, yesterday gave assurances that prompt action would be had on the hybrid prohibition repeal amendment favorably reported to the Senate by the dry judiciary committee the day before.

Called Unsatisfactory.

The repeal resolution, which Senators Robinson and Walsh said the Senate shall have an opportunity to vote on already has been declared by Speaker Garner and Representative Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, unsatisfactory to the House because it does not nearly conform to the party platform.

Representative James M. Beck (Republican), of Pennsylvania, leader of the wet bloc of his party in the House, who is regarded as one of the outstanding constitutional lawyers in Congress, yesterday joined hands with Mr. Garner and Mr. Rainey against the so-called repeal amendment sponsored by the very dry judiciary committee of the Senate, headed by Senator George W. Norris (Republican), of Nebraska.

While he could not speak for the entire group of wet Republicans in the House, Mr. Beck said he will be disposed to vote against the Senate so-called repeal resolution even if it is passed by that six-year term group of legislators.

Mr. Beck has called a meeting of wet Republicans for Friday morning to consider the judiciary committee proposal. For himself, he said, the inclusion of a Federal power to police the States in the matter of retail distribution of alcoholic beverages made it unsatisfactory.

Compromise Claimed.

The Senate repeal proposal, Mr. Beck said, fatally compromises the basic principal of the wet movement which is to restore to the States their ancient right of local self-government.

Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, one of the wets who was washed out of office in the last elections, has called a meeting of his beer subcommittee for today. What will come out of the meeting remains to be seen. There is as wide disagreement between subcommittee members as there is between members of most any group which seriously begins to discuss the fine points about how the Volstead law should be modified.

The subcommittee has before it the Collier 3.2 beer bill which has been passed by the House. The bill is an integral part of the Democratic party's balancing of the budget program at this session.

Prohibition sponsors haven't given up the fight, even if they have given up hope for the House, and are only hopeful about the Senate. Warmed by reports that President Hoover would veto a beer bill, to say nothing of a straight-out repeal resolution, drys outside of Congress are directing their fire to build up the resistance of the President to a veto point.

Say Prohibition a Success.

The Seventh Day Adventists, who are active in opposition to so-called blue laws which might interfere with official recognition of their doctrine that Saturday and not Sunday is the Sabbath on which God should be especially adored, have jumped into the fight through their American Temperance Society. The success which had attended prohibition, the temperance society told the President, justified its continuance.

How best to persuade the President that he should not consider the recent elections as a wet mandate has not been decided on by the leaders of various dry organizations which have called their leaders to Washington to hold the prohibition lines as best they can. Somewhat shocked because they have been so rudely displaced from political power, the men and women leaders of the drys' organizations, none the less, are determined to climb back into the driving seat of the national automobile, and are not going to pass up any opportunities to impress on executive and legislative branches of the Government that they still have power and truly represent a large and powerful section of popular sentiment and voting strength.

Abner Seigle, who recently was convicted and sentenced to serve eighteen months for bribing a jail official to falsify a record to provide an alibi for a client of the lawyer.

Norman Bowles Testifies.

Norman Bowles, disbarred Washington attorney, also appeared. Bowles recently has been indicted in Washington on a charge of embezzling, and recently served 75 days in jail here for contempt of court, the sentence being imposed by Judge William C. Coleman.

Another Government witness was Herbert Ward, also an attorney from Washington, who recently filed suit against Henry Ford on behalf of John F. Connaughton for a commission on work done for Ford at the time that he sought to purchase Muscle Shoals from the Government for $60,000,000.

Others to be called were Christine Rock, Albert Esher, her attorney; R. L. Hooven, Morris H. Caro, George F. Bradley, Internal Revenue agent; Mrs. Catherine P. Offutt, Harry J. Donoghue, assistant cashier of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., of Washington, and William W. McDonald.

The jury will resume its investigation tomorrow in another special session, and Thursday is scheduled to take up its regular assignment.

Congress Has Passed Bill Creating Haven for Birds

Nation's Legislative Body Also Has Authorized Christmas Shopping Pay, Extended Auto Tag Privileges and Closed Barber Shops Day a Week.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

The difficult times in which we live may give the present session of Congress a large place in history, but the stagnating bewilderment and confusion of the world at large has not swerved the members of the House and Senate from their customary careful attention to details.

The smaller affairs of state loom large in the list of measures upon which legislative action has been completed since December 5, 1932.

Up to last evening nine bills passed in the present session had been signed at the White House, and two more—the Philippine independence measure and the Washington traction merger—awaited disposition at the hands of President Hoover.

Here is a brief summary of the bills passed to date and signed since the Seventy-second Congress began its final session thirty-six days ago:

The first legislation to reach the President was a measure "for the relief of John S. Shaw." It was a routine pension bill, one of hundreds which pass in every session.

Next came a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to pay employes of the House and Senate their December salaries on the twentieth of the month, instead of the thirtieth, so no one would be short of Santa Claus money.

On December 19 a bill was passed to provide for the "restitution of certain postoffice employes at Detroit, Mich."

On the same day President Hoover signed a measure authorizing the Commissioners of the District of Columbia to close certain streets and alleys rendered useless by the march of time.

On December 23 a bill extending the privileges of congressional auto tags to certain employes of the Capitol became the law of the land. And another measure signed that day required all barber shops in the District of Columbia to close at least one day each week.

Still a third piece of legislation which became effective December 23 was that authorizing the transfer of Widows Island, Me., by the Secretary of the Navy to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Agriculture, for a migratory bird refuge.

These vital measures complete the list of legislation for the calendar year 1932.

On January 3 Congress completed legislative action on a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to sell obsolete and surplus clothing of the department for what it would bring, without regard to the usual requirements for competitive bidding.

Finally, a measure was signed on January 3, extending from December 30 to March 3 the statutory reporting date of the special joint committee investigating veteran costs.

This is the complete list of bills sent to the White House since Congress assembled.

iam E. Borah (Republican), Idaho, by exposing a handwritten verbatim report of the White House conversations. There was no mention in it of debt revision.

May Be Premier Again.

The former premier—and he may be premier again—drew a sharp distinction between the moratorium, "to which France has a right," and the Lausanne settlement whereby the allies practically abandoned reparations payments. Laval in fact stressed that the Lausanne step was taken despite Washington's warning of the impossibility of further debt revision.

Paris, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Exactly what President Hoover said to former Premier Pierre Laval, when they discussed the debts in Washington in 1931, became an important issue today as Parliament reconvened for a session which may bring the downfall of the government.

Senator Damecour, dean of the upper house, declared in the Senate that the American President clearly informed M. Laval the United States would proceed with revision of the debts if France consented to reduce her reparations claims against Germany.

Senator Borah Is Quoted.

Discussion of the debt issue was revived as the government faced a dangerous parliamentary situation growing out of Finance Minister Cheron's proposals to balance the budget by providing new taxes amounting to 5,453,000,000 francs ($218,120,000).

In chamber lobbies it was reported that the cabinet itself might split on the finance proposals at tomorrow's ministerial council. Already some ministers have indicated their opposition. M. Cheron insisted he would resign if his measures were not approved. His withdrawal probably would be followed by the resignation of the cabinet.

In his speech before the upper house, Senator Damecour declared Senator William E. Borah had admitted the accuracy of his statement that President Hoover told M. Laval America would revise debts if France cut reparations.

"Nothing came of it," the senator continued. "After the sacrifices to which we consented at Lausanne for the peace of the world, what has not been our sorrow to see America not even accord us the moratorium which she had asked for Germany, our debtor!"

Gas Death of Man, 81, Is Accidental

Held to be physically unable to have ended his life and mentally unable to enter into a suicide pact, August Duehring, 81-year-old paralytic, who was found with his 78-year-old wife, unconscious in their gas-filled apartment at 208 Massachusetts avenue northeast last Thursday, was said to have died an accidental death in a certificate issued by Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday.

The man, said to have been bedridden for many years, died Monday at Casualty Hospital, where it was said that he had thrown off the effects of the gas, but suffered from a blood clot which formed near his lungs. A certificate of suicide was issued last week in the death of his wife, Mrs. Anna M. Duehring, who it was stated, had turned on the gas at the apartment.

Surviving the couple are a daughter, Miss Elizabeth Duehring, who discovered the tragedy, and two sons, Henry Duehring and Carl Duehring. Mrs. Duehring was cremated Sunday after funeral services were held. Funeral arrangements for Mr. Duehring have not been completed.

Tools Missing From Garage.

Tools worth $50 were reported stolen from the garage of Louis Shorebridge at 416 L street northwest. The rear door was broken open.

JANUARY 10, 1933.

SENATE.

Met at noon and recessed at 5:30 p. m. until noon Wednesday.

Debated Glass banking bill, Senator Long (Democrat), Louisiana, launching a vicious attack on Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, mentioning the fact that the Virginia delegation had opposed seating of the Long delegation at the Democratic convention.

Senator Borah called meeting of Foreign Relations Committee to consider President's recommendation for immediate approval of arms traffic suppression pact.

A housing board is proposed for the Capital in a bill introduced by Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York.

Manufacturers Committee heard witnesses say that Pennsylvania has been shabbily treated at hands of Reconstruction Finance Corporation and urged passage of Costigan-La Follette Federal relief bill.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:45 p. m. until noon Wednesday.

COMMODITIES PILED ON FARM RELIEF BILL

Dairy Produces, Peanuts and Rice Added, in Spite of House Warning.

(Associated Press.)

A page-by-page struggle over the emergency farm bill enveloped the House last night as it crowded commodity after commodity into a price-fixing plan hailed on one side as economic progress and likened on the other to a Russian dictatorship.

Scarcely had the bill reached the amendment stage than its sponsors were overwhelmed in votes that added dairy products and peanuts to the list of products to be benefited.

"You can't load this bill down with a lot of commodities and hops for legislation," warned Representative Burtness (Republican), North Dakota, adding his plea to that of Jones, of Texas, against overburdening the measure.

Commodities Added.

But over this protest, the House immediately voted, 111 to 110, to accept the peanuts amendment of Representative Cox (Democrat), Georgia, and a few minutes later, 102 to 75, to approve one by Representative Andresen (Republican), Minnesota, covering dairy products.

Earlier rice was put in the bill as a committee amendment by a vote of 99 to 24. Jones announced at the time he would fight all other additions, but the Cox amendment removed the chief restraining clause, language defining eligible commodities as those having an exportable surplus.

With this much rewriting done before even the third page was reached, Representative McKeown (Democrat), Oklahoma, told his colleagues:

"When you go to load the bill down as opponents of it are trying to do, it doesn't make much difference what you load it down with."

Bill's Opponents Aid.

No roll-call votes were taken on these changes, but from the galleries it was evident that many avowed opponents of the bill were joining with interested representatives in adding to the five commodities originally approved by the committee—wheat, cotton, tobacco, hogs and rice.

An adjournment was taken with two motions pending. One by Representative Beam (Democrat), Illinois, to eliminate hogs from the bill, and one by Representative Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, to strike out the bill's enacting clause.

Cannon's motion was made merely to get the floor. But when he sought to withdraw it Representative Goss (Republican), Connecticut, objected, and it must be voted on today. Should the motion prevail, the bill automatically would be killed.

Conflicting Views on Plan.

It was Beck, Pennsylvania Republican, who in the last hours of general debate drew a comparison between the Secretary of Agriculture's powers under the plan with those of Stalin, Russian dictator. LaGuardia, Republican Progressive from New York, termed it a step in "production planning."

LaGuardia, who spoke to a closely attentive audience and was generously applauded, described the measure, which would pay the farmer a bounty out of a tax on processing, as "only the first step in the fundamental changes that must be brought about in our economic system."

"The fundamental of this bill is to bring agriculture up to a parity with industry and nothing else," LaGuardia said. "Let us assume that the entire burden passes on to the consumer. If commodity prices increase, we are prepared for that, we will demand increased wages."

Situation Called Serious.

Luce, Republican stalwart from Massachusetts, assailed the bill for proposing "to take money to the extent of over $1,000,000,000 from ninetenths of the people and give it to one-tenth."

Jones retorted that the bill was not primarily for the aid of farmers, but to help the entire economic situation.

"When farmers are carrying ropes to the courthouse," he said, "when a life insurance company tries to foreclose, the situation is bad and if you don't think so, you'd better think again.

"Some gentlemen talk about a lack of enthusiasm over this bill. Did you ever watch a blood transfusion and notice any enthusiasm? The situation is too serious."

POLICEMAN'S WIFE KILLED WITH CALLAN

her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marguerite Stevens. Callan's home is at 4512 Stanford street, Chevy Chase, Md.

It was learned at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Mower, where they roomed with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Hickman, that the policeman's wife left the house about an hour before midnight on the last night of her life. Her husband was on duty with the Sixth Precinct radio car at the time.

Callan was identified almost as soon as he was pronounced dead at a Baltimore Hospital, but Mrs. Mower remained unknown throughout the day. She died as she was being rushed by a passerby to Baltimore.

Baltimore authorities had only a department store label in Mrs. Mower's coat to determine her identity.

Mrs. Mower was barefoot when taken from the debris of the crash. She wore brown silk pajamas over which was a black dress with a rhinestone girdle. A gray coat was over these garments. In the tonneau of Callan's wrecked machine was a heap of women's underclothing.

Relatives of Callan insisted the reports that Mrs. Mower accompanied him were untrue. Maryland and Baltimore authorities stanchly contended that Mrs. Mower was his passenger.

Callan was said to have been en route to the automobile show in New York City. Members of his family were unable to state when he left home for the journey.

Three other persons were injured in the crash, which took place 3 miles south of Aberdeen about 1:30 a. m. yesterday. They were Mrs. Lillian Sherman, 52, of Jacksonville, Fla., fractured leg; Miss Lola Thompson, 29, of Atlanta, Ga., lacerations and bruises, and Earl Conover, 39, of Pleasantville, N. J., lacerations and bruises.

The driver of the bus, Wilmer S. Fulmer, was hurled from his seat into the aisle, the steering gear torn from his hands by the impact. He, with the other injured, were taken by passing motorists to Baltimore City hospitals.

All passengers and Fulmer declared the crash was unavoidable. They said the sedan loomed into view on a wide curve, on the wrong side of the road. The smaller car was knocked 50 feet by the crash.

Callan was president of the Callan Motor Co., 1529 M street northwest, and was widely known among business circles. He was a member of Kenwood County Club, the Racquet Club and a number of civic and trade bodies.

Surviving Mr. Callan are his widow, a son, James E. jr., 9; a daughter, Evelyn, 11; four brothers, Frank A., William J., Charles C. and Joseph H., and three sisters, Mrs. Marguerite Stevens, Mrs. Etta C. Richenbacker and Mrs. Leona C. Kindleberger.

GREEN HIT ON STAND FOR 30-HOUR WEEK

A. F. of L. Official Charges He Is Playing Into Hands of "Big Business."

(Associated Press.)

A charge that President William Green of the American Federation of Labor is playing into the hands of the "bankers and owners of industry" by supporting the Black bill for a 30-hour work week was made yesterday by a member of his own organization.

In a bluntly worded statement, Louis Weinstock, secretary of the federation's trade union committee for unemployment insurance and relief, asserted that his committee will have none of the bill unless it provides against the cutting of wages and includes the establishment of a minimum wage scale.

The split within the ranks of the A. F. of L. developed as Senate committees heard renewed pleas for the bill of Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, to reduce the working week to five days of six hours by barring from interstate movement all products not made under this schedule, and for a half billion dollar program of direct Federal grants to the States for unemployment relief.

Heard by Senate Group.

Weinstock was a witness before the Senate judiciary subcommittee, which last week had heard Green give the 30-hour week bill his support.

Without the points which he enumerated, the witness said, the bill would be "nothing else but the legalization of the Hoover stagger plan and the W. C. Teagle 'share-the-work' plan, commonly known as the 'share-the-poverty' plan."

His statement said Green and the executive council of the A. F. of L. have "supported every action of the bankers and owners of industry in their schemes to put the burden of the crisis upon the shoulders of the workers."

Minimum Wage Urged.

Another witness before the same committee, Arthur J. Lovell, of Cleveland, vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, indicated a possibility that railroad workers might strike to force shorter working periods to spread employment if Congress does not act.

A minimum wage provision also was advocated by Charles B. Rockwell, jr., Bristol, R. I., vice president of Collins & Aikman Corporation, and Austin T. Levy, Harrisville, R. I., president of the Stillwater Worsted Mills. Both approved the bill in principle.

Before the manufactures committee, welfare workers and a representative of the United Mine Workers of America urged enactment of the La Follette-Costigan $500,000,000 unemployment relief bill.

Thomas Kennedy, of Hazleton, Pa., secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, said the coal mining regions are "the darkest places in the tragedy of unemployment which now hangs over America."

Need Is Described.

Protesting that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is giving Pennsylvania "very shabby treatment," he said the amount of Federal relief money loaned the State has been "entirely too small" in comparison to the need.

A word picture of conditions among needy families of the jobless was given the senators by Walter West, secretary of the American Association of Social Workers, New York; Miss Helen Hall, of the University Settlement, Philadelphia; Miss Anna Ward, the Family Welfare Association, Baltimore, and Miss Helaine Todd, Family Society, Philadelphia.

Another development in the drive for relief legislation was formal introduction by Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, of his bill to open American Army posts to the thousands of unemployed young men wandering over the Nation.

SENATE UNIT PLANS NEW KREUGER QUIZ

Inquiry Reopening Today to Probe Stock Mart's Link in Match Issues.

(Associated Press.)

New light on the career of Ivar Kreuger, Swedish industrial magnate, whose reputation flared and died as did the matches he made, will be sought today at the reopening of the Senate's stock market investigation.

Preparing for a long-delayed resumption of the inquiry, the Senate banking committee yesterday employed as counsel Irving Ben Cooper, who has been associated with Samuel Seabury in the investigation of New York City's government.

Without waiting for Cooper to take over the job of directing the inquiry, however, the committee will go ahead today with the investigation which produced a steady flow of spectacular disclosures at the last session of Congress.

The immediate objective of the inquiry will be to determine what responsibility, if any, the New York Stock Exchange had in the floatation of Kreuger & Toll securities in which Americans lost millions of dollars.

Among the subpensed witnesses today will be Roland L. Redmond, counsel for the exchange; Allen Lindley, chairman of the exchange committe on business conduct, and Frank Altschul, chairman of the exchange stock list.

Other witnesses will be Donald Durant, of Lee Higginson and Co., investment bankers; Dr. Max Winkler, associate professor of economics of the College of the City of New York; A. D. Birning, of Ernst & Ernst, auditors of the International Match Co., for Higginson & Co.; G. O. May, partner of Price-Waterhouse & Co., auditors of Kreuger & Toll; and Gilmer Siler, partner of Eastman-Dillon & Co., brokers.

The employment of Cooper was announced yesterday following a meeting of the steering committee in charge of the inquiry. Noted for his work in connection with the Seabury investigation, he will be charged with preparing the committee's future cases.

The committee discussed at some length the tax evasion cases it has been investigating secretly for the last six months. These probably will be made the basis of the next phase of the inquiry.

EIGHT YOUTHS HELD IN "THRILL THEFTS"

tin Gough, 18, 3300 Seventeenth street northwest; Robert S. Osborne, 17, 3615 Wisconsin avenue northwest; Conrad Wyvell, 17, 3117 Woodley road northwest, and Harvey Hayes, 16, 3215 Newark street northwest. All were charged with investigation. Gough and Carroll were released in custody of Sergt. Carroll.

The arrests began Saturday night when Detective E. D. Lambert, looking over the car taken from three youths when arrested on suspicion of gasoline stealing, found that a set of 1929 tags had been changed to read "1933." A check-up showed the car had been stolen from Commander Harold Dodd, U. S. N., of the Kennedy-Warren apartments.

The arrests ended last night and all, police said, willingly told of the depredations, of lengthy trips taken in stolen cars, of filling station breakings and auto breakings.

DEFICIENCY BILL TAX REFUNDS CRITICIZED

(Associated Press.)

Progress of the first deficiency bill—first of the appropriation measures to come before the Senate—was snarled up on the floor yesterday by its provisions for $28,000,000 in tax refunds, balking the hopes of Senator Hale (Republican), Maine, in charge, for fast action.

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, tied up consideration with an amendment he offered to require that tax refunds be passed on by the Board of Tax Appeals before money to pay them is voted. He contended they were not adequately considered before being granted.

Remarking that "apparently there's an increase in refunds though income tax receipts have decreased," McKellar said $80,000,000 for refunds was voted last year, and $55,000,000 was in the appropriation bill for the Treasury-Postoffice Departments, aside from the $28,000,000 involved in the pending bill.

In the last twelve years, he said, about four billions had been paid back to taxpayers, "with this Government now running behind at the rate of about $200,00,000 a month."

"We can't appropriate the money fast enough for the gentlemen in the Treasury who pay it out secretly," McKellar asserted, contending that on a trip to the Treasury Department, he couldn't find anybody who knew any of the details of the refunds.

He said he had been told there was a committee there that passed on them, but he couldn't find it, and told Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, that the estimates for the refund were sent to the appropriations committee by the Treasury Department and the Budget Bureau.

Hale, chairman of the appropriations Committee, raised a point of order against McKellar's amendment, which he said was legislation being attached to an appropriation bill, which is prohibited. McKellar countered this was not the case.

Vice President Curtis, to whom the matter was referred, announced he would decide today, when consideration of the bill will be resumed.

LIBBY HOLMAN GIVES BIRTH TO BABY BOY

pital before 8 a. m., today, and was taken on a hospital carrier to a suite on the seventh floor. Dr. Vaux remained with her until noon, when a statement was given out from the hospital that the baby was not expected today.

The question of the child's inheritance, since the tragic circumstances of his father's death last July, has aroused much speculation among lawyers.

Settlement of the Smith-Reynolds estate, it was announced a month ago, had been begun, but the final settlements would be delayed until after the child's birth.

Mrs. Reynolds, released from charges filed against her after her husband had been found fatally wounded in a bedroom at his estate, Reynolda, revealed that she was to become a mother.

At that time she said she would name the child "Smith," regardless of its sex.

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Smith Reynolds' share of his father's estate has been estimated at from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. In the will of R. J. Reynolds, sr., it is provided that if one of the heirs dies, any child or children of the heir shall inherit the parent's estate. Attorneys have questioned whether Mrs. Reynolds would have inherited the estate if there had been no child, but they said the law of North Carolina leaves no doubt as to the child's rights.

$17,767 Donated For Jobless Relief

Police and Firemen Give Receipts of Labor Day Ball Game.

A check for $17,767.25 was presented to the District Commissioners yesterday by Odell S. Smith, as chairman of the Citizens Committee, which sponsors the annual Labor Day baseball game between the police and firemen. The money was accepted by the Commissioners on behalf of the District Committee on Employment.

This donation marked a departure from the usual policy of the Citizens Committee, as formerly the proceeds from the ball game have been divided between the benefit associations of the Police and Fire Departments.

Sensing the great need this year, the police and firemen decided to donate the money for the aid of the unemployed with the provision that it be used only for bona fide Washington residents.

Boy Critically Wounded By 14-Year-Old Host

George Lusby, 11, of Maryland Park, Md., was shot and critically wounded last night while at the nearby home of a friend. Surgeons at Casualty Hospital, after an emergency operation, held little hope for his recovery.

The boy was shot in the abdomen, the bullet emerging from his back. Police said the shot was fired by a playmate, Briscoe Lanham, 14, with whom George was visiting. Authorities declined to state whether the shooting was accidental or not.

Mrs. Roosevelt, Where Did You Get That Hat?

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Here is a note Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President-elect, received recently.

"I am a great admirer of your distinguished husband and have the utmost respect for his talented wife—but who picks out those terrible hats?

"Permit me to suggest you appoint your pretty daughter to select them hereafter. You owe it to your 'public' to appear properly dressed. A MARRIED MAN."

Mrs. Roosevelt laughed as she fingered the note, and said:

"I wish I knew where to address an answer."

COURT DENIES PLEAS OF KILLERS OF BABY

Woman and Farmer Husband Face Electric Chair in New York.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—New York State's highest court today ruled that Mrs. Mary Simpson and her husband, R. J. Simpson, a Cortland County farmer, should die for the slaying of her year-old-baby.

The 22-year-old mother and her husband were convicted of poisoning the child, crushing its skull and throwing it into the swamps of Mud Lake in September, 1931, a few months after they were married.

The decision of the Court of Appeals leaves only one possible way open for them to escape the electric chair—that is, through executive clemency.

Mrs. Simpson is the first white woman sentenced to die in New York since the execution of Ruth Snyder in 1928 together with Judd Gray for the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband.

The slain baby was Mrs. Simpson's second child born before she married the 29-year-old farmer, and, according to her own story, was killed because it "came between" her and her husband, who did not know of its existence until some time after their marriage.

The mother and her husband both told authorities, shortly after the mangled body of the child was found, the details of how they had put poison in the baby's nursing bottle, how Simpson had taken the baby by his feet and "banged" his head against a fence post and a pile of rocks, and how later he had held him under the water until he was dead.

Asked if she loved the child, Mrs. Simpson said:

"Yes, I loved it, but it was in between our getting married."

Parole Board Presses Plea for More Workers

The newly formed District Parole Board yesterday conferred with the District Commissioners regarding a requested increase in personnel on account of the large amount of work which faces the board.

The Commissioners explained that it was too late to ask for more employes in the pending 1934 District appropriations, but stated that certain transfers might be made in the Welfare Department so as to provide additional service for the board.

Machado Creates New Armed Force

Special Militia Will Aid in Keeping Peace During Province Trouble.

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—President Machado in a decree today increased the number of Cuba's armed forces. He provided for a special "militia company of 100 men," to be enlisted for two years or for "duration of the state of war," actually existent in Havana Province.

So long as they are not needed for military operations, the decree provides, the militiamen will act in cooperation with national police, under command of an officer to be named by the army chief of staff. They will wear army uniforms when in the field and will dress as the national police when working with that body.

Shortly after the December 1 budget slash went into effect, the president signed a decree providing that no more army posts should be created.

FILIBUSTER HEADED BY LONG BALKS ACTION ON BANK BILL

the outset, something almost unprecedented, and half a dozen quorum calls—the shouting Louisianan bucked the conservatives in his party with every conceivable argument, including quotations from the Scriptures.

He said President-elect Roosevelt disapproved of the branch bank clause and quoted from a campaign statement to the effect Mr. Roosevelt wanted strong and stable banks, with each community controlling its own finances.

Senator Glass informed the Senate Monday that Mr. Roosevelt thought the bill was doomed with the existing branch bank provision, but wanted the legislation passed. He said he regretted to say this was his judgment also.

Tricks of Showmanship.

All the tricks of showmanship were paraded in forceful array by the Louisiana senator.

The galleries and the members enjoyed it tremendously—except those who, like the diminutive Glass, seek to put the banking bill through and could do nothing against Long's activities.

Swaying from side to side, bouncing on his feet, reading from books, uttering occasional sarcastic flings and quips, Long performed with much arm waving, head shaking and hand lifting.

Once in his several hours of speaking Long got on the subject of pay cuts, on which he expressed this opinion:

"Somewhere in mathematics it may say to go in the opposite direction to get where you want to. Cut a man's salary 50 per cent and he'll spend more. That must be right—some pretty big men are advocating it."

Robinson Agrees on Point.

He paused for a moment, looked the Senate and the galleries over and added with a chuckle:

"I think the best way to get a man to spend more money is to give him more money. I know that don't sound right!"

As Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, whom Long repeatedly has opposed, nodded agreement with him on a point he raised, Long looked around, grinned at the galleries, mopped his brow and spoke:

"That makes it unanimous, then."

From the Bible he quoted the line about it being easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to get to heaven.

"You don't hear that read from the pulpit, any more," he said, rolling his eyes around. "If you do, the reader ain't in the pulpit much longer."

Others In Opposition.

Another time, he remarked that the bankers, whom he called "brothers," "are going to let us in the lodge," adding, "we are coming in on the ground floor—but they'll be in the basement."

Asked by Senator Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, if he would support the bill with the branch bank provision eliminated, Long said he would, if another amendment were added permitting national banks to sell Government, State and municipal securities.

He said he did not want this business controlled solely by the investment houses.

Others who joined the opposition yesterday were Senators Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma, and Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico.

Stresses Relief Need.

Thomas pleaded for prompt attention to hunger relief, saying this was far more important than an effort to permit a "few men sitting in New York to control the financial policy of America and the world."

DEMOCRATS TO FAIL IN PLAN, SNELL SAYS

Budget Not to Be Balanced This Session, G.O.P. House Leader Predicts.

(Associated Press.)

Every indication pointed last night to Democratic failure to enact budget balancing revenue legislation at this session, and an inevitable extra assembly of the new Congress.

With many elements rising in opposition to their move to increase the income taxes, the party leaders are concentrating on their economy proposals to bring Government expenditures down to the level of Federal income.

But Representative Rainey, of Illinois, the Democratic floor leader, asserted that "time is too short and opposition too strong to get through this Congress a program that can meet the $492,000,000 deficit."

"I think a special session, probably in April, is inevitable," he continued. "Then we can effect further economies and probably balance the budget without resorting to a general revision of the taxes. We also can get our beer bill through without any trouble."

To "Fall Down on Both."

The prediction that the Democrats would "fall down on both" enactment of new tax legislation and the beer bill was made by Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican floor leader.

"It is perfectly evident the Democrats are not going to do anything about balancing the budget this session," Snell said. "They don't even intend to try before ten or fifteen days from the end of the session and that means they have thrown it up in despair."

At his press conference, Speaker Garner conceded that whether tax legislation is taken up at this session depends upon what President Hoover does to the beer and farm relief bills, but declined to discuss the possibility of an extra session.

"If we don't get our program passed and signed," the Vice President-elect said, "What's the use to take up taxes? If our bills work out as we plan, however, I would be glad to see a tax bill passed at this session. I would raise heaven and earth to get it through."

Rush Economy Measures.

Plans to take up tax legislation awaited disposition of the $125,000,000 beer bill and the economy measures in the Senate, the Texan said, adding:

"It is impossible at the present moment to tell how much money is needed, I don't think the Treasury can give an accurate statement on how much money is needed. If the program shapes up within the next three weeks or 30 days, we'll push a tax bill."

Senate Democrats meanwhile hope to rush through their branch in a few days the economy measures attached to the $961,000,000 Treasury-Postoffice bill, giving power to President-elect Roosevelt to abolish bureaus and impound money appropriated for them.

Determined to block President Hoover's proposals to transfer and consolidate more than 50 Federal agencies, the Democrats plan to have the House adopt the Cochran resolution vetoing his executive orders that otherswise become effective February 9.

Robinson Sends Last Shaft in Tiff With Long

(Associated Press.)

The Democratic leader, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, and Senator Long, of Louisiana, foes for months, engaged yesterday on the Senate floor in a brief but lively tilt fraught with sarcasm that produced hearty laughter.

Long was conducting his filibuster against the branch banking provisions of the Glass banking reform bill. Senator Dickinson (Republican), Iowa, asked Long if he would yield to permit him to introduce a couple of bils.

Robinson objected, and under the rules requiring unanimous consent for such action Dickinson could not introduce the bills.

"I'm sorry the senator objects," observed Long; "but I shall take a similar course in the future."

"That suits me," shot back Robinson.

"Why did the senator object?" asked Long.

"Because these interruptions prevent the senator from concluding his speech," returned Robinson.

"Oh, it's done to protect me," came back Long. "I want to thank the senator. You know, we are neighbors down there and live on the same kind of land, so there's understanding.

"I can rely on the senator from Arkansas like nobody in this chamber to assist me."

Amid the laughter at this, as members recalled Long's revolt last session against Robinson's leadership and his subsequent resignation of committee assignments, Robinson countered:

"The senator understands the matter exactly. For one time the senator's mind is working promptly."

ARMS EMBARGO RATIFICATION IS URGED IN HOOVER MESSAGE

gun runners of Central America goes back to the days when he was Federal district attorney for New York, urged the President in his letter to request additional authority for arms control.

He declared in his letter made public yesterday:

"I respectfully recommend that you commend to the favorable consideration of the Congress legislation which in addition to the present authority applicable to conditions of domestic violence should confer upon the President authority in his discretion to limit or forbid in cooperation with other producing nations the shipment of arms and munitions of war to any foreign state when in his judgment such shipment may promote or encourage the employment of force in the course of a dispute or conflict between nations."

The President's message tacitly referred to the present armed crisis in which Bolivia and Paraguay are now involved.

He declared:

"Recent events have emphasized the urgent need of more authority to the Executive in control of the shipment of arms from the United States for military purposes."

Without mentioning either the Chaco or the Leticia disputes which involve Colombia and Peru, the letter of Secretary Stimson briefly explained the scope of the arms convention which was signed in Geneva on behalf of this Government by Representative Theodore E. Burton and Hugh Gibson, June 17, 1925. He declared it provided: "For the setting up of a system of export licenses—or alternately of a special export declaration to cover each individual shipment of arms."

"Its provisions do not contravene any existing law or regulation of the United States. It would insure full and accurate publicity for the international traffic in arms and would thereby provide a much needed corrective for such exaggerated rumors in regard to that traffic," he said.

This convention, Col. Stimson pointed out, has already been ratified by fourteen of the countries that originally signed the convention, as well as by one country that had not signed the convention.

The general disarmament conference now in session at Geneva is working to a similar end in the regulation and control of arms purchases and approval by the United States Senate of the 1925 agreement would materially encourage further arms restrictions measures now being prepared by the disarmament delegates.

At the present the President is empowered to declare an embargo on shipments of arms to Latin-American countries and also in countries where the United States enjoys extraterritoriality, in cases of domestic violence. The broadening of this power so as to include other countries would go far, it is believed, in discouraging armed outbreaks in many parts of the world.

Naturally, the opposition of the armament makers and munitions makers was promptly registered at the War Department here. Secretary Hurley, it is understood, has received several protests of many prominent American industries whose products include several items that would be affected by such a presidential embargo.

The United States has rapidly increased in the last few years the output of her munitions factories. The necessity of encouraging "educational industry," or those branches of industry which would have to be mobilized for war supplies at the outbreak of any international difficulty has been stressed by the War Department. Only in the activity of these factories in peace time would it be possible to have those sources of supply in war.

Business-Like Robbers Take Pedestrian's $80.

John I. Tartagali, 28, of 1415 Juniper street northwest, was held up and robbed of $80 by two brusque, armed, businesslike young men last night as he was walking near his home.

When they accosted him, one of them said: "Stick 'em up, brother!" After taking his money they ordered him: "Be on your way and don't look back!"

COBLENTZ TO HEAD NO SENATE GROUPS

Maryland Legislator Indicted in Bank Failure Asks to Be Relieved.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 10.—State Senator Emory L. Coblentz, of Frederick County, who was indicted for violation of the State banking laws after his Central Trust Co. failed in 1931, held two committee chairmanships at the last session of the Legislature, but will hold none at this session.

This was revealed tonight when Walter J. Mitchell, president of the Maryland Senate, announced the committee assignments for this session. Senator Coblentz asked to be relieved from both the committees he headed last session, Senator Mitchell said.

Senator Coblentz was replaced as chairman of the committee on education, a post he held at the last session, but will remain a member of the committee. He was completely dropped from the committee on revaluation and assessments, which he headed at the last session.

New Committee Formed.

A new committee on retrenchment of State expenses was formed by Senator Mitchell, it was revealed when committee assignments were announced tonight. It is headed by Milton L. Veasey, of Worcester County, other members being Senators Lansdale G. Sasscer, of Prince Georges County; David J. Ward, W. Earle Withgott, Abram G. Ensor, Joseph Allan Coad, John H. Bouse, Henry W. McCormas, and J. David Baile. Seven Democrats and two Republicans are on its roster.

Senator Sasscer was reappointed chairman of the finance committee, which carries with it the floor leadership of the Democrats in the Senate. He will also appear on the rules committee with Senator Mitchell as chairman and L. Creston Beauchamp as the third member.

The House of Delegates was abruptly adjourned until tomorrow after C. Damer McKenrick, of Baltimore, launched a fight on the patronage resolution submitted by the committee on organization. The report provided that each county and legislative district should have the right to appoint a quota of legislative attendants, and that the speaker should have the power to appoint supplementary aids.

Tribute to Coolidge.

This latter provision came under fire at once, when the speaker, T. Barton Harrington, was asked if this would increase the present number of attendants. There was a pause, broken by a motion to adjourn, made by the Democratic floor leader. This was carried, and the delegates went out to await further efforts to compromise the patronage fight which has been the main result of the session so far.

A resolution of sorrow for the death of Calvin Coolidge was offered in the House by Oliver Metzerott, Republican floor leader, and adopted unanimously. It resolved that when the House adjourn it do so out of respetc to Coolidge's memory.

In offering the resolution, Mr. Metzerott told of his contact with Coolidge in Washington, and of visiting him at Plymouth Notch last summer. Coolidge, he said, "represented a type of Americanism rare in its loyalty and devotion to country, and majestic in its absolute simplicity."

Resolutions expressing the regret of the House at the death of those members who have died since the last session also were adopted.

Robert G. Hilton, representing Montgomery County in the Senate, is named on ten committees, although he is chairman of none. His assignments are: Agriculture and labor, contingent expenses of the Senate, elections, Federal relations, finance, inspections, library, pensions, railroads and canals, and roads and highways.

Other Assignments.

In addition to his chairmanship of the finance committee, Senator Sasscer will serve on the following committees: Amendment to the Constitution, corporations, executive nominations, Federal relations, and retrenchment of State expenses.

Senator Coad, from St. Marys County, is head of the committees on the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries and of the committee on temperance. He is also announced as a member of the committees on education, elections, executive nominations, Federal relations, finance, pensions, printed bills, printing, retrenchment of State expenses and roads and highways.

Senator Coblentz will serve on the following committees: Agriculture and labor, civil service and election reform, contingent expenses of the Senate, education, finance, fish and game, pensions, railroads and canals and sanitary conditions of the State.

Citizens to Mass In Fire-Unit Row

Department in Hyattsville Ignores Council's Ouster of Its Chief.

Announcement yesterday of a mass meeting to be held in support of the Hyattsville Fire Department followed an attempt by the town council to dissolve the present fire company. The meeting will be held in Masonic Hall in Hyattsville early next week.

The meeting is being arranged by W. P. Magruder, former mayor, who is being assisted by Gilbert Dudrow, W. T. Casey, P. C. Meredith, Milton Brewer and other citizens.

The attempt to dissolve the present fire company was made at the end of a turbulent council meeting Monday night. At its December meeting the council voted to oust Noble F. Rushe as chief of the department, but its action was not recognized by the department. Further action on the dissolution order will be taken at a special council meeting on January 18.

Girl Seeking $10,000 For Accidental Injuries

Damages of $10,000 for injuries she suffered in an automobile accident on New Years Day are asked in a suit filed yesterday in Prince Georges County Circuit court by Mary E. Shaner against William Katz, of Hyattsville.

Miss Shaner, a minor, filed her suit in the name of her mother, Mrs. Ada Shaner. In her bill she alleges that a car driven by Katz skidded into a machine in which she was riding near Savage, Md. She suffered a fractured skull and a broken collar bone, she says. Attorneys Charles C. Marbury and T. Howard Duckett appear for her.

The Federal Diary

By GEORGE D. RILEY

IN these days of talk about war debts and reparations and "you owe me" and I owe you and what the deuce we goin' to do and balancing and unbalancing the budget, let's keep sight of the fact that one hundred million dollars is just that.

RILEY.

They used to sing a song 30 years ago. "All I want is $50,000,000." With exception of a dozen or so men we're all vaking it out in wanting. The other day England made payment on account to Uncle Sam, totaling $95,500,000, but that still is not as important as the largest check ever drawn on the United States Treasury for $100,000,000.

In case you haven't figured it for yourself, here's a time-saver:

One hundred million dollars would join London and Sydney, Australia, via the Panama Canal, with a chain of one-dollar bills 12,000 miles long. The same amount in silver dollars would be 1,893 times as high as the Washington Monument.

The check was advance payment on transportation accounts of carriers under control of the United States Railroad Administration on file in the zone finance office, War Department. Dated March 22, 1919.

Norman J. Morrison, Assistant to Attorney General Youngquist, is enjoying a general overhauling at Mount Alto Hospital, including the removal of his tonsils. Incidentally, he is getting a much-needed rest from his duties at the Department of Justice. However, as Swarmi Fedd gazes into his crystal ball, it seems that hospitals are not such bad places after all. Say tain't so, Norman.

Miss Emma Luebbing, secretary to Howard T. Jones, assistant prohibition director, has, among her other duties, the job of reminding Mr. Jones from day to day of the things he might possibly forget.

Maybe the old sign, "Main Entrance," would do the trick. It seems as though our friend Fred Orsinger, of the Commerce Department's aquarium, is bumping into a little competition these days. And it's not because some one jealous of the pulling power of his Fish Fairyland has set up a rival display. No, nothing like that. It's just that the airplane models, and midget copies of great ocean liners, and the replicas of famous inventions on exhibition in the reception room of the office of the Secretary of Commerce are distracting some of the attention that Fred feels is the just due of his big and little denizens of the deep. There ought to be a law, or somethin'.

Burton G. Cowles, Dead Letter Office, Postoffice, let us have a look-see at his postage stamp cover and cachet collection.

A vacation without pay is better than no vacation at all. But, of course, one can't eat vacations and get the usual eight hours of undisturbed slumber. Nevertheless, S. Fedd is confident Mrs. Mildred Hinton, foodstuffs division, Commerce Department, will find plenty to occupy her time during the several months' furlough she has been granted.

That ominous-looking brass crank in the desk drawer of Elton H. Brown, clerk in charge, Patent Office searchroom, is not as dangerous as it appears. Elton uses it to regulate temperature by opening the windows, three at a time, and sometimes, maybe, to keep order.

There may or may not be 47 other States, but if there are they could be done without as long as there is Rhode Island. At least, that's the way James L. Brown, commercial laws division, Commerce Department, feels after returning from a visit to his folks 'way up thar.

We see where William McKinley Morgan, Wynona, Okla., has invented a card game of presidents and politics.

Edward J. Carrol, merchandising research division, Commerce Department, is fresh back from Denver. He is participating in the national drug store survey, and if you don't think it has stirred up interest just ask the man behind the counter next time you drop in for a pack of cigarettes.

Havy Fedd has some poignant memories of Evacuation Hospital No. 7 at Souilly, France, so while in the old homestead of the American Red Cross on Seventeenth street decided to look at some pictures of the place. He forgot all about the pictures, however, in looking at Maud Dentz (oh, very, very much more interesting)—but now he has an excuse to go back.

We are beginning to wonder just what the attraction is in Bermuda. Another member of the rubber division, Commerce Department, has gone there—and at his own expense. This time it's Richard H. Sanger. Maybe Swarmi has been wasting his time.

Thomas Blackwell, who died recently, had been employed in the Smithsonian Library Bureau nearly ten years. He formerly was a member of the guard force. He was buried in Arlington.

Now if we had a million. But then very likely the butcher and baker et al., would get most of it before we had time to realize it. Be that as it may, E. L. Thomas, Foodstuffs Division, Commerce Department, is taking a six months' rest. What's the secret, Mr. Thomas?

Lots of things can happen in a week. But we haven't gotten full details on how Roger Jennings, Domestic Regional Division, Commerce Department, spent his week off. Incidentally, he's back on the job.

Mrs. Aldo Raffa, Domestic Relations Division, Commerce Department, is on the sick list. We're hoping to see her back soon.

George J. Carr, Foodstuffs Division, Commerce Department, is away for several weeks. Another furlough, payless.

Edward Sartwell, Marketing Service Division, Commerce Department, has just floored Old Man Flu in their title bout. The conquering hero is expected back on the job shortly. Not to be outdone, Miss Rachel Bretherton, of the same division, has turned the same trick.

THE youngster wanted to save his trolley tokens——

By this time Swarmi Fedd was sorry he had come to Paris. Wouldn't it have been better, since he had come, to go to the American Embassy for assistance? Why had he not thought of that before?

These and many other questions flashed across his mind, just as flashes covering a lifetime streak across the mind of a prisoner stalking down the last mile. But better days surely must be in store. In fact, there was a store almost within arm's reach. The taxi had darted up and squatted in front of a store. Again the chauffeur got out. It was a great gag, this starting and stopping, for the old meter ground out standing time, too. And each time it clicked it seemed to click more rapidly.

But then the driver must have his rest. That was certain.

The above check, a photograph of which hangs in the office of Col. Tilman Campbell, Finance Office, Army Building, smashed all records by the Transportation and Telegraph Section. It is the largest ever drawn on the U. S. Treasury.

One of those "most embarrassing moments" occurred in one of the executive departments lately. A clerk peering into the annex office of an assistant secretary, who will vacate offices March 4, remarked to the messenger, "J———, are you packing up old man D———'s effects?" The inquiring clerk learned later that the high official referred to was, like prosperity, "just around the corner."

That any reduction in the salaries of Government employes show a disregard of the value of their services and their patriotic performance of duty in times when workers in private industry were more commensurately compensated was emphasized in the following statement made yesterday by resident national officers of the American Federation of Government Employes:

"Those who have taken advantage of the present economic conditions to reduce the living standards of the American people have resorted to many unwarranted, unpatriotic and treasonable methods. None has been more despicable than the false impressions that have been spread about employes of the Federal Government. No act of treason in war time could be more harmful to the country as a whole than the demands that the salaries of civil service employes be cut and further cut.

"Federal workers have shown they are surpassed by no class of workers in the trades or professions. This is proved by the fact they are required to pass competitive examinations against the best qualified citizens of the country. They proved their loyalty to the Government by remaining in the service during the boom years when the majority could have received much better wages in private employment.

"The American Federation of Government Employes stands firmly against any additional reduction of the salaries of Federal workers. We contend it is unnecessary, unwarranted, and totally unwise at a time when the Government should be leading the way toward economic recovery."

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Strasburger, North-South winners, totaled 96½ match points Monday evening in the Food and Drugs-Chemistry and Soils, Agriculture Bridge League, at the Roosevelt. Dr. C. C. McDonnell and Walter S. Frisbie were second, and Miss C. Thrasher and R. P. Straka were third. East and West winners were Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Balls, 96 match points, Miss Nellie Parkinson and Miss Mae Grayson. There were eleven tables. Mrs. Eugene Nolan and Mrs. M. C. Robinson, who have games on Tuesdays also, directed.

The Executive Council, National Federation of Federal Employes, yesterday discussed problems affecting welfare of all Government workers, and ill-advised legislation and analyzed growth and progress of the N. F. F. E., expressing opposition to the economy provisions of the Treasury-Postoffice appropriations measure. It was stated that they impose sharply unjust regulations of the so-called economy act.

The executive council was exhaustive in discussions of manifold questions which have arisen through operation of the economy law. Numerous instances were presented of actual hardships as well as of administrative difficulties.

Representing many widely separated parts of the country, the council is in position to give detailed explanation of the working of legislation as it affects all sections of the service.

The council has transacted a large volume of organization business and will remain in session until all pending matters have been disposed of.

DARBY APPOINTMENT URGED AT ROCKVILLE

Another Petition Is Filed in Montgomery County for Road Improvement.

Appointment of Richard Edwin Darby, of Barnesville, as county commissioner from the Third District is urged in a petition filed yesterday with the Montgomery County commissioners by 16 citizens of the district.

Commissioner Clagett C. Hilton, who represented that district, recently died. Pending appointment of a new commissioner by the governor, Commissioner John B. Diamond will take care of the work of Mr. Hilton's former office.

A petition was received, signed by 80 citizens, asking the commissioners to improve the old Baltimore road in Clarksburg district, from the crossroads at Charles Wright's toward Neelsville, with a macadam surface.

Edgar Reed and Curtis Ward, representing the mayor and council of Rockville, appeared before the commissioners to ask that the town be given permission to collect its own dog taxes. They asked that Frank I. Davis, clerk of the police court, who has charge of the county dog licenses, be permitted to collect the town tax and receive a 10 per cent commission.

C. Y. Latimer, clerk to the board, was instructed to write to Mrs. Jessie Nicholson and ask if she desires a public hearing on her application for rezoning of her property on the Rockville pike. The Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission has disapproved the application.

The application of Dr. Frank Hood Schultz for a permit to conduct a community club at the former Bradley Home School in Chevy Chase was referred to the park and planning commission. The board authorized the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission to purchase 15,000 series E sanitary commission bonds for a sinking fund.

The bonds were issued January 1, 1922, and mature in 1972. They are to be purchased at a price of $89 for each $100 value.

Russo-Japanese Pact Hope Removed, Claim

Tokyo (Wednesday), Jan 11 (U.P.). A government spokesman said today that Josef Stalin's speech at Moscow last week removed the last possibility of a Russo-Japanese nonaggression pact.

Stalin's remarks, the spokesman said, showed that throughout the time Moscow was appealing to Tokyo to accept such a pact the Soviet was shifting its whole industrial program to prepare for war.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT IS PROPOSED

Falls Church Council Acts, Feeling R. F. C. Would Grant Loan.

Believing there is a possibility of obtaining a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the town council of Falls Church yesterday decided upon a plan for a sewage disposal plant to take care of the most congested section of Falls Church, lying in Fairfax County.

The plan was presented to the council by an Atlanta (Ga.) construction company. It calls for an outlay of $54,000, of which $19,000 would be expended in the construction of the plant.

The council proposes to make the construction work meet the self-liquidating requirements of the R. F. C. through the placing of an assessment of $2 per household with a minimum of 170 potential users.

The reason for this separate plant is that the town of Falls Church is divided into three sections—West Falls Church in Fairfax County, East Falls Church in Arlington County, and Falls Church proper, in Fairfax County. Another sewage plant for the section in Arlington County is proposed, but is being held up pending settlement of a suit in Arlington County circuit court for separation of East Falls Church from the municipal corporation.

On motion of Dr. Julius Parmelee, chairman of the council, W. T. Westcott, Philip M. Talbot and Carroll V. Shreve were recommended for appointment by Judge Walter T. McCarthy of the Fairfax County circuit court as members of the zoning and building commission.

Pay Action Delayed In Prince Georges

Absence of Member Causes Board to Defer Study of Salary Cut.

Passing over the question of reducing county salaries because of the absence of one member, the Prince Georges County Board of Commissioners yesterday considered routine matters of roads and reports. A complaint about the condition of Sheriff road was referred to the district road committee, while another about the intersection of the new and old Fort Washington roads was sent to the State Roads Commission. Sheriff W. C. Curtis reported that his receipts for December were $407, of which $368 was for the board of Federal prisoners kept in the jail.

B. B. Wills, of Brandywine, filed an application for permission to hold dances more than once a week at the Old Fireside, a resort at T. B., Md. Restaurants and cabarets must obtain a license to hold more than one dance a week, under the county road house law, and so far none have ever been granted. Mr. Wills' application will be advertised and a public hearing will be held before it is acted upon.

A letter from the State Tax Commission, offering to come to Marlboro to hold hearings on several disputed tax matters, was received. The commissioners advised the commission that any date after February 1 would be satisfactory to them.

ALEXANDRIA LOCAL LABOR PLAN VOTED

Employing of Residents on City Work Approved by Council.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The Alexandria City Council last night adopted a resolution to instruct the city manager not to employ on any city work any person not a citizen of Alexandria, and having at least one year's residence; and another resolution to the effect that no part of the appropriations made by the council shall be used in the purchase of any article or supplies not grown, manufactured or produced in the United States. Another resolution providing that in case of contracts being entered into for work to be performed within the city, there shall be inserted a clause in the contract requiring that the work be performed only by citizens of Alexandria, was held for further consideration. These resolutions were offered by Councilman Davison, who strongly objected to the possibility of labor being imported from other sections of the country for Alexandria contracts. He stated that similar regulations are in effect in practically every other city in Virginia, and generally throughout the country.

A resolution providing for a temporary loan of $150,000, in anticipation of collection of taxes due in March, was placed on its first reading and held over under the rules. Included in this amount would be $25,000, interest and principal due on a previous loan, and $26,029.38 due the United States Government on the reconstrutcion of Washington street. This money, it was understood, would be borrowed only as needed.

A resolution appropriating $1,400 for the construction of a fireproof vault on the Cameron street side of the City Hall, for storing important documents and records of the city, was also held over under the rules.

Several changes in the annual city license ordinance were adopted, among them being one which would increase the cost of a city automobile license by requiring the automobile owner to pay the 50-cent fee to the commissioner of revenue, which has heretofore been absorbed by the city.

John W. Howard, division manager of the Virginia Public Service Co., was elected a director of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce at its annual meeting Monday night, to succeed Frank W. Noxon, resigned.

The chamber went on record as urging the city council to repair the city's portion of what is known as the river road, a part of U. S. Route No. 1, between the Potomac Yard bridge and Four Mile Run, the city limits.

Frederick L. Flynn was installed as chief patriarch of Marley Encampment, No. 6, Odd Fellows, of Alexandria, Monday night. Other officers installed were F. L. Elmore, senior warden; Maurice D. Rosenberg, junior warden; Joe K. Williams, high priest; L. T. Webster, recording scribe; John A. Martin, financial scribe, and George W. Bonts, treasurer.

Naiman Davis, past chief patriarch, was presented with a jewel by Maurice D. Rosenberg in behalf of the lodge for his services during the past year.

The report of Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, city health officer of Alexandria, shows that during December the department was kept busy handling the many cases of grip which reached epidemic height. Five cases of scarlet fever were reported, and several cases of chicken pox.

There were 56 deaths and 26 births reported, this being a greater proportion of deaths to births for many months.

Dr. Schaefer handled 828 patients and gave 134 treatments. The visiting nurse paid 140 visits, and 200 persons attended the infant welfare clinic.

State Policeman R. H. Lester, on duty in Alexandria, issued 50 chauffeur's licenses yesterday. His work ends Friday, and beginning Saturday all professional chauffeurs who have failed to take out the required license will be subject to a fine.

Chamber Delays Blue Laws Fight

Bethesda Group Postpones Move for Support in Opposition.

The Bethesda Chamber of Commerce last night decided to recommit a resolution which would provide for a delegation of the chamber to go before the Montgomery County Civic Federation in an effort to obtain the support of that body in a fight against blue laws. The measure was recommitted to the legislation and legal action committee.

J. Harry Welch spoke before the chamber on the possibility of a cut in police tax. He pointed out that county police worked from ten to fourteen hours a day for $125 a month, while Washington police received $200 for eight hours work. The chamber decided, however, not to take any action until some definite reduction step had been taken.

G. Wady Imirie, S. Walter Bogley, and Thomas Laffin were elected delegates to the Bethesda fire board. T. E. Hampton, vice president, presided.

JAPAN IN SURPRISE OFFENSIVE IN CHINA

tain pass leading to the Great Wall gate there, and comparatively easy to defend.

The Japanese forces by nightfall had extended along the wall as far as Shihmenkai, or the "tenth gate pass." They were presumed to be moving northwest toward the point several miles beyond, where the Lan River penetrates the Great Wall.

These Chinese authorities, when informed here of the Japanese advance on Chiomenkou (ninth gate pass) and Shihmenkai, declared the Chinese garrisons at both points had been ordered to fight.

(United Press.)

China has declined proposals to settle the Shanhaikwan incident locally and is moving thousands of troops into Jehol Province in anticipation of widespread clashes with Japanese, according to reports from Far Eastern sources reaching here yesterday.

The Chinese Legation published a report from the foreign ministry stating the government, with approval of Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, and T. V. Soong, had declined offers for local settlement of the incident.

Other unusually reliable sources said 25,000 Chinese troops had advanced along a great arc in Jehol through "the old north pass."

MRS. SNIPES SPARED; SENTENCED TO LIFE

Expectant Mother Escapes Chair on Commutation by Governor.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Gov. Blackwood today changed the death sentence of Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes, 29-year-old expectant mother, to a sentence of life imprisonment, saying his action of clemency was "in accord with the general sentiment of the country."

The former textile worker, who admitted shooting Rural Policeman Elliott Harris to death with his own pistol, was notified of the executive's decision as she sat in the sunshine in an inclosed yard at the State Penitentiary.

At first, she appeared somewhat bewildered.

"What does it mean—life here?" she asked.

"Yes," answered Capt. H. H. Kester, of the prison guard, who read the commutation to her.

"Well, I sure am much obliged to you," she said slowly, peering at the document in Kester's hand. "Who did it, the governor?"

The chief executive's signature was pointed out to her.

"I wish you'd tell the governor that I sure appreciate this," she said earnestly.

"Yes, and tell everybody who had anything to do with it how much I appreciate it. Tell the governor I'll do anything in the world he wants me to, if he will just let me know."

Gov. Blackwood's announcement of clemency came within a few hours of his latest statement that he did not expect to take any action as long as the case was on appeal in the courts. He said he reached his decision after attorneys for the woman told him she was willing to abandon her appeal.

Widespread interest was manifested in the case when Mrs. Snipes was convicted in York early last month of the murder of Harris, a county policeman, and was sentenced to die in the electric chair. She was the first woman ever to face electrocution in South Carolina. She expects the birth of her baby within the next two weeks.

Two Army Fliers Hurt As Plane Is Wrecked

Princeton, Ind., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Two Army fliers from Langley Field, Va., en route to Scott Field, at Belleville, Ill., were injured when their cabin plane was wrecked in landing near here today.

Both men, Capt. L. A. Lawson, 37, of Johnson, Mo., and Private Tracy Nance, 25, whose home is at Fayetteville, N. C., were brought to Methodist Hospital. Lawson, physicians said, was found to be injured internally and an X-ray examination was to be made to determine whether he was seriously hurt. Nance received a severe head wound.

YOUTH DIES AS HERO IN FIRE FATAL TO FIVE

Baltimore Student, Crippled, Is Trapped While Trying to Arouse Family.

Baltimore, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—A 20-year-old youth, Cecil Hewitt, jr., was acclaimed a hero today after a fire at his home in which he and four members of his family lost their lives.

With an easy access to the roof and safety, he apparently braved the flames in a vain effort to rouse the others.

His body was found beside the bodies of his father, 53; his mother, 45, and 16-year-old sister, Evelyn. The body of his mother's sister, Miss Corinda Bowen, 25, was discovered in another room.

Just what occurred always will remain a mystery, but as firemen reconstructed events, young Hewitt, a senior in the pharmacy school at the University of Maryland, probably was awakened first.

Although his limbs were affected years ago by infantile paralysis, he was able to walk without aid and could have stepped from his window to the flat roof which was on the same plane with roofs of adjoining homes.

Instead, he apparently rushed to the rooms occupied by his parents and his sister. When all had been aroused, the last avenue of escape was cut off.

Only one occupant of the household, Mrs. Nettie Young, 50, a roomer, was able to save herself. Mrs. Young found flames sweeping up the stairway and she jumped from a second-story window. One of her legs was broken.

Under auspices of the Capitol Clinic Club, a symposium on dental nutrition, conducted by the nutrition group of the club, was given before the District of Columbia Dental Society at the George Washington University Medical Building last night. Dr. Charles D. Cole, president of the society, presided.

Adams, Dr. Samuel Bogdonoff, a director of the clinic club, and Dr. Sherman L. Davis, Ph. D., an honorary director of the clinic club. In addition Commander H. E. Harvey, U. S. N., of the Norfolk Naval Hospital, at Portsmouth, Va., also spoke. Lantern slides illustrated several of the talks. Dr. C. P. BILL WOULD CHANGE TAX ON CIGARETTES

(Associated Press.)

A bill to distribute one-sixth of the Federal tax on cigarettes to the States if they will forego their levies was introduced yesterday by Representative Doughton (Democrat), North Carolina.

Doughton, a ranking member of the Ways and Means Committee, said in his measure that the income to the Government from the cigarette tax had dropped from $359,000,000 in 1930 to $317,000,000 in 1932, and attributed part of the decrease to taxes on the tobacco by the States and municipalities. He expressed the fear that continued additional taxation would further reduce the yield.

He would retain the present rate of $3 a thousand on cigarettes. The States' portion of the tax would be distributed according to size and population, after excluding those States which continued their levies or permitted their municipalities to do so.

Teletype Machine Development Told

Messages Are Relayed at Meeting of Chapter of Engineers.

Development of the teletype machine, through which messages can be sent by typewriter, was described to members of the Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at the Potomac Electric Power Co. headquarters last night.

Demonstration of the machine was given by G. L. Weller, equipment and buildings engineer of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., and Prof. T. J. MacKavanagh, of Catholic University. Messages were sent from the meeting place to Richmond by women operators of the telephone company and answers were received.

The teletype machine, now widely used by newspapers, police stations, telegraph companies and business establishments, was developed from the Morse telegraph instrument. Sending messages by typewriters was conceived and developed by Charles L. Krum, Joy Morton and Edward Kleinschmidt and brought to its present state of perfection by the Bell Telephone Co.

Legion Post Hits Economy League

Demands for Veterans' Cut Are Termed "Selfish" in Resolution.

A vehement protest against the campaign of the National Economy League for reduction in veterans' expenditures was lodged in a resolution passed last night by Victory Post, No. 4, of the American Legion.

The resolution called on Congress to ignore the "manifestly selfish, ungrateful and unpatriotic demands made by the National Economy League" as another instance "where big business is using unfair tactics against war veterans."

The measure urged that the Joint Congressional Committee on Veterans' Legislation favor the continuance of existing legislation granting compensation to disabled veterans. It also asked that compensation be continued to those whose disabilities are directly traceable to service in the Army, and also to those who have become physically or mentally incapacitated since the war.

"I'm working and Smoking overtime—hence a Milder Cigarette

"WHEN I work hard, I usually smoke more; and when I smoke more, I usually work harder—and that's why I want a cigarette that's milder."

We use in Chesterfield Cigarettes mild, ripe Domestic and Turkish tobaccos which have been aged and re-aged.

These good tobaccos in Chesterfield are blended and cross-blended—welded together; that, too, helps to make a milder cigarette with better taste.

EMBARGO ON MUNITIONS.

President Hoover advises Congress that some of the principal arms manufacturing nations are willing to enter into engagements to forbid the shipment of arms to areas where international conflicts are in progress or in prospect, and he asks that he be granted authority to limit or forbid arms exports in special cases. It is inconsistent to permit shipments of munitions from the United States to prepare nations for war when the United States is endeavoring to prevent those nations from resorting to hostilities. This is notably the case in South America, where one undeclared war is in progress and another is threatened. But Mr. Hoover wishes to have the authority to limit or prevent shipments to any part of the world where nations are in conflict. Presumably he would be disposed to prevent the sale of munitions to China and Japan.

It might be very difficult to obtain the co-operation of nations in denying arms and ammunition to China and Japan. Lacking this co-operation, the United States should not forbid such exports. But there is reason to believe that an arrangement could be made whereby war material could be kept from flowing into the Chaco region, where Bolivia and Paraguay persist in fighting in spite of their treaty obligations. Colombia and Peru are on the verge of war over the seizure of Leticia, on the upper Amazon. From such clashes a general war in South America might ensue. The United States should not be in the position of furnishing war materials while its government is urging its neighbors to preserve the peace.

SENATOR GUY D. GOFF.

The body of former Senator Guy D. Goff, of West Virginia, was interred at Arlington yesterday. It is fitting that he should rest in ground dedicated primarily to those who have served the country in war. Senator Goff's brilliant political career, cut short in 1926 because of ill health, somewhat overshadowed his record of military service. During the World War he volunteered and was made responsible for important work under Gen. Pershing, which he discharged with great ability. He worked out the legal technicalities connected with the occupation of Ehrenbreitstein by the American forces under Gen. Henry T. Allen, and won the commendation of lawyers and jurists by his contributions to military jurisprudence.

Senator Goff's legal training was greatly appreciated in the Senate. He handled several cases involving the election of senators, in which months of toil took their toll of his health and strength. Before entering the Senate he served as Assistant Attorney General, as general counsel of the Shipping Board, and as member of that board.

Former President Coolidge stated not long ago that membership in the Senate called for the most exacting and continuous labor. This was notably true in the case of Senator Goff, whose life unquestionably was shortened by his public service. His literary tastes, his culture enriched by wide travels, and his genial personality made him a delightful companion. He will be missed by scores of friends.

THE TAX DOLLAR.

How does Uncle Sam spend all the money he gets, and where can his expenses be trimmed? That is a question worrying Congress at the same time that it ponders the problem of expanding his depleted income with more taxes. The incoming administration has promised to cut $1,000,000,000 from government expenditures of about four times that amount. The prospects are that President Roosevelt will be given blanket authority to combine and eliminate bureaus and commissions. How much can be saved in this manner is problematical, but certainly it will be only a fraction of $1,000,000,000.

Of every dollar received for the Federal budget 43 cents is expended under the general classification of national defense, and 33 cents goes to pay interest on the public debt and provide sinking fund installments. Here then, is accounted for in two items 76 cents out of the dollar. The remaining 24 cents of the tax dollar, which provides something less than $1,000,000,000, must pay for the entire civil administration of every kind, including the ten executive departments, which can not be abandoned. Since the entire machinery of government administration consumes slightly less than the billion that is to be saved, it is evident that only small economies can be effected in the civil administration.

The big chance for a cut, as is generally recognized, lies in the vast amounts distributed in veterans' allowances, particularly those connected with non-service disabilities. The militant Economy League holds that $450,000,000 can be cut from the expenditures of the Veterans' Administration without real injustice. So far from agreeing to any such retrenchment, congressional sentiment has always been favorable to still further increasing veteran benefits. The Veterans' Administration now costs much more than the War and Navy departments combined. Of the tax dollar 26 cents goes to veterans, 10 cents to the War Department, and 8½ cents to the Navy. Little sentiment exists either in or out of Congress for further reductions in national defense in present world conditions, while no definite progress is made toward general armament reductions.

The House has already made heavy cuts in some of the department appropriations in comparison with last year, and undoubtedly economies can be effected by the reorganization of the executive administration as recommended by President Hoover, or under the prospective plans of the President-elect, but this probably will not provide 10 per cent of the desired billion cut. It is difficult to see where, outside the fixed debt charges and the indispensable Army and Navy, the 25 per cent saving can be even approximated unless the excessive and unwarranted allowances to non-war-disabled veterans are reduced.

PASSING THE BUCK.

Congress is always jealous of its powers and prerogatives unless there is an especially disagreeable job to be done. In ordinary times both the Senate and House are quick to resent any imaginary encroachment upon their authority. But in an emergency they often admit their incompetence by delegating new responsibilities to the President.

Last year when President Hoover suggested that he be given authority to reorganize the Government service a great deal of oratory was wasted on the division of powers between the legislative and executive branches. At first leaders in the House spurned the offer. But when it became evident that they could not themselves effect a reorganization or bring about any substantial economies, they conferred limited consolidation powers upon the President.

The thought of passing the buck to the President was such a happy one that congressional leaders are now overworking it. In spite of their intention to destroy the Hoover consolidation program, House leaders announced a few weeks ago that broad powers would be given President-elect Roosevelt to abolish unnecessary bureaus and commissions, to eliminate overlapping, and thus effect large savings. Now the Democratic leaders of the Senate have devised another plan whereby the responsibility for balancing the budget can be passed along to the new executive.

A great deal of buck-passing was indulged in following the conference with President-elect Roosevelt on the fiscal situation. The President-elect let it be known that the plan for increasing taxes on moderate incomes was not his. But most of the congressional leaders who went to New York have also disavowed it, and the scheme for balancing the budget by broader income taxes is virtually dead. To remedy the situation Democratic leaders of the Senate have come forth with a program that would hold tax legislation in abeyance while an attempt is made to wield the economy ax more vigorously.

It now appears that the income tax proposal was a trial balloon. Since it was so hurriedly pricked by legislators fearing sentiment "back home," congressional leaders are at the end of their rope. Every tax proposal that has been advanced has been killed by political opposition before it could be considered by the ways and means committee.

Democratic leaders are under the necessity of planning to balance the budget without any tax measure at this session. Hence, it is suggested that the new President be given broad powers over appropriations as well as over governmental agencies. The President would then be expected to balance the budget by suspension of appropriations which are in excess of revenue. This would be a complete surrender of the power of Congress over the purse.

The scheme to throw the onus of balancing the budget upon President-elect Roosevelt after he assumes office on March 4 is nothing more than another evasion of the most pressing issue on Capitol Hill.

IN SOUTHERN EUROPE.

Developments at home and abroad are intensifying a strained situation in Yugoslavia. The president of the Peasant-Democrat coalition of Croats and Serbs was given a hearing last week before the foreign affairs commission of the French parliament in which he demanded support from France for the republican movement in Yugoslavia, claiming that it was only through King Alexander's promises of a parliamentary government based on a broad democracy, that the Croats consented to join the Serbs.

The threatened break between the two factions over the dictatorship in Yugoslavia has been suspended, temporarily at least, because of complications arising over the action of Italy in seeking a close customs union with Albania, a move that is looked upon with suspicion by all Yugoslavia. Belgrade not only charges Italy with having fomented the Croatian independence movement, but is fearful that France may make concessions to Italy at Yugoslavia's expense.

The latest charge via Vienna is that Italy has shipped 50,000 rifles and 200 machine guns to Hungary, still further alarming Yugoslavia in connection with rumored threats of Italo-Hungarian cooperation and aggression. From Rome comes the countercharge that Czechoslovakia has shipped hundreds of heavy guns and trucks into Yugoslavia recently.

Economic distress in Yugoslavia is to some extent responsible for the political unrest. The demoralized state of agriculture has offered an opening for Communist propaganda, which is reported to have made alarming progress among the peasants. The Belgrade government claims that Italian intrigue is inflaming the Croatian population. But in the face of Italian aggression the Serbs and Croats seem to be willing to suspend their domestic quarrel.

THE SOVIET'S NEW PLAN.

Joseph Stalin's report on his stewardship during the last four years reads like a fairy tale. The starving Russian people are regaled with accounts of their "progress;" elaborate figures are quoted to show that the Soviet is becoming a great industrial power, and a new program is outlined to stir the imaginations of the down-trodden millions who have lost thought of anything save food and shelter. No doubt Stalin was speaking for foreign consumption. It is the policy of the Soviet always to put on a bold front before the rest of the world. For the itinerant workers and the destitute peasants who face a grave food shortage this year his words must have been full of biting irony.

Bookkeeping is almost unknown in the Soviet. 'Experts who have tried to install business methods in the factories report that no records are kept, and the bosses can not be induced to follow the simplest business methods. Yet Stalin comes forth with a report that 93.7 per cent of the five-year industrial program has been fulfilled. The volume of production in Russia, he says, has been multiplied by three since the pre-war period, and has doubled since 1928. Yet the people go hungry; there are no manufactured commodities for use of the farmer in return for his food crops; transportation is paralyzed, housing is pitifully inadequate and life has been reduced to its crudest terms.

Stalin boasts that wages have increased 67 per cent since 1928 and that there is no unemployment in Russia. He does not report by what enormous percentage food prices have increased along with the rise in wages. It is well known that wages are not enough to save workingmen from hunger and destitution. Most of the population is forced to labor without wages.

During the next five years Dictator Stalin plans to ease the distress of the people by placing more emphasis on consumers' goods and devoting less attention to the basic industries. Thus a new bait is held out to the people. Four years ago they had hopes of prosperity by 1933. In spite of their present deplorable plight, they are again asked to have faith that the Soviet will be turned into a land of plenty by the magic touch of communism. It is the policy of Stalin to apply the thumbscrews of communism as tight as possible without producing widespread resistance and revolt. Just now the thumbscrews are being loosened to appease the disgruntled peasants. But as soon as the people have grasped the new bait, another era of exploitation may be expected.

PHILIPPINE PLEBISCITE

By VICENTE VILLAMIN.

Before it was disfigured by the forces of illiberalism the Hawes-Cutting bill had a provision actualizing the principle of self-determination. The Filipinos, after a period of years when they shall have actually known the effects of losing the American tariff protection, would vote in a plebiscite whether or not they wanted complete political separation from the United States.

This was intended to give the Filipinos the choice of remaining under the American flag and achieving their happiness as a self-governing people with the cooperation of the American Nation, which has been so magnanimous to them since their island country came under its sovereignty a third of a century ago.

It was expected that if the Filipinos should elect to be with the United States a new arrangement could be concerted, establishing a permanent Filipino commonwealth with home rule, formulating a plan of economic coordination to reduce or eliminate whatever of economic conflict there might be between the two countries, and placing their commercial relations on a more complementary basis.

Carrying out the idea of cooperative interdependence, the United States, a temperate country, and the Philippines, a tropical one, could be immensely useful to each other. Planned mutual self-interest, economic, political, strategic, would be the base upon which the new relationship should stand.

Internationally, the presence of the American flag in the Philippines would definitely place those rich islands out of the range of covetous eyes and thus keep them from becoming an apple of international discord. That means peace in the Pacific and security for the Philippines.

But the plebiscite provision was dropped in the Senate under a parliamentary threat of filibuster. The objection to it was that it meant "holding the plebiscite in Wall street," implying that agents of American capital would find the Filipinos so gullible as to be induced to vote continued association with the most considerate and the least selfish nation in the world.

The allegation has no logic. Today, Wall street, which has heavy investments in Cuba, would be for an automatic and unconditional Philippine independence. Ten years hence, under the Hawes-Cutting dispensation, American capital in the islands would be so diminished through forced liquidation that Wall street would retain but precious little interest there.

If fresh capital is to go to the islands it will not be in the tariff-protected industries like sugar and coconut oil, whose entry to the United States has been restricted under the bill, but in those undeveloped products such as quinine, camphor, spices and rubber which are on the free list and therefore not involved in tariff complications.

It is reasonable to expect that international security, rather than economic advantage, would be the first consideration with the Filipinos when they exercise the plebiscitary privilege. The plebiscite provision should have been retained in the Hawes-Cutting bill.

Senate Democrats throw up their hands and abandon all tax measures. It is to be hoped some revenue officers were elected to the 73d Congress.

JUST FOLKS

PITY THE PRO.

The golfing pro must careful be
That all his drives are straight.
If playing golf he'd look like me,
He'd meet a jobless fate.
'Tis mine to laugh where'er I go
And grin at failure, but
It's misery to the golfing pro
To miss a three-foot putt.

To him the game is not a game,
But work severe and tense,
'Twould rob him of his hard-earned fame
To slice beyond the fence.
A hook is just a shot to me,
Which I can laugh away,
But let the golf pro hook and he
Is troubled for the day.

I'll take my six or seven or eight
And never say a word,
But let that be the golf pro's fate,
His very soul is stirred.
I can go laughing with my friends,
In ninety strokes or more,
But every golf pro's job depends
Upon a seventy score.

So gayly in the rough I go
Untroubled by my fate,
Glad I am not a golfing pro
Whose shots must all be straight.
That wife of mine would seldom see
New bonnet or a gown
If they dependent were on me
To run a short putt down.

A New Store Front Merely Hastens Bankruptcy If Business Is Gone

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN a man who owns a chain of prosperous newspapers loses the greater part of his fortune and finds his holdings reduced to one debt-free, small-town paper, he and his family can do one of two things.

They can refuse to face the inevitable and continue their prodigal way of living, in which case they will soon complete their ruin; or they can adjust themselves to new conditions, get their feet on solid ground, and begin the building of a new fortune.

Neither a family nor a Nation can recover from disaster while its hopes and plans for the future are based on resources that are gone.

America has lost some things that can never be recovered. And our people can not build solidly for the future until they accept the loss as a fact and adjust themselves to the new scheme of things it has prepared for them.

For many years America has grown an enormous surplus of wheat and depended on Europe to consume it.

When the Farm Board, in violation of economic law and common sense, endeavored to fix the price of wheat by cornering the visible supply in America, it lost a great deal more than the 400 million dollars it paid for experience.

When the American price of wheat was forced above the world price, Europe quit buying in America and looked elsewhere for her supply.

New fields were planted and new contracts made. The world discovered that it could get along without American wheat. And America's market for export wheat is gone.

Similar folly had similar effect on the market for cotton. Long resentful of America's monopoly, the world regarded price fixing as the last unbearable straw. It began to plant every nook and corner where climate and soil would grow cotton, and never again will it buy from America as it did in the past.

America is self-contained and can become infinitely richer by developing her own markets and her own resources.

But she can't grind corn if she expects to get power from a stream that has gone dry.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Leave It to Roosevelt.

Kansas City Star.

There is something rather touching about the anxiety of certain Democratic congressmen to have all decisions on major policy at this time held up, while they determine the will of President-elect Roosevelt. It has extended already to such problems as the war debts, the sales tax and the reorganization of governmental departments. And now the Democratic leaders in Congress await the pleasure of the President-elect on the domestic allotment farm relief bill, sponsored by the House committee on agriculture. To judge from the present attitude, these gentlemen are anxious that the new President shall be much more than what President Taft was fond of calling himself, the "titular leader of the party."

The result of the respectful policy adopted by the Democratic leadership in Congress seems likely to be that the incoming President will find a large assortment of difficult questions demanding his attention as soon as he has taken the oath of office. It will be incumbent on him to get them disposed of while Congress is still in a cooperative mood. This honeymoon period of a new administration rarely lasts more than six months.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sales Tax Would Be Less Costly to Poor Man Than Income Tax and Would Produce More Revenue.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When the members of Congress or the leaders of any political party advocate or give approval to a tax bill that would increase the taxes of the low-paid working classes by a minimum of about $30 per person and at the same time frown upon the suggestion of another tax measure which would produce a much larger revenue but would only tax the same small-salary workers by not more than about $5 each, the masses should be informed by what line of reasoning our congressmen and other political leaders approach the subject of taxation.

I have reference to the recent proposal to increase the normal tax rates and reduce the present exemptions, in lieu of a general sales tax, which is preferred by 90 per cent of the people. Let me illustrate briefly how these two tax bills would affect the small-salaried person: Take a married man with his wife and one dependent child, whose salary or total annual income is $3,000. At the present rate of taxation he will pay a tax of $1, there being an exemption of $2,500 for man and wife plus $400 for the one dependent child. On the basis of the changes recently proposed the rate is increased from 4 per cent to 6 per cent on the first $4,000 and the exemption is reduced to $2,000. This same man, with a salary of $3,000, would therefore pay a tax of $36 (6 per cent of $600) if the tax bill recently suggested in Congress should become law.

What would this same man pay if a sales tax bill, exempting food and clothing, as proposed, were enacted? Not more than $5 per year as the maximum. Certainly a man receiving only $3,000 per year could not afford to and would not spend more than $250 per year outside of clothing and food—for the things that would be subject to the sales tax. Since 2½ per cent is the biggest rate suggested by any of the sales tax advocates, it will readily be seen that the small-salaried man would not pay more than $5; and since a great many of the manufacturers would themselves absorb the taxes, the average cost to the little fellow would be less than $5 per year.

Since the recently proposed changes in the income tax law would, if enacted, cost the little-salaried man at least $30 per year more than a sales tax would cost him, and since it is admitted that a sales tax would produce a much greater revenue than the former, there are a lot of forgotten men—about 90 per cent of the population—that would like to be informed why the mere mention of a sales tax should "horrify" anyone, especially one who does not become similarly affected at the suggestion of a much more burdensome tax bill.

Ship Fires Give Warning That Superstructures Should Be Made of Noninflammable Materials.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The 41,000-ton French liner L'Atlantique was burned in the English Channel on January 4, and the details are sufficient to show that it was "preventable" after the warnings from past disasters.

I wrote you on July 3, 1931, about the fire on the Bermuda on June 17, at Hamilton, after repairs. This ship was destroyed by fire in England. I recalled the burning of the three German ships at Hoboken, in broad daylight, and that the crews were trapped and burned to death with every means of rescue at hand. The Shipping Board ship America was burned at the dockside at Newport News after refitting at a cost of $2,000,000.

Later came the Empress of Scotland, burned at Blythe, England; the Paris at Havre and the new ship Europa.

In all these casese the cabins and upper decks were fireswept and destroyed at the dockside with every means of fire-extinguishing promptly available.

I asked in my letter, "What would have happened if these fires had occurred in mid-Atlantic and in a gale?

On May 16, 1932, the French liner Georges Phillipa, on her maiden voyage, was burned off Cape Guardafui, at the entrance of the Gulf of Aden, with 1,000 passengers on board. So quickly did the fire spread that the wireless was put out of commismission and a number of the lifeboats were destroyed. Happening at night, the fire was seen, and a large number were saved by a Soviet tanker and later by the British ship Contractor. How many were lost, burned or drowned will never be known.

I have suggested many times that it is within the possibility of modern fire protection and marine architecture to have all cabins and superstructure made of noninflammable materials.

Is not this the province of the marine underwriters, or do we have to wait, as we did after the Vestris disaster, for another London conference to be instituted by the British Board of Trade?

AIR SERVICE BEGINS SOON TO NASHVILLE

Ludington Begins Six-Hour, Thrice-Weekly Flights on January 20.

A through air service between Washington and Nashville, Tenn., opening up a territory heretofore unserved by any airline will be started January 20, by the Ludington Airlines as an extension to the present New York, Philadelphia and Washington line, according to an announcement made yesterday by James M. Eaton, airline president.

Planes will leave Washington three times weekly, on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, returning from Nashville on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. The trip of approximately 630 miles will take a little more than six hours to fly including stops at the scheduled intermediate cities of Roanoke, Va., Bristol, Va., and Knoxville, Tenn. Cities which will also be served on the new route include Charlottesville, and Lynchburg, Va., both of which places will be designated as flag stops.

Although Ludington planes will fly this route on schedule for the next ten days, actual passenger operation will not be inaugurated until January 20. On that date it will be possible for passengers to leave Washington at 10:30 a. m., arriving at Nashville that afternoon at 4:35. The return trip will leave Nashville at 8 a. m., arriving in Washington at 3:40 in the afternoon. The round trip fare between here and Nashville will be $78.12.

The line will use the same type of equipment on the new service as is used on the New York to Washington run. In making the announcement Mr. Eaton pointed out that the increase in mileage has meant an increase in the line's personnel.

Charleston, Ill., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—A Coles County special grand jury today returned an indictment charging Mrs. Inez S. Carrell, 29-year-old Chicago widow, with murder in connection with deaths of her three children in a Mattoon, Ill., hotel last October 23. Sheriff Vintcen Aye said she would be arraigned tomorrow.

The children, Mary Ellen, 5; Robert, 7, and June 10, were found drowned in a bathtub, Mrs. Carrell lay on the floor in a stupor. She admitted, authorities said, she had taken her children's lives because she feared she could not provide for them. She then swallowed poison in an unsuccessful attempt to die.

California Legislature Hears Marchers' Plea

Sacramento, Calif., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—A self-styled hunger marchers' committee presented relief demands to the Legislature today in a heavily guarded capitol. Carrying hundreds of banners, the delegates, estimated by police to number about 700, marched from the City Plaza to the capitol. A committee of 25 was admitted to a joint session of the Senate and Assembly.

While the speakers addressed the legislators in the crowded Assembly chamber, their fellow delegates remained outside the capitol entrance. There were occasional cheers and shouts, but no disorder. City and State police, highway patrolmen and special officers were scattered through the capitol and the grounds.

New Tax-Row Plea Refused by Court

Pennsylvania to Press for Levy on Estate of Soup Magnate.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Whether Pennsylvania shall receive $17,000,000 in transfer inheritance tax from the estate of John T. Dorrance, who was president of the Campbell Soup Co., of Camden, N. J., or whether New Jersey shall receive $16,000,000, appeared to be undecided tonight despite a number of court decisions.

New Jersey contends that Dorrance was a resident of Burlington County in that State, where he died in September, 1930. Pennsylvania claims he was a resident of Delaware County, Pa., where he had a palatial residence and where his family entertained.

Today the Pennsylvania Supreme Court refused to reconsider a decision it recently made favoring the Pennsylvania contention. Previously the United States Supreme Court had decided against New Jersey in one of the angles of the case. Tonight Attorney General William A. Schnader, of Pennsylvania, said that the Keystone State would press without further delay for the collection of the tax. On the other hand, Attorney General William A. Stevens, of New Jersey, said at Trenton the Pennsylvania decision cleared the way for action in the New Jersey courts.

An examining committee of seven will be appointed by Lieut. Gov. Robert Burns tomorrow to investigate the host of rumors and counter-rumors that have spread from the big Oklahoma City and Seminole oil fields during the last two years.

22 MARINE PLANES ARRIVE TOMORROW

Air Force, Recently on Duty in Nicaragua, in Flight of 2,500 Miles.

Twenty-two planes of the aviation force of the Second Brigade, United States Marine Corps, of Nicaragua, will arrive at the Naval Air Station in Anacostia, tomorrow afternoon, according to an announcement made yesterday at Marine headquarters.

The fliers are coming here at the conclusion of a flight of more than 2,500 miles from Managua and will be welcomed by high officials of the Navy and Marine Corps, including Secretary of the Navy Adams, Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, United States Marine Corps, and Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy.

The combined squadrons are commanded by Capt. Patrick Mulcahy, United States Marine Corps, one of the corps' noted aces holding the Distinguished Service Medal for World War service.

When Nicaragua was formally evacuated on the first of the year the planes left Archibald Field, Managua, and started for the United States by different routes.

One squadron of five amphibians flew across the Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico flying in a straight line from Nicaragua to Florida, with stops in Guatemala, Honduras and Cuba.

The remaining planes, of the land type, followed the coast line of Central America and Mexico, reaching this country at Brownsville, Tex. The two groups have reunited at Charleston, S. C., and will fly here from that city as one unit.

There are 22 officers and 29 men in the combined units. In addition to Capt. Mulcahy, Capt. Harold C. Major and First Lieut. Hayne D. Boyden are in command of the flight.

SPAIN'S RIOTS FACE MARTIAL LAW MOVE

Government to Take Action in All Affected Provinces; Extremists Quelled.

Madrid, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—The government announced tonight that martial law would be established in the provinces where the anarchist uprising still is under way.

Cabinet ministers did not specify which provinces would be affected, but it was understood the action would be taken in Seville and Valencia, where sporadic outbreaks were reported late today.

Late dispatches said that the extremist hotbeds in Barcelona, Seville, Valencia and Murcia apparently had been quieted by precautions of governmental forces. It was estimated that 38 persons were killed and at least 100 injured in fighting that broke out in a number of cities on Sunday.

Those arrested as participants in open rebellion during the present disorders would be court-martialed under military tribunals, the government said today.

The cabinet announced that on February 1 a law would be submitted to Congress making persons responsible for rebellious movements directly answerable to ordinary courts instead of allowing a continuance of the present detailed and ramified judicial investigation into such plots.

The possession of arms and explosives will come under this proposed law.

After a lengthy session devoted to a discussion of this movement, the cabinet also announced that the extremists' plot had been mastered.

They would be used to pay workers on projects inaugurated to provide jobs for the unemployed. To each $1 certificate a 2-cent special stamp would be added weekly by the holder. At the end of the year the certificate, with $1.04 in stamps attached, would be redeemed by the welfare board for $1 in currency.

First U. S. Balloon Flight Is Honored

Airplanes in Philadelphia Commemorate 140th Anniversary.

Philadelphia, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—With the drone of airplane motors sounding overhead, Philadelphia observed today the 140th anniversary of the first balloon flight made in the Western Hemisphere. The historic aerial voyage was made January 9, 1793, by Jean Pierre Blanchard, who ascended from what was then known as the Walnut street prison grounds near Independence Hall in a balloon. He landed east of Woodbury, N. J.

In Washington Square, near the point of Blanchard's take-off, said to have been witnessed by President George Washington, brief addresses were made by the public safety director, Kern Dodge, and Graham S. Mason, president of the Aero Club of Pennsylvania. Planes flew overhead, and later, in eight minutes, streaked over the course that Blanchard flew in 56 minutes.

The exercises were postponed from yesterday because of unfavorable flying weather.

New Plane Device May Boost Speed

Retractable Landing Gears Designed for Two Kinds of Aircraft.

Baltimore, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Dr. Hugh H. Young, one of the world's leading urologists and chairman of the Maryland State Aviation Commission, has invented retractable landing gears for seaplanes and amphibians. The invention, he thinks, will reduce "parasitic resistance" 10 to 15 per cent.

"It really is so simple," Dr. Young said, "that I am astonished that no one has taken out patents on these inventions before."

Known the world over as an inventor of surgical instruments, Dr. Young's retractable gear inventions are the first of their kind he has attempted. He was granted patents on them last month. The gears can be used on either monoplanes or biplanes and enable conversion of a seaplane into an amphibian.

LIBERAL CHURCHMEN PLAN ORGANIZATION

Unitarians and Universalists Would Form Fellowship of Progressives.

Boston, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—A plan for organizing an "all-inclusive fellowship or religious liberals" under the name of the Free Church of America was announced today in a report of the Unitarian and Universalist commissions.

The commissions were appointed by the American Unitarian Association and the Universalist general convention in 1931 "to look into the practicability of uniting these two communions for the common good." The report adopted at a meeting on December 29, last, will be submitted to the legislative bodies of the two denominations for consideration.

The report described the commissions' consideration of three alternatives, retaining the status quo, forming an organic merger of the two denominations, or the organization of a larger and more inclusive fellowship of liberals. It pointed out that the commissions decided to recommend the latter.

In their preamble to the plan the commissions asserted that the members of the fellowship shall have entire freedom of belief and that "if we are controlled by a purpose to serve mankind in a spirit of mutual good will, differing statements of faith may enrich our common life."

"Under this plan," the report said, "the free church would become an all-inclusive fellowship of religious liberals. Local churches would retain their present name, adding thereto Free Church of America. Each affiliated denomination would retain, for the present at least, its ecclesiastical name and its funds. So far as possible, however, all departments of work would be united or coordinated in order to do away with duplication and to promote greater efficiency in the use of men and material."

Local churches, under the plan, might or might not merge, according to the determination of local policy. The report emphasized, however, that local consolidations were not the objective of the Free Church movement.

Contracts Urged For Local Bidders

Limitation on Letting of School Work Talked in Montgomery.

Limitations of contracts for school buildings to local bidders was discussed yesterday by the Montgomery County board of education. Representatives of county builders appeared before the board to urge such limitation.

The board appointed a committee to consult with attorney of the board to determine what authority, if any, the board may have to limit contracts for public buildings. Final plans for the construction of the addition to the Bethesda School and the remodeling of the Germantown School were approved.

A delegation representing the Community League of Poolesville, complained about crowded conditions at the Poolesville School. The delegation requested that additional rooms be provided as soon as possible.

Christy Mathewson, Jr., Is in Grave Condition

Shanghai, (Wednesday), Jan. 11 (A. P.).—Attending physicians today expressed grave concern regarding the condition of Christopher Mathewson, jr., who was hurt last Sunday in an airplane crash that resulted in the death of his bride.

"He is a sick man," the physicians said. Although they declined to say that Mathewson, the son of the late famous baseball player, had suffered a relapse, the attendants revealed that they feared an infection in his left leg. They said also that a compound fracture of the right arm might make an infection there possible.

THE PARADINE CASE

By ROBERT HICHENS

SYNOPSIS.

Sir Malcolm Keane, one of England's most celebrated advocates, has been briefed by Sir Simon Flaquer, solicitor, to defend his client, Mrs. Paradine, against a charge of murdering her husband, Col. Paradine.

While Mrs. Paradine is in Halloway jail awaiting trial, Lord Horfield is appointed judge of the case.

Sir Malcolm and his pretty wife, Gay, who bears a subtle resemblance to Mrs. Paradine, have been happily married for ten years, but the husband's obsession with the Paradine case is beginning to cast a dark shadow over their happiness. Sir Malcolm finds himself fascinated by the mysterious blonde, whom he passionately desires to save. Subconsciously he is not wholly convinced of her innocence, but he declares emphatically to Sir Simon that he believes her innocent. Sir Simon is skeptical about the defense Sir Malcolm has prepared, which is to suggest that the colonel's servant, William Marsh, who had been Paradine's batman in the war, might have had a hand in the murder. Sir Malcolm is afraid of Lord Horfield, who seems to have a streak of cruelty that manifests itself toward women who come up for trial before him.

Col. Paradine had been blinded in the war and had never seen his beautiful wife, who had been a servant before her marriage. She is a Dane, who had been rescued from a life of degradation by a philanthropic American. After a short period in the United States, she had settled in London to earn her living, and had married the rich Col. Paradine after the war.

Sir Malcolm goes alone to the north of England to look over the Paradine home at Hindley. On his return he invites the Horfields to dinner and the theater, against Gay's wishes. The dinner passes off in a friendly enough spirit. Leaving for the theater Keane takes Lady Horfield in his car and Gay accompanies Lord Horfield, who makes love to her, much to her disgust.

When the Paradine trial opens, Gay goes to it with Judith Flaquer, unknown to Malcolm.

MRS. PARADINE was questioned about her husband's unkindness and without hesitation gave details of it. It seemed evident that she had no wish or intention to water it down, make less of it than was true. Gay, up in the gallery, and probably many others, got the impression that Mrs. Paradine was trying to be absolutely truthful. Now and then she waited before answering a question, and Gay felt that, during the pause, she was seeking for words that would express with absolute accuracy what was in her mind as the truth. This, of course, was when Keane's questions demanded more than a mere yes or no.

One reply that for an instant greatly surprised the court came when Keane was dealing with Col. Paradine's two attacks of illness at Hindley. He said:

"Were you greatly upset and alarmed by these attacks?"

"No!" came the firm reply.

"You weren't alarmed?" he said, like one thinking the question had been misheard.

"No, my lord."

"Why not?" said the judge.

"I had seen a good deal of illness, my lord, and though I was very sorry my husband was unwell I didn't believe it was anything serious. May I explain, my lord?"

"Yes," said the judge.

"William Marsh, in his evidence, said I did not seem greatly concerned. That was quite true. I thought, as the doctors presently did, that my husband was suffering from acute indigestion and that would quickly pass away. And it did."

"Ah!" said the judge, and wrote in his notes.

Keane looked at the jury to see how they took this. Even he, who had so much experience of Mrs. Paradine, was wondering about her. What would happen presently when he came to the scene in London that preceded Col. Paradine's death?

This was what happened, after much more evidence had been given, some of it concerning William Marsh's attitude to his mistress at Hindley Hall and her relation to him, which she described as cordial, though she confessed that at times she had found Marsh rather difficult.

"But I forgave that because I knew my husband depended upon him for everything that I could not do."

"We now come to the afternoon preceding your husband's death. I ask you——" (his tone became very grave) ——to weigh your answers very carefully."

William Marsh raised his head and gazed at the prisoner. There was a curious dusky pallor near his eyes.

"On that afternoon you were in the study alone with your husband, were you not?" Keane asked.

"Yes."

"It has been given in evidence that certain of the household heard voices raised, as if in violent argument, within the room. Was there any disagreement at that time between you and your husband?"

"My husband was angry about something."

"Can you tell the jury what it was?"

"Kindly tell the jury what it was in connection with William Marsh which upset your husband."

"I asked my husband to find another place for William Marsh."

Marsh leaned forward in his seat staring at the prisoner like a man hypnotized, his two hands gripping his knees.

"Why was that?"

Mrs. Paradine hesitated. Her eyes went for a moment to Marsh and then returned to Keane.

"Answer the question," said the judge.

"I didn't wish Marsh to stay in the house."

"Why?"

"I didn't like his manner with me."

Mrs. Paradine's voice had become very low, and the sulky look had returned on her face. Keane kept his eyes fixed upon her.

"What was it in Marsh's manner to you that you disliked?" he asked, lightly raising and hardening his voice.

"I thought it was sometimes too familiar and sometimes too rough."

"Had you noticed that for some time?"

"Yes."

"Before coming to London?"

"Yes."

"Up at Hindley Hall?"

"Yes."

Looking directly at her Keane contracted his forehead in a frown. To the woman in the witness box it looked like a warning signal. A hard one came to her lips.

"You have heard Marsh's version of what happened that day when he entered the room?"

"Yes."

"Now I want yours. What caused Col. Paradine to shout for Marsh and ring his bell?"

"He was angry at what I had told him."

"About Marsh's manner to you?"

"Yes."

"He believed what you had told him?"

"Yes."

"And he rang for Marsh to have out with him?"

"Yes."

There was a strange pressure in the way counsel asked these questions. It was noticed by all the lawyers in court and, of course, by the judge. Afterward it was freely said in legal circles that Keane's examination of his own witness had resembled a cross-examination.

"You swear that?"

"I swear it."

"So that Marsh's version of all that took place is a fabric of lies?"

"My lord," interposed Sir Joseph Farrell, rising quickly. "I object. My learned brother is once more deliberately leading a witness and putting words into the mouth of a witness. I object most strongly."

"I was merely asking witness a question," said Keane, showing at once nervous anger.

"My lord, the learned counsel put it in the form of a statement—'So that Marsh's version of all that took place is a fabric of lies!' I object! That is a statement by counsel."

"The form is objectionable," said Lord Horfield. "I must require the learned counsel to keep to questions."

"As his lordship objects to the form of my question—not statement—I will change it. Do you agree with Marsh's account of what took place in the study between your husband, yourself and Marsh?"

"My recollection of it is different," said Mrs. Paradine.

"Tell the jury, please! Did you, before Marsh, ever say that he had privately told you he intended to leave the colonel's service?"

"No."

"Or behind his back—did you say that?"

"No."

"Nothing like it?"

"No."

"Now, Mrs. Paradine——" he leaned a little toward her, "——did you give any indication to the colonel as to exactly why you objected to Marsh's behavior to you?"

"I said Marsh was too familiar with me."

"In what way too familiar?"

Witness was silent.

"Please explain precisely what you mean by too familiar," said the judge, Mrs. Paradine looked at Keane. He frowned again.

"Kindly attend to me, witness?" said the judge sharply.

"My lord?"

"Please explain what exactly you mean by too familiar?"

"My lord, I was once a servant. Marsh knew that. And—so—he—he took liberties."

"Had Marsh discovered that you were once a servant?" asked the judge.

"Yes, my lord. He knew it."

"And that was why you wished him to leave Col. Paradine?"

"Yes, my lord."

"Continue, Sir Malcolm," said the judge, after writing down the answers.

"Had you no other reason?" said Keane.

Witness was silent.

"I must ask you this!" said Keane, with determination. "Did Marsh on more than one occasion attempt to make love to you?"

There was a visible sensation in court, especially noticeable among the many women present. As the question reached their ears every woman in court, except one, made a movement of some kind. The exception was Gay. Something kept her rigid. Her hands gripped each other in her lap. Her eyes were fastened on her husband behind the big spectacles that covered them. At that moment she was physically a prisoner bound, as if with cords, by her mind, incapable of relaxation.

"The motive! We're getting to it at last!" murmured Judith, who had become restless. "But—why?" she added in a whisper. "I can't understand Sir Malcolm."

Gay heard her, but gave no answer, made no comment.

"He spoke to me now and then in a way I didn't like," said Mrs. Paradine, dragging the words, as if they came from her lips reluctantly.

"Did Marsh try to make love to you?" persisted Keane.

"Yes."

"And did you, or did you not, resent that?"

Mrs. Paradine's eyes shot a glance of hatred at her counsel, but Keane, frowning, stared back at her.

"I—did," came from her.

"What is that?" said the judge, putting a hand to his ear. "I didn't catch it."

"Please repeat!" said Keane, in a rather loud voice. "Did you resent this?"

"I did," said Mrs. Paradine in a slightly louder voice.

"You did! And did you complain about it to your husband?"

"Yes."

"And was that the cause of your husband's outburst of anger on the day before his death?"

"Yes."

"When Marsh came into the study what happened?"

"My husband was very angry."

"Was there an argument, a very violent argument?"

"There was an argument."

"What did Marsh do?"

"He defended himself."

"By that do you mean that he denied that he had ever tried to make love to you?"

"Yes."

"He gave you the lie?"

"Yes."

"And I give her the lie now!" suddenly shouted a powerful voice with a fierceness that startled and thrilled the crowd.

Every face was turned toward Marsh, who had sprung to his feet and was gesticulating toward the bench.

"Take him out!" said Lord Horfield, lifting a hand. "This is gross contempt of court."

"But my lord," exclaimed Marsh, still in the shouting voice of a man beside himself with passion, "how can I sit still and hear a woman take away my character? I never——"

Two officers of the court seized him and made as if to drag him out, but he violently shook off their hands.

"I'll go with you," he said. "Leave me alone. I'm coming."

He turned again toward the bench.

"My lord," he said to the judge, "if there's a bit of justice left in England have me back and put me in the box again and give me a chance to answer her."

"Take him out," said the judge. "And keep him in custody within the precincts of the court until I direct you otherwise."

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

A gay ensemble for Palm Beach, with girdle and sleeve insets of bandana handkerchiefs—and accompanying jacket collared with the same. (Dah-ray design.)

NOW that there's nothing quite so colorful and interesting as resort wear, let's take a hasty glimpse at the highlights that gleamed in the recent collections, and see whether we, as fashun crickets, approve of what's going on!

In the first place, there are many color combinations. Wel-l-l, that's not a bad idea—it certainly lends variety and gayety to clothes that have just emerged from dark or heavy winter colors. White, of course, is combined with just about every vivid color you ever heard of, and deep tones like brown, wine and slate blue are used in darker knit wear or thin woolen frocks. Another gleam is the new prints that you have to be close to in order to state definitely whether they're prints or solid colors. The reason for this is that the prints are, in many cases, of stripes or checks so tiny, and so very nearly like their background in tint that it's hard to distinguish them from plain material. Of course these are for conservative daytime and travel clothes.

Another highlight, and to me about the most important, since it marks a new style departure, is the tendency to have the sleeves of frocks, suits or coats different in material from the bodice, but matching the skirt. We're used to contrasting yokes, jackets and blouses themselves, but to have the sleeves up and play a trick like this on us is something else again. Incidentally, the effect is swagger, informal and debonaire.

• • • •

I just run to bandana hankies, so there! And there—I have gone and done it again, something with a bandana hankie that is chic and colorful—no less than added it to a white shantung sports dress and made 'em like it!

The dress has a lot of work on it, too, in the form of incrustations which make the hip yoke, whilst the skirt is pleated. The bodice is not pleated, but incrusted in bars, and the sleeve insets are—parts of bandana hankies. Then we have a girdle of a folded hankie, just if you like it, that is, and lastly, we trim the separate jacket with the same gay color note. The buttons match the hankie, too, and can either be cloth covered or composition, as you please.

• • • •

We're no end clever these days—you have to really send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Post this week to appreciate our latest! For 'tis something for the whole family—mother, daddy and all the kiddies—and something that they will like. Something you can make in the garage—doesn't it sound mysterious? Something that you won't have to buy a single, solitary thing for—I mean, I'll bet you everything I have that you have all the necessaries right there—in the garage, right this minute! Just to put you out of "suspenders" this leaflet tells you how to make bedroom, beach and play slippers and sandals from—old automobile tires and inner tubes! And, artistic and comfortable ones, too. Believe it? Just send for the leaflet and see!

Au revoir.

What Today Means

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 11:30 a. m. to 12:50 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. The danger periods are from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m. and from 8:50 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

You will feel renewed on this January 11, your outlook on life will appear to be better and you will tackle your problems with replenished vigor. If conditions seem particularly difficult at this time, do not be surprised to receive help from some unexpected source. Old friends may come back into your live.

The child born on this January 11 will chafe under restraint of any sort. He will be unruly at school and difficult to control. Quick to grasp his school work, he will forget it as quickly. He will lack method in all that he does. He will put up a "bold front" and will bluff whenever he feels sure that he can get away with it. He must be made to know the importance of being sincere.

If January 11 is the date of your birth, you are inclined to be a disagreeable person, grouchy, and hard to get along with. You do not like people, you are not a student of human nature, and you do not care to mix with individuals or groups of people. You are a bit cynical. You are inclined to doubt people, rather than to open your heart and mind to them and trust. People find it difficult, sometimes impossible to be nice to you.

Born on January 11, you are aggressive in business and you do not let your conscience trouble you too much if a neat little profit is involved. You do not pull well in harness with others. Any type of work where you could get off by yourself would probably suit you. One of your finest traits is a great love of animals; truly, you are fond of them, particularly dogs. Often it would seem that you find in them a companionship that you can not find in human beings. With them you show a surprisingly kind side of your nature, affectionate and understanding. To see an animal suffer seems to make your heart cry out. You would probably be happiest in some work where you could have many animals about you to supervise and to care for. You do not take a great interest in your home or family if you have one.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

MOTTLED TEETH AND LIGHT.

EVIDENCE accumulates that too much fluorine in the drinking water is the cause of mottled teeth. It seems to be pretty well settled that if the community water supply has less than one part flourine in two million parts of water it will not cause mottling. If the proportion is over that level but less than four parts per million there will be some cases of mottling, but they will not be the prevailing condition. When the fluorine content of the water rises above four per million more than 85 per cent of the older children have the condition. Some waters have been known to run as high as 15 parts per million.

It is certain that artesian waters flowing from deep wells, and of exceptional purity as regards bacteria and organic matter, and of unusual safety as to typhoid and diarrheal diseases, are most unsafe to drink with respect to mottled teeth.

Another factor besides fluorine content may be necessary in order that the disorder may develop. This other element, according to Dr. J. J. Reed, is the actinic rays of sunlight. The proof that he offers is:

The mottling never appears until the teeth have been cut. It is most in evidence in those teeth that are most exposed to light. The back teeth and the back surfaces of the other teeth do not become mottled. Mouth breathers, persons with short lips, and all others who habitually keep the mouth open are most susceptible to it. It is more apt to prevail in Arizona, Colorado, and in other regions where the sun shines all the time and where the light rays are powerful.

Dr. McKay, who has been working on this subject for many years, accepts fluorine as the principal cause, but he expresses no opinion on the subject of light being the other factor.

The mottling is due to a poor development of the enamel layer and particularly in its cement substance. The poor structure of the enamel causes it to absorb color from tobacco and other pigments from different sources.

Neither Dr. Reed nor Dr. McKay, in recent articles, express an opinion as to how much the mottled tooth is damaged except as it is made unsightly.

When mottled enamel develops among the children of a community there is a choice of remedies. After having the public water supply examined for fluorine and convicted of being the cause of the disorder the city fathers can arrange to have the chemical removed or they can provide another water supply. Some parents will have their household return to the use of water from the lot well, taking the risk of typhoid.

TUBERCULOSIS.

Mrs. R. D. writes: 1. How does one fumigate a house in which a patient died from tuberculosis after having been sick for four years?

2. What should be done with articles that can not be washed.

3. For what reason did the patient's doctor perform an operation on her side by removing a part of rib to drain from the pleural cavity, and also at her neck?

REPLY.

1. Sun the house well, air well and clean well. Beyond that you need not go.

2. Sun and air them.

3. Probably there was a tuberculous pleurisy and tubercular glands with pus in both.

REMARKABLE BIDDING.

FAULTY methods of play, as well as faulty methods of bidding, can be extremely expensive at the Contract table. The losses due to faulty systems probably cannot be computed with any degree of accuracy. In support of this statement, the hand below, which was played recently in Columbus, Ohio, is rather interesting.

The players compute that the difference caused by the choice of a lead by the Opening Hand on the actual bidding was something around 10,000 points. The bidding throughout is to me most extraordinary, and I find it strange that the gentleman who sent me the hand did not find anything worthy of comment in it.

North—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K J 10 2 ♡ A K 9 8 ◇ K Q 9 2 ♣ 8
♠ Q 9 6 5 3 ♡ 7 6 2 ◇ 8 7 5 ♣ A 3	N W E S	♠ 7 ♡ 10 4 3 ◇ 2 ♣ K J 10 9 7 6 5 2
	♠ A 8 4 ♡ Q J 5 ◇ A J 10 6 4 ♣ Q 4

North	East	South	West
1NT	Dbl.	Redbl.	2♣
3NT	4♣	6NT	Pass
Pass	Dbl.	Redbl.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Of course, North's choice of the bid of one notrump on this hand, which contains 4 honor-tricks and three biddable suits, is extremely bad. The best bids in Contract are natural bids, and surely the most natural Opening with North's hand is either a heart or a spade.

East's Double is equally extraordinary.

When North bid three notrump, he certainly was flirting with danger, as the success of the contract, if East's Double was to be believed at all, must be predicated upon an Opening spade lead and finding a stopper in clubs in his partner's hand.

Against the Opening spade lead, however, everything was serene, and, through faulty defense by East and West, North made all 13 tricks, cashing four spades, four hearts and five diamonds. My correspondent points out that had East chosen instead a club for his Opening lead, East and West would have reeled off 8 club tricks and defeated the contract 7 tricks for a penalty of 7,000 points. This is quite true, but the point of the hand to me is the wrong choice of an Opening bid by North and East's extraordinary Takeout Double, which seemingly hypnotized him in later feeling that, in some manner, he could defeat the vulnerable bidding by his opponents.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

DEAR Miss Pierce: As I write this the newspapers publish conflicting reports predicting alternately that this will be a mild or a very severe winter. Thank Heaven for the mild start. My lips are not yet a mass of dry scales. But, it may not be long. Who knows what the weatherman will do? Will you please publish a few hints on keeping the lips smooth during the winter.

C. C. R.

• • • •

I am awfully glad to give C. C. R. and the many others who like her suffer from dry, chapped lips as soon as the cold weather sets in.

Avoid Moistening or Biting Lips.

Many women unconsciously moisten their lips. If the lips are very dry or parched, it is more or less natural to moisten them slightly with the tongue. When this becomes a habit, it is harmful, for it aggravates a tendency to dryness and chapping.

Likewise, biting the lips, pulling of the scabs when they are chapped, makes them more sensitive and more prone to roughness.

Massage with Cream.

Massage with a heavy nourishing cream or oil is excellent to overcome dryness of lips, just as it is to nourish skin of face and rest of the body. Take just a little on your index finger. Massage gently in a round and round, pressing movement into your lips.

Before make-up use a little oily cream on your lips as a base. Women who do not use lipstick, find a colorless pomade soothing. It also seems to bring out the natural color of the lips, and at the same time protects them against the drying effect of winter winds.

Creamy Lipstick.

During the winter a creamier texture of lipstick rouge should be used than during the summer months. And, it should be applied gently, not rubbed in as the lips are too sensitive for such treatment. Make-up should be removed with a cold or cleansing cream rather than with soap and water during the cold weather.

Cold Sores.

Touch cold sores with a small pad of cotton moistened in spirits of camphor. If you haven't this remedy handy, touch a bit of ice to the cold sore, but not to the rest of the lips.

If you follow these hints, your lips should remain firmly smooth and lovely during the cold months.

HOOVER GIVES CAMP TO STATE FOR PARK

Asks That Presidents Use Site on Rapidan if They Desire.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover have donated their camp, the summer White House in Madison County, Va., to the Commonwealth with the request that it be made a part of the Shenandoah National Park, William E. Carson, chairman of the State commission on conservation and development, announced today.

The deed was made to Mr. Carson as trustee, and in it was expressed Mr. Hoover's desire to have the camp made a part of the proposed national park and preserved for the use of other Presidents who may wish to camp there.

A letter from the President to Mr. Carson incorporated in the deed of trust, reiterated his original intention in regard to the camp as expressed on August 2, 1929, as follows:

"As I told you some months ago, I should like to put it in permanent form for the use of my successors.

• • • I desire that the camp shall ultimately become the property of the Shenandoah National Park so that at the expiration of my term of office, they may hold it for my successors for a week-end camp, or, if future Presidents do not wish to avail themselves of it, it is at the disposal of the park itself. Therefore, I would be glad to either deed it now or await the transfer of the park to the Federal Government, whichever you think best."

The area covered in the deed includes three tracts, the camp tract, of 164 acres, the President's school tract of 1.58 acres, both owned in fee simple by Mr. Hoover, and a 46.5 acre tract near the camp in which leasehold rights were held by the President.

The camp proper is located near the confluence of Mill Prong and Laurel Prong of the Rapidan River and its purchase by the President was dated July 31, 1931.

College Baby

Hood Students Will Care for Capital Girl Scientifically.

Frederick, Md., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—A 7-month-old girl is registered at Hood College as "adopted" charge of the senior students of the home economics department.

Known to the coeds as Ruth "Strawn," the baby was borrowed from a home in Washington in connection with the home management course. She will remain at the college until near the end of the college year next June.

The purpose of the "adoption" of Ruth is not only for experience to the senior students in the care of the child, but also the observation of the baby's physical and mental growth.

This is part of the preparental education program at Hood College in its instruction of child care and training. The nursery play school of the school is the laboratory for this work.

The care of the child at Strawn Cottage is kept on a scientific schedule and everything is carefully supervised. Charts showing the physical and mental development of the child are being kept.

This is the first time a girl baby has been taken in charge by the home management course. Ruth's predecessors were Bobby "Strawn," who lived at the college last year, and Dickie "Strawn," the baby who was cared for two years ago.

NEW REGIME IS SEEN OFFERING DEBT PLAN

Experts Feel U. S. Would Revise Sums if Nations Return to Gold.

Geneva, Jan. 10 (U.P.).—Opinion gained ground among experts at the preparatory economic conference today that the new Roosevelt administration at Washington would offer debt revision and tariff reductions in return for a general return to the gold standard.

The Washington incoming regime also was understood to desire the removal of restrictions against freer movements of goods and capital generally.

Both the French and American experts at this conference indicated they were opposed to the British suggestion that inflation or "reflation" should be proposed as one remedy to solve the world's economic crisis.

The French have not insisted on the settlement of all intergovernmental debts as a solution to the depression, a plan sponsored by Great Britain. They were believed playing for time in the hope of a united front on debts which would enable debtor nations to get a joint settlement from America rather than through separate negotiations.

The Washington administration so far has stood firmly against handling debts in the mass, preferring to talk over each problem with the debtor government in question.

The experts during the day's sessions practically decided a satisfactory settlement of the war debts question must be reached before the proposed world economic conference opens in London. Otherwise, it was felt, the question must be included on the London agenda despite objections from the United States.

Memphis Employe Indicted in Theft

Embezzlement of $6,200 Is Laid to Bookkeeper in Department.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—The city government today came under the scrutiny of the Shelby County grand jury and a firm of independent auditors, following preliminary investigations revealing shortages in excess of $12,000.

For years it has been the pride of Representative E. H. Crump, leader of the political organization in power, and other Memphians, that there has been no dishonesty among city and county officials for more than a quarter of a century.

The first indictment came from the grand jury today. It charged M. D. Sabin with embezzling $6,200 during 1932 while he was chief bookkeeper in the streets, bridges and sewers department. Sabin was discharged about a month ago. Last month City Treasurer Jack Hessen reported the theft of $1,772 from his office. Mayor Overton immediately ordered an audit of his books in an effort to determine whether the discrepancy was a mistake or an actual theft. Since it proved to be a theft, he directed that the investigation be extended to embrace all departments.

New Chicago List Of Hoodlums Out

Murray Humphries, Said to Have Taken Place of Capone, No. 1.

Chicago, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Though disclaimed as an official black book of hoodlumdom a new list of "public enemies" was given out today from the office of Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker.

Bearing 39 names, it accorded Murray Humphries, reputed successor to Al Capone, the No. 1 place his chieftain held on former lists. With him were William "Three-Fingered" Jack White, gunman and racketeer; "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, Frank Nitti, William "Klondike" O'Donnell, Frank Diamond, Joe Saltis, Danny Stanton, James "Fur" Sammons, Philip D'Andrea, who was a Capone bodyguard; Claude Maddox and "Bugs" Moran along with less notorious characters.

James P. Allman, commissioner of police, said, however, public enemies are more likely to be known as "the 400" in this year that marks Chicago's century of progress and that Mayor Cermak and police officials have decided to mark down many more known hoodlums than the 39.

2 Yale Students Hurt, 40 Flee at College Fire

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Two Yale students were injured and about 40 others fled to safety today when fire damaged the north wing of Calhoun College, one of the new house-plan units at Yale. Floyd C. Jefferson, jr., 22, of Short Hills, N. J., a sophomore, was seriously hurt as he jumped from a third-floor window. Adolph C. Valentine, 19, of Ansonia, suffered severe burns.

The fire is believed to have started in a suite of rooms occupied by Jefferson and Austin B. Osgood, of Hopedale, Mass. The latter escaped injury. The cause was undetermined.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

JOHN BARRYMORE.

Five new records were established in the 1932 poll. The total number of the country's leading motion picture critics voting was 368, as against the previous high of 340 in 1931. "Grand Hotel's" total of 296 votes was a new record for a single picture, the previous top having been scored in 1931 by "Cimarron," with 273 votes. The lead attained by the first picture in the list over its nearest competitor also was the biggest margin yet scored by a winner, and, for the first time, every picture in the winning list had a vote of 135 or more, while a picture with 117 votes could not get into the first ten.

A new record for number of winners by a single producing company was set by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which garnered five out of the ten, with two for United Artists and one each for Paramount, Universal and RKO.

Pictures listed in the poll were those released in the fiscal year to November 1, 1932. The ten voted best, with the number of votes each received, follow:

1. GRAND HOTEL 296
2. THE CHAMP 214
3. ARROWSMITH 192
4. THE GUARDSMAN 170
5. SMILIN' THROUGH 168
6. DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE. 161
7. EMMA 154
8. A BILL OF DIVORCEMENT.. 141
9. BACK STREET 136
10. SCARFACE 135

In addition to the ten winners, Mr. Alicoate appends a supplementary list of honor in which 47 titles are included, ranging in votes from 117 down to a meager 10. This list is headed by "Shanghai Express" and ended by "Letty Lynton," thus giving M-G-M the bottom as well as the top of all the recorded voting.

Mr. Alicoate points out, incidentally, that no two pictures in the winning ten were of exactly the same type, although "The Champ" and "Emma," both written by Frances Marion, fall within the "human interest" class.

"Grand Hotel" featured the greatest all-star cast ever put in a picture, headed by John and Lionel Barrymore and Greta Garbo, plus a well-told story.

"Arrowsmith" was another well-told story of a doctor's devotion to duty.

"Smilin' Through" was a sentimental romance.

"The Guardsman" was a smartly acted high comedy.

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" belonged in the "horror class" and was marked by a fine dual performance by Fredric March.

"Back Street" was a lachrymose love story.

"Scarface" outdid all other gangster pictures in frankness and brutality.

These are Film Daily's descriptions, with which this department finds it easily possible to agree.

Upon being petitioned by Mr. Alicoate to participate in the balloting, this column, on last November 30, published the following list as its selections from among such of the subjects eligible for consideration as it had seen, qualified by the observation—which I think still holds good—that it is impossible for any individual to view more than a comparatively small percentage of the total number of feature pictures released in a year:

1. GRAND HOTEL.
2. LOVE ME TONIGHT.
3. SCARFACE.
4. BACK STREET.
5. ONCE IN A LIFETIME.
6. ARROWSMITH.
7. SMILIN' THROUGH.
8. EMMA.
9. THE PHANTOM PRESIDENT.
10. RESERVED FOR LADIES.

Six of these, I find, are placed among the ten best in the national voting. Of two others on the winning list—"The Guardsman" and "A Bill of Divorcement"—no account could be taken, since neither has been viewed by this desk. What the circumstances were that prevented my seeing either one or both, I can not, at the moment, recall, but the fact remains that, along with many other excellent releases during the year, they were missed.

Which, of course, is not at all to say that they would necessarily have been nominated on my list, even if I had seen them.

"Love Me Tonight" is catalogued No. 5 on the auxiliary "roll of honor" list and "The Phantom President" and "Once in a Lifetime." I discover upon careful search, to be tucked away as Nos. 20 and 22 on the same list. "Reserved for Ladies," as was to have been expected, is nowhere—although I believe Mr. Richard Watts, jr., of the New York Herald Tribune, and one or two others shared my enthusiasm for it as a genial vehicle for the crisp talents of Leslie Howard.

And so endeth the 1932 open season for shooting at the moon!

As the opening date of "The Bitter Tea of General Yen" approaches at RKO-Keith's, it is pleasant to read the enthusiastic reports of its many superlative merits emanating from Pittsburgh, where it is already on view in the Stanley-Warner Theater. The consensus of critical opinion seems to be that this is one of the outstanding achievements of Columbia Pictures—a view with which I am inclined to agree.

Director Capra has contrived the most convincing scenes of mob violence and wartime hysteria ever brought to the screen, if I have my recollection of a midnight preview on straight, and Nils Asther contributes an astonishingly true portrayal of the suave cosmopolite of the title.

The weaknesses that I perceive in the film confine themselves to the liberties that have been taken with the ending of the story—and thereby with the character of Gen. Yen—and the miscasting of Barbara Stanwyck in the role of Megan Davis, a part for which she seems to me to be in no way equipped.

These are considerations, however, that will probably be submerged in the larger effect of the picture as a whole—particularly to those who have never read, or have largely forgotten, the subtleties of Mrs. Grace Zaring Stone's admirable novel.

Tonight a group of 100 alumni of Penn State will attend the performance at the Earle Theater to pay honor to Alexander Gray, a graduate in engineering, who shares headline distinction with Bernice Claire on the vaudeville bill for the current week.

Following the performance in the theater, which is featured on the screen by Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson in "The Devil Is Driving," a party will be tossed in tribute to Mr. Gray, no doubt for his skill in engineering a career of note on the light musical stage and in pictures.

Penn State seems to have been peculiarly prolific in musical talent of various sorts. It will be recalled by many in Washington that it was from that institution of higher learning that Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians came to fame and fortune.

Personal aside to Mrs. William N. Roach, jr., 3104 R street: Thank you very much for your thoughtfulness.

Kate Smith, who, according to an unconfirmed report, arrived in New York last Monday, is getting to be a regular party gal. Probably because she was guest of honor at a swanky soiree in the Cocoanut Grove of the Ambassador Hotel in Hollywood, during the making of her Paramount picture, "Hello, Everybody" she is to be similarly honored, if present plans eventuate successfully, at the Cocoanut Grove in the Park Central Hotel, New York, on Sunday, January 15.

COQUETRY IN ANCIENT ROME

Fredric March, as Marcus Superbus, finds it a bit difficult to persuade Claudette Colbert, as the Empress Poppaea, to accept her conge so that he may devote his entire interest to Mercia, the Christian, in Cecil B. De Mille's colossal cinema version of "The Sign of the Cross," at the National.

Norwegian Wins Corcoran Prize With Nordic Beauty

"Cameo," Portrait by Bjorn Egeli, Capital Artist, Is Acclaimed Most Popular; Second Honors Go to Frederick J. Waugh.

St. Matthew's Court, Washington's art colony, has yielded a painter who does tawny and beautiful young women with an eclat to suit the layman's eye.

And so Bjorn Egeli, 32-year-old Norwegian whose easel and pallette are underneath a St. Matthew's Court skylight, has been awarded the $200 award for the most publicly popular picture in the Thirteenth Biennial Exhibition of Contemporary American Paintings of the Corcoran Gallery of Art.

"Cameo," a superb rendition of a golden-haired young woman, gracefully, but with dignity, reclining in a drawing-room chair, is Egeli's painting. The portrait has been termed technically striking by art experts.

Three hundred and twenty-three out of 2,400 art enthusiasts balloted for "Cameo," after critically examining the many paintings displayed.

The second most popular public choice was "70 Degrees North," by Frederick J. Waugh. It delineates a polar bear on an ice floe. Mr. Waugh is a nationally outstanding creator of marine paintings.

Though the professional judges in the exhibition liked the work of Messrs. Egeli and Waugh, they were strong in their judgment that "Woman With Black Cat," by the noted George Luks, should win their award. It was pointed out yesterday that the public choice and that of the professional art jury seldom agree, although the former's selection is invariably one of composite exceptional taste.

Mr. Egeli formerly was a student at the Corcoran Gallery of Art. Since leaving that school he has been successful here in portrait painting. Sound academic knowledge and craftamanship are displayed in "Cameo," experts say.

The exhibition will continue on view through Sunday. The gallery will be open from 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. and on Sunday from 2 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Following Mrs. Willebrandt's complaint that the watch had been stolen, police located it, and notified her of the description of the man selling it in the store.

MUSSOLINI OPPOSES TECHNOCRACY IN U.S.

Il Duce Tells Rabbi Silver America Needs Master-Mind Control.

Rome, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini told an American visitor today that a central master mind and central economic control are necessary in a country like America, but he is opposed to rule by technocracy.

The premier set forth his ideas in an interview at his office in the Palazo Venezia with Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Technology is imperative as part of any nation's governing system, he said, but life is too complex to be ruled effectively by it alone.

The much-discussed word technocracy, according to the rabbi, who talked with Il Duce half an hour, seemed to imply a sort of technological absolution to the Fascist leader.

Man More Than Technology.

"Man is more than technology; he is an artistic, a political and a moral being," the rabbi quoted the premier. "Technology is only a section of social life, whereas the whole life of man must be satisfied."

When the rabbi asked if he thought central control of economic life possible in a country like America, he answered, "Yes, it is possible and necessary."

In reply to a question about whether he believed a single master hand was needed to achieve this central planning, he laughed and said: "Of course I believe a lone guiding mind to be the first requirement, but there must also be the means for achievement."

A country such as America, the premier added, must control economic life just as it controls the Army and Navy. In ruling Fascist Italy, Mussolini has put this principle in practice by maintaining rigid supervision over industry.

Technocracy Is Favored.

Palo Alto, Calif., Jan. 10 (U.P.).—Technocracy's value is that it has dramatically pointed the attention of millions of people to the key of present economic maladjustment, Theodore Hoover, dean of the Stanford University School of Engineering and brother of President Hoover, said today.

more or less haphazard control of

"If we pursue a continuation of mechanical civilization, with no adequate measures of control, the machine will eventually smash us up," he said.

Replacement in government of "the average politician" by capable technicians, and intelligent development of governmental agencies to assure the utmost benefit from the machine age is necessary, he indicated.

U.S. RETRENCHMENT URGED BY HARRISON

Economy to Balance Budget Stressed by Senator in New York Address.

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Rigid economies in Government and a balanced budget were placed "first and foremost" among the country's problems by Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, tonight in addressing the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The Mississippian, ranking Democratic member of the Senate's finance committee and probable chairman when his party takes over that branch, appealed to all who have constructive ideas to present them.

"Our first object in this Congress is to reduce appropriations and apply economies," Harrison continued. "If the budget can not be balanced through this method there will be, in my opinion, no hesitation, as distasteful as it is, to find additional methods of taxation to accomplish the desired result."

Look to Party's Chiefs.

The recent Democratic victories in the election, he said, meant the people wanted a change in policies of Government.

"Many other causes, no doubt, influenced that election," he continued, "but one thing is sure, and that is, the American people have entrusted the Democratic party in control of the Government; they look to the leadership of that party to carry out every pledge of its platform and redeem every promise that it made during the campaign.

"The more I have come into contact with the incoming President, the more I am impressed with his ability, his vision, his courage, his heart and his grasp of these great questions. I have not the slightest doubt that when he is inducted into office on the fourth day of March he will have a program and that program, if transmitted into law, will hasten a return of confidence and economic restoration.

Stresses Retrenchment.

"First and foremost among the problems which now confront us is the necessity for rigid retrenchment and economies in Government. In such times as these, when people are suffering and taxes are most burdensome, every activity of the Government that is not absolutely necessary should be abolished or delayed. Every person in the employ of the Government or who receives benefits from the Government should be willing to cooperate in a sound retrenchment program. • • •

"In a crisis such as this the broadest powers under the Constitution should be given the President in order that when Gov. Roosevelt takes charge on March 4 he can apply them. Our hope lies in the passage of such a resolution through Congress, and I believe it will be done."

Congress Auto License Plate Design Adopted

The District Commissioners yesterday adopted a standard license plate for members of Congress in accordance with an act adopted by that body. The tag is to be in white lettering with a blue background. The plate is marked "73rd Congress, District of Columbia" and will bear the member's number.

Wishing to speed up the local automobile tag distributing for 1934, the Commissioners also decided to reverse the colors of the 1933 plates, thus providing black letters on a yellow background.

WET ACTION TAKEN IN SIX LEGISLATURES

(Associated Press.)

Measures relating to liquor received attention in the Legislatures of six States whose sessions started yesterday.

Indiana Democrats, now controlling both branches of their Legislature, introduced a bill in the House to repeal the Wright enforcement act. A similar measure last summer passed the Democratic-controled House but was defeated in the Senate, where the Republicans were in the majority.

In both houses of the New York Legislature bills were introduced providing for a commission of nine, with a $10,000 appropriation, to draft a liquor control and taxation plan and report February 15. The State enforcement act was previously repealed. Democrats introduced the bills but they are approved by the Republican leaders.

New Jersey legislators also moved to appoint a commission to study liquor taxation.

In the Georgia Legislature a bill will be introduced today, the Atlanta Journal said, to legalize beer and levy a State tax of 60 cents a barrel. The measure would provide county option and also authorize county taxes.

A bill to legalize beer also is expected to come before the South Carolina Legislature.

The Illinois Senate beat down opposition and advanced, to third reading bills to repeal the State search and seizure and State prohibition acts.

All the proposals for State liquor taxation and control are contingent upon the modification of repeal of the national prohibition laws.

GAMES FRIDAY.
Tech vs. Central.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

FORM held true yesterday in the high school series as Eastern staved off a determined Roosevelt rally in the final minutes of their game to down the Rough Riders, 35-32, while Tech mauled Western for a 45-24 victory in a dull and listless game. One of the smallest crowds to witness a series game in recent years failed to fill the bleacher seats surrounding the Tech court.

Surprised by Roosevelt's power and held in check throughout the first half by its effective guarding, Eastern came back with a rush that sent it nine points ahead, a lead that proved too great for Roosevelt to overcome.

The game produced a thrilling battle between Al Waters, Eastern forward, converted into a center, and Shorty Harris, bowlegged guard of the Rough Riders. Honors were about even. Waters' supporting cast of Jack Bayliss and Harry Bassin rendered invaluable service. Joe Sherman was the second of a double-barrelled volley fired at the Light Blue. Waters was on the verge of complete exhaustion when removed from the fray.

Roosevelt Gains Lead at Half.

After a nip and tuck struggle in the first period, which ended in a 7-7 stalemate, Roosevelt assumed a slight lead near the end of the half and was ahead, 15-13 at the intermission. But the gangling person of Harry Bassin erased this lead at the resumption of hostilities with a pair of neat pot shots. Thereafter Eastern was never behind.

After Eastern stretched the distance between the 2 to 9 points, thanks to Jack Bayliss, Roosevelt unleashed a drive that all but tied the score. Grimm and Sherman scored from the field, while Harris dropped a brace of fouls to bring the score to 34-30 to the accompanying shrieks of the Roosevelt supporters. But Bassin put victory under lock and key with his third goal of the day and the game ended shortly after Harris sank another free toss.

Tech Team Brilliant In Scarlet Panties.

Sporting new uniforms of scarlet panties and white jerseys with maroon markings, Tech made a pretty picture as it took the floor for its sedebut with Western, and the manner in which the boys handled themselves was in keeping with their fine appearance.

Coach Artie Boyd permitted his regulars, Wheeler, Reichardt, Daly, Thomas and Reed, to run up a 15-to-1 lead before inserting the second stringers. Western did fare a little better in the second period, but, with Tech holding its own, the progress was not noticeable.

Third team players and a couple of boys strongly suspected of being assistant managers, found their way into the line-up in the third period, but it was adding insult to injury, and Western, cut to the quick, began to cheer up. Brennan and Corcoran were the spearheads in a drive that brought the Georgetowners to within 9 points of Tech, 33 to 24. For a time it seemed that Tech would lose its lead.

Boyd rushed the regulars back into the fray, and, after a short time, the Western storm subsided and Tech sailed calmly into port with the decision.

Golf Now Too Tame, Declares Sarazen, Urging 8-Inch Cups to Provide Thrills

More 1-Putt Greens Needed to Heighten Interest in Game.

By BRIAN BELL.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen believes golf's greatest need of the moment is a greater thrill and he thinks he knows how to supply it. His suggestion is make the cups bigger.

"Golf now is too tame," said the open champion of the United States and Great Britain.

"Good players knock the ball on the green in two strokes and then take two putts for a par 4. If we had more one-putt greens the game would be much more interesting to watch and play.

"My idea would be to make the cups 8 inches across instead of 4¼. What a difference that extra 3¾ inches would make! It would work distinctly to the advantage of the star player, and I will tell you why.

Says Halved Holes Would Be Fewer.

"Say a crack player and one just average are playing. The average player puts his ball on the green, say 20 or 25 feet from the cup. The expert is closer, say 12 to 15 feet. But each will take two putts and halve the hole. If the cups were bigger, the average player still would take his two putts from 20 to 25 feet, but the expert from 12 to 15 feet would knock his in every time. There would be the thrill.

"In Florida some time soon we are going to have a 72-hole tournament with the cups eight inches. I believe some good player well on his game will play four rounds all under 70. An expert hitting his shots will get within 10 or 12 feet of the cup on many holes and he will knock in just about every one of the putts the first time.

Poor Player Would Rarely Benefit.

"I know a lot of followers of golf think the bigger cup would work out just the opposite to the way I suggest, but I think they are wrong. They think the bigger cup would give the poor player a better chance to hole his putts, but my idea is that the poor player is not close enough to get down in one putt, with either a 4¼-inch or 8-inch cup.

"The poy-off in golf is to get that second shot close to the cup and that is where skill counts; but with the small cups, we lose a lot of the thrill because even the best players can not hole many 12 and 15 footers in a round, whereas with an extra 3¾ inches, they would hole many more of these long ones than they would miss.

Plans Tournament In Florida.

"Another thing, the crack golfer misses his putts by an inch or maybe two. The average or a little below the average misses by maybe 2 inches. With the bigger opening the ones now being barely misses would go down, but the others would stay out then just as they do now.

"This tournament we will have in Florida will be an eyeopener in my opinion. This will be news, perhaps, to the folks in Florida that we are going to have such a novel competition, but I know we can put it on and just watch the scores. They will knock your eye out.

"Get a bet down that some fellow will shoot four rounds under 70. It's a cinch."

Says Pros Would Sink All Shots Within Twelve Feet.

Basket Ball Marks Pro Debut of 'Babe'

Miss Didrikson to Receive $400 for Gotham Game; To Go on Stage.

New York, Jan. 10 (U.P.).—Mildred ("Babe") Didrikson, America's outstanding woman athlete, will make her first professional appearance as a basket ball player instead of a pocket billiard expert.

The Dallas girl will receive $400 for playing one game with the Brooklyn Yankees, a girls' team, against the Long Island Ducklings at Arcadia Hall Friday night.

Miss Didrikson had been slated to play four games of pocket billiards against Miss Ruth McGinnis, of Stroudsburg, Pa., on Wednesday and Thursday, but her manager, George Emerson, requested postponement of the billiards to Saturday and Sunday, because of the basket ball engagement and to give the "Babe" more time to practice on the pool table.

The "Babe" is scheduled to appear at automobile shows in Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Detroit. She will open a vaudeville engagement in Chicago January 27, receiving $1,000 for one week.

Yankees Seek Mott, Georgia U. Fly-Hawk

Atlanta, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Published reports here today said Norman (Buster) Mott, University of Georgia athletic star, had been offered a New York Yankee baseball contract and was expected to sign with the American League upon the completion of his college career this spring.

Mott is a hard-hitting outfielder. He was one of the best half backs in the South last year and the best ball carrier on the Georgia Football Team.

The report said it was not definitely known whether Mott would participate in his last year of intercollegiate baseball or not.

Committee Named To Sell Jersey Club

"Responsible" Buyer Is Lined Up to Purchase Team Franchise.

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—In an effort to untangle the muddled Jersey City financial situation, the International Baseball League directors today empowered a committee of three, headed by President Charles H. Knapp, of Baltimore, to negotiate the sale of the club.

The committee revealed it had a "responsible" but unidentified buyer under consideration. President Knapp said, however, it was not the Brooklyn club of the National League.

Earlier in the day Sam Colacurcio, present owner of Jersey City, mentioned two offers, one from Sam Cambria, Baltimore business man, and Fritz Maisel, manager of the Baltimore Orioles last year, and the other from Brooklyn.

Primo to Box Schaaf on Feb. 10

Signing of Articles Awaits Agreement on Percentages.

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (U.P.)—Negotiations were virtually completed today for Ernie Schaaf and Primo Carnera to battle 10 rounds at Madison Square Garden on February 10, with the winner slated to meet Jack Sharkey for the heavyweight title in June.

Jimmy Johnston, Garden promoter, said he expected the match to be announced officially Thursday after Schaaf's manager, Johnny Buckley, comes down from Boston to straighten out one or two minor details.

Carnera, the Italian giant, lumbered into Johnston's office today accompanied by his retinue of managers, bankers and lawyers. The Carneras agreed to everything except percentages. It's understood the wily Mr. Buckley wants more than 25 per cent for Schaaf, claiming his impressive victory Friday over Stanley Poreda made him a far greater drawing card than Primo. But the Carneras insist on each boxer getting one-fourth of the gate.

Charley Johnston Due To Manage Schaaf.

This is expected to be the last bout Schaaf will fight under the management of Buckley and Jack Sharkey because his contract with them expires on March 4. He is expected then to duck under the wing of Charley Johnston, Jimmy's brother. This shift to the Johnston stable, coupled with his alleged hatred for Sharkey, will make great ballyhoo in case he is matched with his old boss, Sharkey. If Carnera beats the blond Bostonian, the Schaaf-Johnston deal naturally will be off.

Schaaf will be the favorite over the ambling Alp. Carnera has done nothing impressive since his return from Europe last summer. He lost a close decision to Poreda, and after punching over a few palookas out in the tank towns, knocked out Jose Santa, Portuguese giant, at the Garden. This feat added little to his luster. Carnera will outweigh Ernie about 50 pounds.

Carnera Surprised At Match.

The Venetian Leviathan talked today as if he were certain to beat Schaaf; in fact, he would have the press believe he was amazed that the Bostonian would fight him.

"I had just about given up hopes of getting a first-rater in the ring with me," he said. "Max Schmeling used a bad eye as an excuse for running out on me after his fight with young Stribling, when we were signed in good faith. He declined to meet me since, even though I offered to withdraw my lawsuit against him if he would.

"Max Baer refused to box me for the Christmas fund this winter after I had agreed to work for 20 per cent. After I beat Schaaf, I'll surprise a lot of people against Sharkey. I've had a lot of experience since I boxed Jack a year ago last summer."

Philadelphia Promoters Sue Poreda for $7,145

New York, Jan. 10 (U.P.).—Stanley Poreda, Jersey City heavyweight, today was sued for $7,145 damages for alleged breach of contract. The suit contained a charge that he failed to go through with a bout scheduled with Georfe Godfrey on November 10.

Five Colleges Seek Berths in Dixie Body

Richmond, Va., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Problems of vital importance to the future of intercollegiate athletics in the Carolinas, Virginia and Maryland will be considered by the athletic officials of the ten schools remaining in the Southern Conference here Friday and Saturday. It will be the first meeting since the split of the old 23-member Southern Conference at Knoxville in December.

The general public probably will be interested most in the question of admitting new members. William and Mary and the University of Richmond from Virginia, Wake Forest and Davidson from North Carolina and Furman University of South Carolina are among the prospects.

Major League Salary Cuts Seen as General But Gentle

Some Magnates Even Show Unexpected Generosity.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Although the general idea seems to be to trim major league baseball pay rolls for 1933 at least 10 per cent, in the aggregate, most magnates are not only dealing gently with the contracts of their stars, but in many cases already have manifested unexpected generosity.

Thus it appears, on the strength of information obtained by the Associated Press, that the "bad news" is not going to be quite so bad at all for two contrasting classes of talent—(1) the veterans who kept their 1932 work up to satisfactory or exceptional levels, and (2) the youngsters who made the grade on their first or second attempts.

Pittsburgh not only has added a high-salaried performer in Fred Lindstrom, but decided to give raises to Lloyd Waner and Larry French, amounting to $1,500 each, restore a "cut" made in Paul Waner's 1932 salary, and boost the pay of crack youngsters like Earl Grace, Tony Piet, Bill Swift and Floyd Vaughan.

The situation in Pittsburgh, where increases are expected to offset "cuts" for such slipping veterans as Kremer and Brame, is a contrast to the expression of Sam Breadon, president of the 1931 champion Cardinals, in emphasizing his pay roll "will be slashed, not trimmed."

Such "cuts" as are made by the pennant teams, Yankees and Cubs, will be dictated by special circumstances. New pitching sensations on these teams like Johnny Allen and Lonnie Warneke will get increases. Manager Joe McCarthy, of the Yankees already has signed a new three-year cotnract at a substantial increase, and the rest of Col. Ruppert's world champions, including Babe Ruth, do not fear the arrival of the mail man.

Babe to Take Another Cut And Like It.

The Babe probably will take another $5,000 "slice" or even $10,000, and like it, especially as Commissioner Landis, revealed now as only a $40,000 employe of the national game, is no longer a salary rival of Ruth's. The Cubs will cut Burleigh Grimes, with a bonus offer to the old spitballer if he makes a comeback.

The pay roll of the Athletics will be considerably reduced and that of the White Sox proportionately boosted by the shift of stars like Simmons, Dykes and Haas to Chicago. Simmons has another year to go on his $100,000 three-year contract which the White Sox have taken over. Dykes was the highest paid third sacker in the league, under Connie Mack, but probably will accept a cut this season.

Other Clubs Planning Retrenchment.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves, Philadelphia Nationals, and Cincinnati Reds all will reduce salaries upward of 10 per cent, with some exceptions. Most of Brooklyn's big salaries, including those of Dazzy Vance and Hack Wilson, will be further deflated. Wilson collected $16,500 last year, half what he signed for with the Cubs the year before.

Cleveland, according to Billy Evans, hopes to shave off at least 10 per cent in salaries, along with other economies. Although contributing no details about their plans, it is assumed the Browns, Tigers and Red Sox contemplate similar retrenchme .

Eight Winston-Salem Stars Bought by Giants

New York, Jan. 10 (U.P.).—Purchase of eight young players from the Winston-Salem Club of the Piedmont League was announced tonight by the New York Giants Baseball Club.

The Giants also announced the issuance of an unconditional release to John Fisher, infielder, obtained from Fordham University.

Loughran's Lefts Defeat Levinsky

Fighting a heady, although strictly defensive bout, Loughran kept his swinging opponent off with his extended left and rarely elected to trade punches with the Midwesterner.

At times when the former light heavy king chose to rush at the oncoming Levinsky, the Chicagoan countered with a driving swing that forced Loughran to cover up and back-pedal.

Levinsky shifted his attack to the body in the fifth round, and for several minutes Tommy was in trouble. In the seventh Loughran was forced to hang on until he once again shook his head clear.

COLT FALLS DEAD.

The horse was ridden by Jockey Jimmy Smith, who was pinned under the animal when it dropped, but who escaped injury.

WRESTLERS OUTBATTLE BOXERS.

Urbana, Ill. (A.P.).—In a special competition varsity wrestlers of the University of Illinois won all five "scuffles" against varsity boxers in rough-and-tumble battling.

2 Wage Cuts, One Raise For Stanford's Coach

Stanford University, Calif., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—With announcement today of the 10 per cent salary cut of Stanford Board of Athletic Control employes, statistically minded persons had this to ponder over:

C. E. ("Tiny") Thornhill, of the football staff, will receive two salary cuts and one increase.

As present assistant coach he will take a cut. When he takes over his new position of head coach he will receive an increase. Then his new salary will be slashed 10 per cent to conform with the board's decision.

Cornell Quits Sports, Except in Basket Ball

Ithaca, N. Y., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Cornell's athletic council tonight voted to abandon all intercollegiate competition, except basket ball, for the balance of the school year.

All of Cornell's schedules, both varsity and freshman, in wrestling, ice hockey, fencing, indoor and outdoor track, baseball, crew and lacrosse will be abandoned. Thus the Ithacans will not be represented in the Poughkeepsie Regatta of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association, assuming that it will be held this year.

1. After further study, reduce the athletic association staff as far as possible.

2. Subject employes retained to a salary cut.

3. Maintain the athletic plant to the extent of preventing "uneconomic deterioration."

1,800 Watch Norwegian Win Bout

Has Clear Margin in All But Second and Seventh Rounds.

Phelps Stops Chaney; Caplan Is Winner Over Swetnam.

By DAVE HERMAN.

JIMMY MACK'S efforts to keep pace with a will-o'-the wisp in the person of Pete Senstol proved futile last night at Portner's Arena as the clever Norwegian bantamweight champion, more agressive and equipped with greater endurance, peppered him from corner to corner to score a unanimous eght-round decision before 1,800 spectators in a slugging match.

Sanstol's performance was the finest since Midget Wolgast showed at the reformed brewery last winter, although the fans, strangely, were none too complimentary about the match, complaining often and finally winding up with as many boos as an unpopular decision would receive.

But Mack was so completely outclassed, outpointed, outgeneraled, as

JEFFERSON, LOUISIANA DERBY CANDIDATES BOW TO AT TOP

Filly, at 4-1, 1½ Lengths Winner

Lewis and Pool Score Doubles to Show Way to Riders.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Probable candidates for the Jefferson and Louisiana derbies were given another airing here this afternoon in the fifth event, a handicap at six furlongs exclusively for 3-year-olds.

The Shandon Farms scratched the recent winner Ennis, and entrusted the task to its filly, at top. The daughter of American Flag obliged by driving to a length and a half score, completing her journey in 1:13 1-5 to pay $10.40.

Eva B. raced to the place having two lengths to spare over Bobsled, while Paul T. was fourth in the eight-horse field.

Doris B. and Col. Hatfield Rush to Front.

The fast steppers, Doris B. and Col. Hatfield, cut out the running for three furlongs, then Bobsled reached the front before entering the stretch. It was anybody's race as Eva B. made her bid when straightened out and took command At Top, now in full stride, came along on the outside in the final furlong and won going away.

The veteran jockey, Earl Pool, showed that he has lost none of his talent in the saddle when he rode a cool-headed, strong finish astride the $16.80-for-$2 shot, Barney Sexton, to get that gelding home a nose winner of the curtain raiser. Bill Orange, with Monte Parke up, took the place by a head from Thistle Fyrn. Barney Sexton was rated well up with the leaders, and, when called upon, drove to the front and held on gamely with Pool holding his mount together admirably. Bill Orange finished gamely, despite his early efforts.

Another good-priced winner clicked in the second race. Toytown proved much the best, winning by four lengths, to pay $12.40. Elegy, the favorite, made a valiant but vain effort to give Earl Pool a double, finishing a hard-ridden second with a head to spare over Maechute.

Hitting the Headpin

OLLIE PACINI hung up an all-time set record score in Section B, Holy Name League, last night at the Petworth Alleys when he walloped the wood for a total of 430. Included in the three games was a high mark of 169. His bowling featured St. Peter's 2-1 victory over St. Anne's.

In Section C, Holy Name League, which held forth at Temple, Moore's 149, a new season record, and 366 took the individual honors. Holy Trinity rocked the pins for a new team game mark of 587 and followed through with some consistent bowling for a 1,577 set, second high of the season.

Harry Stein's 346 and Russell Buzzard's 135 bagged individual honors in the Postoffice Department League at Columbia. Russetts, with 524, and Browns, with 1,515, led the teams.

Hokie Smith rolled a high game of 171 and set of 394 as King Pin took the odd game from Lucky Strike in the National Capital League on the latter's drives. King Pin had a 667 game and 1,858 set.

Charley Bernhardt's 164 and 400 scores featured the Columbia Heights League activities at Arcadia. Swann had high team game, 641, and Cool's Drinks popped 1,829 pins for the set laurels.

Columbians snared team prizes in the Washington Ladies loop at Columbia with a 530 game and 1,570 set. Catherine Quigley rolled the best game of the evening, 140, and Pauline Ford turned in a 356 set.

Whitam's 125 and 333 copped the bacon on the Eastern Star Ladies League at Lucky Strike. Joseph Milans No. 1 led the teams with a 498 game and 1,462 set.

Departmental League Feature to A. G. O. Five

The four way tie in the Departmental basket ball league was split last night when War Department A. G. O. defeated Post Exchange in a thrilling 30-26 game at the Y. M. C. A. In other league games Interstate Commerce defeated Labor, 39-29, and Naval Hospital ran wild against Bureau of Standards, 46-19.

WOOD CHOICE IN AGUA OPEN

Fine Field of 184 Tees Off This Morning in $7,500 Event.

By WILLIAM WARNE.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 10 (A.P.).—The fairway leading to the largest pot of gold on the Western winter golf trail will be a well-worn trail by tomorrow night, for 184 golfers are ready to tee off in the fourth annual Agua Caliente Open Tournament, which this year is worth $7,500.

Some of the color faded from the tournament yesterday when Gene Sarazen, British and American open champ and winner of the first Agua Caliente open, was taken ill with influenza in Los Angeles. But the largest field in the history of the tournament and a number of expert shotmakers should keep it from being drab.

Morrison to Defend Title.

Fred Morrison, the big Pasadena pro who won the tournament last when it paid $15,000 in prizes, will defend his title. Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., whose well-nigh perfect game has brought him victory in three money tournaments in quick succession, will lead the pack which will try to wrest it from him.

Wood's victory yesterday in the $5,000 Los Angeles open, which he finished with a 72-hole score of 281, 3 better than par, firmly planted him in the favorite's position, even without considering his victories in the Pasadena and San Francisco tournaments.

No one has won two Agua Caliente tournaments, although Sarazen finished second last year after winning in 1930, when the prize money totaled $25,000. George Von Elm and Johnny Golden, who tied for first place in 1931, with Morrison, will try to break the rule this year.

Among the tophotch contenders, Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente professional, can not be counted out in advance. Leo tied with Willie Hunter, of Los Angeles, for second place in the Los Angeles open and appeared to be reaching the top of his game, which can be brilliant.

Promising Youngsters On Hand.

A likely group of youngsters, one of whom may come through with a maiden triumph in a big tournament, also is on hand. Included are Harold Sampson, of Burlingame, Calif., who was fourth at Los Angeles; Dick Metz, Deal, N. J.; Arthur Hambrick, Zanesville, Ohio, winner of the Santa Monica amateur-pro tourney, and Willie Goggin, San Francisco.

Among the amateurs, Jonny De Forest, British amateur champion, and John Dawson, Chicago, appear the best bets to finish in the van.

The tournament will begin at 8 a. m. tomorrow. Eighteen holes will be played each of the four days.

GOVERNMENT LEAGUE.

Faro, Fitzpatrick and Harvey led the scoring as Fort Myer scored a 54-to-29 victory over Union Printers in the Government League at Bolling Field last night. After offering stubborn resistance in the first half, the Printers gradually dropped behind and the troopers scored with ease.

St. Alban's Tossers Defeat Landon, 35-17

St. Alban's Basket Ball Team, with McGee riding far out in front and scoring as many points as the losing team did, defeated Landon Prep yesterday, 35-17, at American University Gymnasium.

Helped along by J. Henderson, who tallied 8 points, McGee, with 17 points, led the way to an easy win. The game was close only in the first half, which ended 14-9.

CENTER LOOP PRODUCES UPSET

Olmsted Five Beats Griffith, 34-25, in Community Play.

OLMSTED GRILL'S surprising 34-25 victory over Griffith's featured a night of brisk action and thrilling games in the Community Center League. Other games in Section A resulted in a 28-24 victory over Calvary Drakes for the Northern Preps and a 29-26 triumph of Investigation over Utah State Society. Large crowds witnessed the games.

In Section B a tie score, rare as a dodo in basket ball, resulted in the Rhode Island Avenue-Tremonts encounter. The teams battled to a 19-19 tie in the regulation time, and Referee Toby Taylor called the game because of the lateness of the hour. The game will be replayed. Potomac Boat Club ran roughshod over Anacostia Business Men, winning by a 45-20 count, and Atlas swamped Public Documents, 45-12.

D. C. Scholastic Fives In Four Games Today

Central scored over the Baltimoreans in handy fashion at Baltimore in their first game and expects to repeat today. The Blue has been traveling at a fast clip, as its 14 consecutive victories will attest, but gave evidence of slipping into a slump against George Washington Monday.

NAVY LISTS 6 "BIG" GRID GAMES

Chicago May Land Army Clash for World's Fair.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 10.—The Naval Academy and Notre Dame having finally decided to play their annual football game in Baltimore Stadium, November 4, rather than some point in the Midwest sector, as originally reported, Navy's schedule was finally approved by authorities of the institution today, and released by Lieut. Comdr. John L. Hall, jr., graduate manager of athletics.

The schedule is without doubt the most ambitious ever undertaken by a Naval eleven. It contains nine games, six of which will be with outright first rate teams, namely, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Notre Dame, Columbia, Princeton and Army. And the other three could scarcely be regarded as "breathers," for the once so-called "small fellows," can be counted upon to give plenty of trouble nowadays.

William-Mary Upset Example.

Navy experienced an example of this when it was beaten by William and Mary during the late season. The Middies will, in fact, tackle five of their major opponents in a row.

One of the interesting features of the season will be the meeting with Pittsburgh. It will be the first contest between the Panthers and Tars in a score of years, and they are also booked for 1934. University of Virginia also will be met for the first time in many years. The only strictly newcomer in the list is Mercer University, of Macon, Ga. The Army-Navy battle is fixed for November 25, but the site has not been chosen. It is Army's turn to make the selection, and indications are that the game will be staged on the Polo Grounds, New York, which has long held favor with the Army lads.

It is not unlikely, however, that the game will be transferred to Chicago as a feature of a mammoth athletic program to be put on in connection with the World's Fair. Official Washington probably will have something to say in this connection, and, in view of that, it is hinted that a definite decision would not be forthcoming until after the change of administration in March.

Only Three Games Listed At Home.

The Middies will play only three games on home grounds, with the contest with Virginia as the feature, although the Notre Dame fracas in Baltimore will be a big drawing card.

As has been the case for the last several years, the Tars will open with William and Mary College September 30 at home. The rest of the schedule follows:

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

IT is a foregone conclusion that the United States will lose some of its valued wave lengths as a result of the North American Radio Conference, which will be held some time during 1933, likely in Mexico City during April. Canada, Mexico and Cuba are almost certain to leave the conference with more channels than they have now.

This forced contraction in an already overcrowded spectrum probably will result in a wholesale reallocation of radio facilities within the United States. This reassignment of wave lengths may involve more stations than that of 1928, when the radio act became effective.

With this in mind, Commissioner Harold A. Lafount declared:

"The geographical extent of the United States is such that there is a tendency toward the simultaneous operation of Eastern and Western stations. I look with regret for a complete breakdown of clear channel stations in 1933.

"I am sure we shall have during 1933 a North American conference looking to a rearrangement of radio facilities between North American countries and Cuba."

CAPT. TAYLOR BRANSON, speaking during the memorial program broadcast by the Marine Band and dedicated to the late Capt. William H. Santelmann, declared that the latter had served longer than any of his sixteen predecessors. Also Capt. Santelmann had the distinction of playing in the Marine Band in the famous days when Sousa was its leader.

"An apostle of Wagnerian music, Capt. Santelmann had expressed the wish that 'Siegfried's Funeral March,' from 'Gotterdammerung,' be played at his own funeral," Capt. Branson told listeners. "Accordingly we are playing 'Siegfried's Funeral March' as our opening number this afternoon."

The remainder of the program was devoted to seven selections composed by Capt. Santelmann. These included "Our Glorious Banner" and "National Centennial" marches, "Pocahontas" overture, the "Debutante" waltz and a descriptive piece, "The Ride of the Hussars."

Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State under President Wilson, and Ambassador Frederich W. von Prittwitz und Gaffron, of Germany, will be the principal speaker during the luncheon meeting of the New York Board of Trade (WRC, 1:40 p. m.) today.

After reading in these columns Sunday that radio stations have recorded sound effects for almost every kind of a broadcast, a listener telephoned to tell us of the hobby of Bernard L. Borger, of 230 Rhode Island avenue northwest, who made quite a name for himself in the programs of Radio Joe by imitating the bark of a dog.

"I have listened to imitations of dogs barking on many of the network programs—the dog in "Moonshine and Honeysuckle" and in the Eskimos, but I never heard any which equaled Mr. Borger's bark.

"His 'dog' attracted so much attention that Radio Joe finally had it recorded. This was done so successfully that thereafter listeners couldn't tell whether it was Mr. Borger or the phonograph record. When it comes to imitating dogs over the radio Mr. Borger seems to be in a class by himself."

FRITZ REINER will direct the N. B. C. symphony concert during the broadcast over WRC at 9 o'clock tonight. The program will open with Beethoven's Symphony in C. Minor, No. 5, and also will include "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," a tone poem by Richard Strauss, and the "Treasure Waltz," from Johann Strauss' "The Gypsy Baron."

Hans Kindler, of the National Symphony Orchestra, will be the guest conductor on this program next week.

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Share-the-Work Movement, will be heard over the WJZ network at 10:15 o'clock tonight.

A half-hour revue will be staged in the Columbia studios tonight with Frank Knight as master of ceremonies. Tito Guizar, Connie Boswell, Crane Calder, Melodeers, Rhoda Arnold, Brad Reynolds and Emery Deutsch will be among those present (WJSV, 10 o'clock).

A PROGRAM which improves as it goes on is the Corn Cob Pipe Club of Virginia. It has the genuine Southern atmosphere. The name of the master of ceremonies is unknown to us, but with his Southern manner he adds as much to the program as any of the performers.

The cackling of the rooster and the grunting of the pig, following the theme song, are amusing features. A supreme accomplishment in imitations and a feat the New York radio sound experts would do well to study is the Corn Cob Pipe Club imitation of a passing train. You can almost see the locomotive and the heavy cars as you hear them bump over the crossing.

The broadcast originates in Station WRVA, Richmond, Va., and includes a network of 30 stations, which extend from coast to coast. Among the cities reached are New York, Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco and both Portlands—Oregon and Maine.

If the performance is as good tonight (WRC, 10 o'clock) as it was last Wednesday, it will be well worth while tuning in.

Achmed Abdullah, novelist and short-story writer, will be heard over WMAL in conjunction with the dramatization of his story, "The Dancer of Samarkand," in the Five Star Theater at 7:30 tonight.

The Radio Rubes, singers of yokel songs for the National Broadcasting Co., will appear on the vaudeville offering at Loew's Fox Theater the week beginning January 20, according to Eddy Gilmore.

This quartet is made up of Rufe Davis, Arty Hall and John and Neal Libby. Until recently Davis' principal pastime was going to the little Oklahoma town he comes from and watching the trains come in. From this daily diversion he learned to imitate trains, and this accomplishment started him on a stage career.

Davis found three other rural lads and they began harmonizing in the best barber-shop tradition. Soon they became local celebrities, and it was not long before the manager of an Oklahoma broadcasting station asked them to go on the air. They did and made good. From their local setting the Radio Rubes soon went to New York, where they met Tom Kennedy, who found work for them with N. B. C. The Radio Rubes are heard frequently over Station WRC.

Navy Committee Favors Closing Ordnance Plant

(Associated Press.)

A favorable report on the bill of Senator Hatfield (Republican), West Virginia, authorizing the Navy to dispose of its ordnance plant at South Charleston, W. Va., was voted yesterday by the Senate Naval Committee.

Stocks Continue Advances As Shorts Renew Buying

Better Report on Tonnage of Steel Aids; Turnover, 1,146,837 Shares.

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Financial markets gave optimism the benefit of the doubt today and quotations lifted, in some cases smartly.

Shares, after a couple of hesitant hours, swung upward with a vigor that suggested hasty short covering.

The rise that finally brought many net gains of 1 to 4 points for shares started in a rather desultory way shortly after noon, following publication of U. S. Steel Corporation's unfilled tonnage statement. The backlog dropped only 161 tons in December, and because a larger decrease had been widely expected traders found a pleasant surprise in this news. Some short covering followed, but the market did not become notably strong until wheat was closing in Chicago. Sales during the last 50 minutes approximated 600,000 shares, roughly half the total day's business of 1,146,837 shares.

U. S. Steel issues were in demand, the common rising more than 2 points and the preferred about 4. Shorts in the latter appeared less certain as to what dividend action was to be taken late this month, and covered rather freely. Wheat's bulge, attributed partly to weather prospects, lent a hand to the farm group. Case jumped around 4 points and Harvester nearly 2, while mail order issues were firmer. Industrials generally were strong. Eastman Kodak, American Can, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, American Tobacco "B," Auburn, Nash Motors, Continental Can, Liggett & Myers "B" and Standard Oil of New Jersey improved 1 to 3 net.

Rails averaged more than a point higher; gains ranged from 1 to just over 2 for Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Louisville & Nashville, Lackawanna, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific and the still rising Pennsylvania. Traffic last week seems to have shown fair improvement over a week ago, although comparisons are difficult because of the holiday influence. However, Wall street likes to feel that a January upturn is in the making and that 1932 was the carriers' worst year.

Important foreign exchanges improved in relation to dollars. French francs again moved above the gold point, while sterling gained a cent, but bankers attached no undue significance to this move.

Stocks.

Short covering was indicated in the brisk rise of stocks. The list gained 1.7 points. A better steel tonnage showing than some authorities expected aided the advance. Sales volume climbed to 1,146,837 shares.

Bonds.

Profit-taking flurries failed to prevent a general advance in bonds. Prices increased seven-tenths of a point under the leadership of specialties. The turnover totaled $12,904,000.

Curb.

Irregularity in trend was superseded by rapid advances, with most of the market favorites in the lead. Early losses were wiped out. Sales volume dropped to 140,000 shares.

Wheat.

Lack of offerings revealed signs of an oversold market, and wheat prices soared nearly 3 cents per bushel, passing the 50-cent line. May wheat sold at 50¼ to 50½. Other grains joined the advance.

Cotton.

Prices moved to higher ground on the trade's buying. March contracts closed at 6.37, with the general market 9 to 15 points higher. Liverpool reported an easier market, due to hedging.

Crude Oil Averages.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading was quieter on the stock exchange with fair strength being shown in gilt-edged securities. Renewed support was given to Argentine rails, but there was no easing otherwise. The closing was irregular.

Paris—The bourse failing to find a stimulant in foreign advices was indecisive and declined slightly, with the exception of rentes. The market improved somewhat later and the closing tone was barely steady.

Berlin—Prices were unsettled on the boerse early today, but the closing was sustained.

BONDS MOVE HIGHER ON SPECIALTIES' RISE

Seven-Tenths Gain Recorded in Sales Turnover of $12,904,000.

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Profit-taking flurries failed to intimidate seriously an optimistic bond market today, and, after a momentary breathing spell, the forward march was resumed.

Specialties of all categories were the leaders of the upward movement, while many of the highest grade maturities were content to rest on the side lines. Renewed strength was displayed by various foreign issues, and the majority of United States Government loans finished slightly higher after earlier uneasiness.

The trading volume, while still above normal, was somewhat under that of yesterday. Sales totaled $12,904,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate bonds advanced seven-tenth of a point.

Various reasons for the continued upswing were suggested by dealers and bankers. Among these were growing institutional purchases and increased hope for betterment in the economic field. There were also rather hazy rumors that the so-called banking "bond pool," which was formed last year, was again accumulating selected issues.

Although the outlook for the carriers is none too good at the present time, secondary rail liens attracted much of the interest of the session. Gains ranging from 1 to as much as 7 points were recorded by some loans of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Central of Georgia, Chicago & Northwestern and Rock Island.

The best of the utilities and industrials with gains of 1 to 4 or more points included bonds of American Beet Sugar, American & Foreign Power, American Waterworks, and American Writing Paper.

The Germans again jumped into the forefront of the foreign brigade, most of their bonds attaining the highest prices of the past year or more.

Silver Price Advances Seen Depending on East

New York, Jan. 9 (A.P.).—Any substantial advance of silver prices, in the opinion of the prominent bullion firm of Handy & Harman, is dependent largely upon an increased demand for the Orient.

In a lengthy review today of silver movements during 1932, when the price of the spot metal sank to a historic low on December 19, of 25¼ cents an ounce, Handy & Harman advanced a hope for some recovery in the current year.

CURB JOINS ADVANCE AFTER EARLY DROPS

Trading Favorites in Lead as Turnover Is Cut to 140,000 Shares.

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Veering from a course of irregularity, which it followed for most of the session, the Curb market experienced a brisk upswing in the last hour today. Volume was lifted appreciably by the late buying movement, though the total turnover of 140,000 shares was about 20,000 below yesterday's.

Most of the trading favorites moved ahead sharply, canceling early losses and adding from 1 to 2 points net. Such gains were made by Electric Bond & Share, Deere & Co., Aluminum Co. of America, United States Playing Card and Mead Johnson.

Utility preferred stocks of investment rating continued to improve their positions under the stimulating influence of a strong bond market on the big board. The senior stocks of Alabama Power, Northern States Power and Pennsylvania Power & Light were prominent in this movement, rising from 1 to 3 points.

Some of the utilities and industrial specialties failed to respond to the late rally and closed on the minus side. Great Atlantic & Pacific dropped 3 points and the first preferred nearly as much. American Manufacturing preferred was also soft.

Trading in oils was uneventful, though the leaders gained a little. Gulf climbed a point. The mining group was sluggish with small advances and declines about balanced.

Automobile Production Up to 102,770 Units

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Production of automobiles, including cars and trucks, in December totaled 102,770 units, compared with 61,760 in November and 123,973 in December, 1931, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce reported today in a preliminary estimate.

World Tariff Reductions Urged to Aid Business

Toronto, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, today called on all nations to make a general reduction of 10 per cent in tariffs as a means of aiding business.

"Some bold stroke of international action is required to permit of economic progress," he said, "and I suggest an early reduction of 10 per cent in every tariff in all countries, a move which should not seriously disturb the economy of each, but which might check the decline in world trade and lighten the arduous tasks confronting statesmen at the forthcoming world economic conference."

WHEAT VALUES RISE ABOVE 50-CENT LINE

Chicago, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Wheat whirled suddenly upward almost 3 cents a bushel today just before the market closed.

Alarmed by an extreme dearth of offerings that indicated a much oversold condition of the speculative wheat pit, flurried traders joined in a wild rush to buy, and stop-loss orders wholesale were forced into execution as values shot upward to 50 cents a bushel or higher for the entire list of future delivery contracts. Forecasts of a cold wave were current that suggested damage to domestic winter wheat, already at the lowest condition since Government crop reporting started in 1863.

Wheat closed strong, 2⅝ to 2⅞ cents over the day's bottom and 2 to 2½ cents above yesterday's finish; corn closed ⅜ to ⅝c up; oats ⅜@½ advanced, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

50-Cent Line Crossed.

It was the first time since just before the Presidential election that the wheat market as a whole had crossed up-bound the 50-cents-a-bushel line. Buying enthusiasts said the speculative public was beginning to recognize that wheat had been selling too cheap, and that after having been more than two years over a world level of prices there was no need for the United States to drop to that level now, with the winter wheat outlook sensationally precarious.

Contributing impetus to the late excited upward swing of values was the fact that premiums for immediate-delivery wheat continued strong, with talk heard that probabilities of political and economic developments were favorable to wheat holders.

Corn and oats followed wheat, but lagged on account of heavier offerings of corn to arrive.

Usual $100 Made On Stock of Bank

First National, New York, to Maintain Dividend of Former Years.

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—The First National Bank of New York from ordinary banking operations last year earned more than enough to cover the $100 per share annual dividend, Jackson E. Reynolds, president, informed stockholders at the annual meeting today.

The bank, which developed into one of the richest and strongest institutions in the world under the direction of the late George F. Baker, has paid regular dividends of $100 annually for the last several years.

Earnings from syndicate operations, usually a source of substantial profits, Mr. Reynolds told the stockholders, were practically eliminated in 1932 because of the greatly restricted investment business. Ordinary earnings continued "steady and dependable," he said.

COTTON PRICES GAIN ON TRADE'S BUYING

March Closes at 6.35 as General Market Rises 9 to 15 Points.

New York, Jan. 10 (A.P.).—Cotton advanced moderately today on a renewal of trade buying and covering which was stimulated by the firmness of wheat and stocks and reports of continued light offerings from the South.

Prices made new high ground for the movement with March contracts selling up from 6.12 to 6.37, or 17 points net higher, and closing at 6.35. The general market closed steady at net advances of 9 to 15 points.

Prices worked off during the early trading, July declining to 6.37 and the general list showing net losses of 6 to 10 points.

Buying Turns Active.

Buying turned more active in the late trading, July selling up to 6.62 with the general list showing recoveries of about 25 to 26 points from the low levels of the morning. The close was at or within a point or two of the best prices for the day.

Liverpool cables reported a quiet market there with the tone easier, owing to hedge selling and the continued weakness in Egyptian cotton, but said that Manchester reported a fair cloth inquiry with a steady demand for yarns. Egyptian cotton futures in the Alexandria market closed 14 to 30 points lower. Brokers with Japanese connections were credited with selling a little cotton here at the opening, but were supposed to be buying later in the day. Exports today, 28,243, making 4,447,076 so far this season. Port receipts, 40,191. United States port stocks, 4,785,541.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE 1933 AUTO MODELS.

THE new automobiles for 1933 are out and, regardless of any changes mechanically, their bodies do to last year's cars exactly what a picture of this year's debutante does to mother in an old family album.

* * * *

* * * *

* * * *

You merely have to look at the 1933 models to realize that the pedestrian will have to be more wary than ever this season.

* * * *

Once he gets smacked by a new bus it will be a matter of deep cuts rather than surface bruises.

* * * *

The 1933 chariot will cut its own way through the garage doors and if it leaves the road and hits a fence it will leave only a small clean wound.

* * * *

In a head-on collision it will be simply a question of who has the sharper car.

* * * *

And in a rear-end smashup the colliding bus will give a modern demonstration of "Sawing a Brougham in Half."

* * * *

Among the new mechanical features is "draft control." By movable side windows you are able to deflect the air currents so you won't get a cold in the neck when the car is in motion. From now on when a motorist comes home coughing it will be a sure sign he has been parking.

* * * *

Much is being said about the "improved vision" feature of the 1933 models. It wasn't quite clear to us, but we assume it enables a buyer to see his way through all twelve payments.

* * * *

And, oh, yes, here's the big sales talk feature this season, girls: The curtain on the rear window can be lowered by pressing a button! At last the automobile builders are realizing what romance has meant to the industry!

AND HE'S DOWN TO THE FIVE-BOW WEEK.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis has cut his own salary $25,000 a year. He will now be forced to struggle along on something like $750 a week for having his picture taken every few hours and refusing to get a hair cut.

LINES AFTER INSPECTING THE NEW MODELS.

I love the autos shown this year
In which such art reposes;
The cars they have such funny backs
And oh such long sharp noses!

But on the road I like them not—
I fear the slightest skid'll
Project a sharpened front at me
And part me in the middle!

Ima Dodo thinks the Ryder Cup is something won by hitch-hikers.

Joe Bigelow in "Variety" creates a character, Snake Snatchberg, a vaudeville agent, who is so hot for commissions that he charged his own children 10 per cent for letting them see Santa Claus at a department store.

And he defines a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde as a man who sells Grade A milk to kiddies by day and hootch to speakeasies by night.

Northeast Business Men Elect R. W. McCullough

Robert W. McCullough was elected president of the Northeast Business Men's Association last night. Curtis E. McCalip was named vice president; James P. Farmer, secretary, and Dr. A. A. Thompson, treasurer.

Joseph P. Bailey, Dr. B. W. Seaton, H. R. King, E. E. Shipley and John M. Beane were elected members of the executive board.

Yates, Foot Injured, Back in House Soon

Representative Richard Yates, of Illinois, will resume work within the next 10 days, it was reported yesterday. He suffered a crushed foot several days ago, when a heavy chest toppled over.

A number of small bones in Mr. Yates' foot were fractured, and since then he has been confined to his home. He was formerly Governor of Illinois and is representative at large from the State.

School Flood

Ten Feet of Water Pumped From Basement After Main Bursts.

Classes were resumed at Shepherd School, Fourteenth and Kalmia streets northwest, yesterday after bursting of a water main, which poured thousands of gallons of water into the basement of the school, had given pupils a day's respite from their studies.

More than 10 feet of water covered the central heating plant of the building, and an unfinished section of the basement was covered with tons of earth washed down from the unfinished walls.

Settling of the earth around the water main at the rear of the building caused the pipe to break. That part of the ground through which the pipe passes was filled in when the school was built to form a playground, and had not thoroughly settled before the water line was laid.

The tremendous pressure of the water tore a hole 15 feet in diameter and 5 feet deep in the ground.

Two fire department engines worked 12 hours pumping water from the basement.

MRS. NORTON ASKS BOARD GRANT PLEA IN BOXING DISPUTE

Application of Columbus U. Will Be Considered at Meeting Today.

The opinion of Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District Committee, was added to those of many others who have petitioned the Board of Education to grant permission to Columbus University to stage intercollegiate boxing bouts in McKinley Tech High School.

The application of the university will be considered this afternoon at a meeting of the board when Dean John R. Fitzpatrick, of the university, will present arguments on his request.

"The appropriations for public school activities," Representative Norton said, "contemplate the use of school facilities for recognized scholastic sports. The Columbus University boxing team, as I understand it, falls within this category. The use of public school gymnasiums has been authorized for intercollegiate sports, such as basket ball and football. I can, therefore, perceive of no legitimate reason why intercollegiate boxing should be excluded from public school gymnasiums."

Is Now Before House.

Representative Norton added, "While I am not a boxing enthusiast, the matter of amateur boxing has been before the District committee and a bill has been reported out favorably and is now before the House for action."

The request of Dean Fitzpatrick for permission to appear before the board subcommittee which is reconsidering the application was denied by the board, because it was not "in line with the practice or policy of the board to permit hearings of this character before its committees." He will be allowed, however, to appear before the board.

Request Was Refused.

The boxing issue was precipitated at the last meeting of the board two weeks ago by Henry Gilligan when he asked what decision had been given the request of the university.

Mr. Gilligan forced a disclosure that the request had been refused by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, Superintendent of Schools, and other school officials, without referring the matter to the board for discussion. Dr. Stephen E. Kramer, Assistant Superintendent of Schoools, in charge of high schools, explained yesterday that this action was taken because rules of the board forbade use of a school for such purpose.

"We did not feel," Dr. Kramer said, "that it was necessary to bring the matter before the board, because it was against the board rules. Now that it has become a community issue, it will be up to the board to decide whether to waive its rule. The question is out of the hands of the officials."

Is of Sane View.

This viewpoint is shared by the superintendent. Neither official is opposed to boxing as a sport, but they don't believe the fistic art has a place in high school activities.

Dr. Kramer is quite a boxing fan he revealed yesterday, and indulged in the sport himself as a young man. He attended a boxing match at Alexandria last week and, by a coincidence, Mr. Gilligan also was present.

A large delegation is expected to appear before the board to protest its action. It will be led by William E. Leahy, president of Columbus University, and Mr. Fitzpatrick.

Others May Appear.

Others who may appear are Representatives Norton, Clarence J. McLeod, also a member of the District committee; Fred A. Hartley, and William P. Connery; also presentatives of the Jewish Community Center, the Knights of Columbus Athletic Association and the Veterans of Foreign Wars; and John B. Colpoys, editor of the Trade Unionist, and members of P.-T. A. groups and representatives of the Public School Association.

The Front Line Post, No. 1401, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, one of the protesting groups, adopted a resolution yesterday condemning refusal of the use of the school gymnasium for boxing and requesting that this action be reconsidered "with the view of not only allowing Columbus University, but any school or university, or any lawfully organized unit, the free use of any gymnasium in any public school in Washington for the purpose of holding amateur boxing contests or any other contests that are within the law of the District of Columbia."

Monkey, Host, Hurls Pencils At Members of Congress

Owner Sends Him to Zoo After He Is Rude to Visitors in Office.

Monkeyshines will not be tolerated on Capitol Hill.

This is a new law, enacted yesterday by Representative Ralph Horr (Republican), of Washington. As a consequence the culprit, after an afternoon's amusement at the expense of dignified members of Congress, is now behind the bars wondering just what it is all about.

It started in New York City when Representative Horr received the gift of a "pet" monkey. From that time on things began to happen. In Grand Central Station the animal hit upon a new game, and when the representative indicated he didn't care to play, it made no difference.

The creature eluded Mr. Horr's watchful eyes, scampered across the concourse and clambered to the top of a lunch counter. It took an army of porters to recapture him.

But the representative finally succeeded in boarding a train with his "pet" and reached Washington. In his office at the House Office Building the monkey was placed on exhibition and visitors were called in.

Meanwhile, the new "pet" gathered all the pencils he could find and chewed off the erasers. Then, taking up a position atop a file case, he proceeded to throw the pencils at arriving guests.

This was the last straw. The monkey was bundled into an automobile and driven to the Zoo. There he was gratefully received by Headkeeper Blackburn and placed in a cage. The monkey was described as a marmoset, inhabiting South America.

It doesn't pay to "monkey" with Government officials.

REJECTION OF PEPCO PROPOSAL ON RATE FIXING SEEN LIKELY

P. U. C. Views Old Consent Decree Portion as Being Unacceptable.

The Public Utilities Commission is expected to reject the counterproposal of the Potomac Electric Power Co., submitted yesterday, that the basis suggested for fixing electric rates this year be made permanent by inclusion in the old consent decree under which rates were fixed between 1925 and 1931.

Although Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman, declined to comment on the power company's suggestion, pending a study of comparative figures, it is almost certain that the commission will not back water after gaining an initial victory in the District Supreme Court.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech, who was largely instrumental in persuading the commission to abrogate the old consent decree, had not seen the power company's letter last night, but he intimated that he would oppose any return to consent decree system on the ground that such an arrangement ties the hands of the utilities body.

Modified by Justice Luhring.

It is not unlikely that the commission will come back with a threat to conduct a valuation of the power company's properties or to arbitrarily set up a new schedule of reduced rates without recourse to any existing sliding scale.

The compromise proposal, which the commission suggested merely for the year 1932 and on account of the litigation over the modified sliding scale, provides that rates be reduced on a scheme halfway between the sum that would be made available under the consent decree and the sum that would be provided by the new sliding scale and modified by Justice Luhring.

Under the consent decree half of the company's profits in excess of 7½ per cent were devoted to rate reduction, while under the modified sliding scale the initial return is cut to 7 per cent and excess profits are applied to rate reductions on the following scale: One-half between 7 and 8 per cent, three-fourths between 8 and 9 per cent and five-sixths of all over 9 per cent.

The compromise would obviously allow the power company an initial rate of return of 7¼ per cent and would considerably reduce the earnings applied to rate reduction from the amount that would be provided by the new sliding scale.

Last year $860,000 was applied to rate cuts by a similar compromise although at that time the commission's unaltered sliding scale was utilized as one boundary instead of the scale as modified by the court.

This year the excess profits have shrunk, however, largely because of considerable additions to the rate base.

Net Operating Income.

Actual earnings have shown an increase over 1931, according to commission records, but the power company in its letter yesterday stated that its net operating income fell $69,923 in the first ten months of 1932, as compared with the previous year and that December's revenue dropped $41,000 under that of the corresponding month in 1931.

Additions to the rate base amounted to approximately $2,000,000 for the year, the power company stated.

Among other difficulties suggested yesterday to the proposal of the power company was that the District Supreme Court could hardly turn face about and approve of a revival of the old consent decree after just recently holding that rate fixing comes under authority of the Public Utilities Commission and approving, with modification, the new sliding scale.

Traction Firm Delays Start of Merger Work

Directors of the Capital Traction Co. yesterday postponed selection of a committee to begin negotiations looking toward a merger with the Washington Railway & Electric Co. pending election of a new board at a meeting of stockholders tomorrow.

Washington Railway directors, who meet this afternoon, likewise are expected to delay action until the merger bill is signed by President Hoover.

Store Owner Reaps Profit In Visit From Two Bandits

MILTON FERBER.

An attempted holdup at a small Northeast Washington grocery store last night resulted in a 15-cent cash profit for the intended victim, a hole in the intended victim's gasoline tank and a possible bullet wound for one of two colored bandits.

Two colored bandits walked into the store of Mrs. Dora Maltzer, at 628 Third street northeast. Not being recognized as bandits, the two men were waited on when one asked for a pack of cigarettes, laying a $1 bill on the counter.

When Mrs. Maltzer turned around to lay the cigarettes on the counter, one of the men was leveling a pistol at her. "Stick 'em up," he said to her and to Milton Ferber, her son-in-law, who walked in from the rear.

The other man dashed to the cash register and began to punch at the keys. Before he could open the till, a colored youth of the neighborhood, came to the door to make a purchase. Frightened, the two bandits fled.

As they went through the door, Ferber snatched a pistol from beneath the counter and rushing to the exit, began firing. He believes he shot one of the bandits, who got into a waiting taxicab.

As Ferber rushed after the robbers, one of his bullets punctured the gasoline tank of his machine parked nearby. He pursued the cab on foot and when it stopped at Seventh and G streets northeast, he saw the two men alight. They disappeared before he could catch up.

The cigarettes and the dollar bill were left, although the men took their change—85 cents. Maybe it was a good piece of business after all.

PATMAN WILL FIGHT D.C. BEER BILL TODAY

Will Seek to Have Measure Referred to Dry Unit by House Committee.

Another stormy session of the House District Committee is in prospect at 10:30 o'clock this morning, when Representative Wright Patman, dry Texas Democrat, will make an almost single-handed fight to refer the District beer-for-revenue bill to the fiscal affairs subcommittee.

Chairman Mary T. Norton, however, anticipates no difficulty in getting committee support of her action in referring the measure to the wet judiciary subcommittee.

Representative Loring M. Black, jr., (Democrat), New York, a member of both subcommittees, said he thinks there are enough wet votes on the committee to report the bill favorably now, but he favors first holding hearings.

Representative Ralph Gilbert, dry Kentucky Democrat, is chairman of the fiscal affairs group, while wet Representative Vincent L. Palmisano, Maryland, heads the judiciary subcommittee. If a quorum votes favorably to sustain Mrs. Norton, Palmisano plans to open hearings before his subcommittee tomorrow morning.

"Dog-in-Car" Tip Brings Rum Chase

Capital Police Seize Couple on Information From Pennsylvania.

Working on a lookout received from Pennsylvania authorities giving a description of an alleged rum car, occupied by a well-dressed man and woman and a white spitz dog, Policemen H. G. Bauer and C. B. Thomas last night halted the car and seized 3½ quarts of alleged liquors of the best brands.

The policemen had been waiting not more than five minutes near College Park, Md., when the car passed. They trailed it to Sixth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, where they forced it to the curb. The man and woman described themselves as Albert Nelson and Irene Dennis, both of Richmond, Va. Both were charged with transportation and possession of liquor.

Police said the liquor included such brands as Three Star Hennessey, Bobby Burns, Golden Wedding, Canadian Club and others well-known in the preprohibition era.

PAY CUT ACTION DUE FOR SENATE DELAY

Treasury-Postoffice Bill May Not Be Considered Before Friday.

While organized Federal workers marshaled forces in opposition to continued incursions on their pay, the Treasury-Postoffice appropriations bill, carrying the wage slash, originally scheduled for Senate consideration today, appeared definitely sidetracked until tomorrow or even Friday.

Senator Charles L. McNary, assistant Republican floor leader, who tried yesterday to dispose of the deficiency bill, providing emergency local relief funds, was frustrated yesterday by Senator Huey P. Long's filibuster on the Glass banking bill.

Although the latter measure remains the Senate's unfinished business, McNary will try to take up the deficiency measure today and to proceed thereafter with the Treasury-Postoffice bill. This proposes a 1 2-3 per cent additional pay cut on top of the 8 1-3 per cent furlough reduction.

Meanwhile, the executive council of the National Federation of Federal Workers, in annual session here, mapped a plan of action for opposing Senate and House approval of the Senate economy committee's recommendations.

Members of the council, representing every section of the country, planned to call today on senators from their States. The executive sessions will reach a climax tonight at a banquet at Willard Hotel, where the District Federation of Federal Employes Unions will entertain councilmen. President Luther C. Steward will speak.

At yesterday's session, members of the council expressed their thorough opposition to the economy provisions of the Treasury-Postoffice appropriations measure, pointing out that they no longer continue but emphasize sharply "unjust and inequitable" regulations of the so-called economy act.

The council decided to push the education campaign of the National Federation of Federal Employes, which seeks to bring before the American people a true picture of the practical results and fundamental implications of the current drive against the Federal wage scale and the Federal service structure.

Burglary Suspect Detained by Police

Arrest Follows Chase on Thirteenth Street to Franklin Park.

James Jones, 45, colored, no fixed address, was held by police last night in connection with the robbery of a store at 829 Thirteenth street northwest early yesterday.

James Fliakas, who happened to pass by at the time, saw a man in the store. He attempted to detain him, but the man fled. Policeman M. L. Leek pursued a man along Thirteenth street to Franklin Park.

Jones was captured in the park. A total of $11 was reported stolen from the store, but Jones had only $4 when captured.

Tunnel Worker Is Killed in Fall

Inquest Set Today in Death of Federal Heating Project Carpenter.

Falling headlong from a slippery plank bridging a cement steam tunnel at Tenth and Constitution avenue northwest, Frank Demato, 49, of Baltimore, Md., working on the construction of the duct, was almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon.

Taken to Emergency Hospital he was found to have suffered a fractured skull in the 14-foot fall. The steam tunnel is being constructed from the Federal central heating building and will supply all of the new Government buildings.

Demato, a carpenter engaged in covering the construction with planking, crossed over the tunnel and slipped from the plank bridge, which according to Detective Sergt. George Darnell, was slippery with mud deposit.

The carpenter fell, striking his head on the cement flooring of the duct. A coroner's inquest will be held at 11:30 a. m. today.

Melcher to Speak on Theater.

An address on "The Theater, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," will be given by Edward de Selding Melcher, dramatic editor of the Evening Star, before the Pierce Hall Players tonight at Pierce Hall, Fifteenth and Harvard streets northwest.

COPELAND PROPOSES BOARD TO CORRECT HOUSING CONDITIONS

Bill Would Provide Building of Modest Apartments; Deplores Slums.

A District of Columbia Housing Board, which would investigate insanitary and otherwise unfit housing conditions, and set aside areas that can be utilized for housing purposes by limited dividend corporations, was proposed yesterday in a bill introduced by Senator Royal S. Copeland (Democrat), New York.

Copeland, a member of the Senate District rent investigating subcommittee, said the bill was drafted largely to conform with the New York housing law. It would allow approved private corporations of three persons or more to erect and operate lodgings at modest rentals on property formerly occupied by insanitary structures.

Limit on Indebtedness.

The private corporations organized on approval of the board could issue securities on any one of their projects but total indebtedness could not exceed cost by more than 3 per cent. Dividends, also under board supervision, could not exceed 7 per cent on stocks and bonds. The board would have authority to fix rentals per room on lodgings erected.

The bill declared that "insanitary or otherwise unfit housing conditions which exist in certain areas of the District of Columbia are a menace to health, safety, morals, welfare or reasonable comfort of citizens."

Low Interest Rates.

Correction of this condition being otherwise impossible, the bill declares "it is essential that provisions be made to encourage the investment of private funds at low interest rates, the acquisition at fair prices of adequate parcels of land, the construction of new and the alteration of existing housing facilities under public supervision, in accordance with proper standards of sanitation and safety and at a cost which will permit monthly rentals within the means of families of low income and for the gradual demolition of existing insanitary and unsafe housing."

The board would consist of five members, including three citizens, the chairman of the Park and Planning Commission and the Engineer Commissioner. An annual appropriation of $25,000 out of District funds would be necessary to enforce the proposed housing law.

Reds Enter Protest At Chinese Legation

A protest against the imprisonment of Huang Ping, described as a Chinese labor leader, was made at the Chinese Legation yesterday by five representatives of admittedly communistic groups who said they represented 250,000 workers in this country.

Anching Kung, first secretary of the legation, answered the communists quietly, reminding them that his government had just resumed diplomatic relations with the Soviet. A police guard, not requested by the legation, was on guard on instructions of Inspector L. L. H. Edwards, assistant superintendent of police.

GAS MERGER REPORT DELAYED BY BLACK

Matter Not "Urgent," Says District Subcommittee Chairman.

The House District utilities subcommittee has decided to hold up its report on the proposed merger of the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Companies, Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, chairman, announced last night.

Black said he did not think the matter was "urgent." His subcommittee held public hearings Tuesday, but a quorum was not present and no meeting of the subcommittee has since been called.

Meanwhile, Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, who Saturday conducted a personal inspection of the Georgetown plant, said he was prepared to go before the next meeting of the Senate District committee to press for adoption of his amendment, excluding "going concern" value from any valuation of the companies' properties.

"Here is an opportunity to save for the District something like $2,500,000 in valuation attributed to 'going concern,' on which the users of gas would have to pay a return," he said.

"At 7 per cent, that might mean a saving of $175,000 a year to the local public."

He said he would present a resume of the companies' earnings since 1848 at the next Senate District committee session.

Levay Named Chairman Of Merchants' Division

Louis Levay was elected chairman of the Laundry and Dry Cleaning section of the Washington Merchants and Manufactures Association yesterday. He will represent this trade group on the board of governors of the association.

Mr. Levay has been treasurer of the association for the past 14 years and has been national councilor for the past two years. Ford Young was elected chairman of the Ice Cream Manufactures division. He has been vice president of the association for three years.

CONTRIBUTORS GET INAUGURAL CHOICES

The 60,000 contributors to the Democratic national campaign fund will have first choice of the 59,000 seats available for the inauguration of President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, as suggested by the incoming Chief Executive.

This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the executive committee of the ticket subcommittee of the inaugural committee in general headquarters in the Washington Building.

The President-elect was quoted as having expressed himself favorably toward this procedure as a "courteous and thoughtful consideration of the support given by the contributors."

The committee, composed of Dan C. Roper, chairman; Ed T. Brown, vice chairman, and Melvin D. Hildreth, will direct the mailing of 60,000 applications to all the contributors.

There has been no price scale fixed on the tickets. However, it was said by the committee, the scale will be lower than that of the last inauguration, when the cost of tickets ranged from $2 to $10. The price will be gaged by the cost of the construction of grand stands along Pennsylvania avenue and the erection of the court of honor on the Plaza.

At the first meeting of the inaugural committee, held yesterday, a program for the "greatest inaugural in the history of the country" was called for by Hugh T. Nelson.

The committee, headed by Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, his aids and personal staff, together with the chairmen of the eighteen subcommittees, met and prepared to work in earnest on details of the celebration.

Auto Armed Pair Stole Is Retrieved

Maj. West's Limousine Is Discovered Intact in Maryland.

The limousine of Maj. Parker West, deputy governor of Soldiers' Home, which was stolen at gun-point from his chauffeur, Samuel Newman, colored, while parked in front of the Wardman Park Hotel Sunday night, was found yesterday abandoned in a woods near Ritchie, Md.

Two robbers, described as young and well-dressed, forced the chauffeur from the car while he was waiting for Maj. West, who was visiting friends at the hotel. The men, both armed, ordered the chauffeur to get out "or suffer the consequences." In full view of numerous pedestrians, they leaped into the driver's seat and sped away.

When found the automobile was intact, with the exception of the substitution of 1932 tags for the 1933 tags which it bore when stolen.

TRAFFIC TOLL

To Date

Courtesy of the road extends beyond mere satisfaction of good fellowship. In giving another driver the right of way and respecting the privilege of others in driving, the safety of vehicles and pedestrians is insured.

Politeness is taken for granted at home, in business and in society, yet neglected in driving. Many drivers attempt to demonstrate the newness of their vehicles by hogging the road and beating other automobiles to the get-away, often endangering lives.

Deaths	3	2
Injuries	128	103
Accidents	220	120
